THREE PRESIDENTS OF RAILWAYS TELL TERMINAL NEEDS

ILLINOIS CENTRAL IN LUCK

NORTHWESTERN STATION A HELP

This morning THE TRIBUNE prints letters from three more railroad presidents, stating their opinions on the proper location of railroad terminals.

Mr. Worthington, head of the Chicago & Alton, while announcing that his road is not yet committed to any particular plan, gives his personal views of the situation.

Mr. Markham of the Illinois Central feels that his road is happily not involved in the present controversy and declines to take any part in it.

Mr. Gardner of the Chicago and Northwestern analyzes the situation from the standpoint of a road which has just completed a large passenger terminal and presents some interesting figures showing the amount of freight which originates and is delivered in the loop district.

BY B. A. WORTHINGTON.

[President the Chicago and Alton Railroad company.]

Answering your communication of May 21 on the subject of railroad passenger terminals for the city of Chicago:

While, as stated by Mr. Darius Miller, the executive officials of the Chicago & Alton railroad have been negotiating with the other members of the Union Station company in the hope that some mutually satisfactory adjustment might be reached, the Alton has not, up to this time, become committed to any of the several plans.

As for my personal view, to my mind the subject resolves itself into the question as to which, if any, of the plans submitted will most easily and conveniently handle the people who are to be served, having due regard to the future development of the city of Chicago both from an esthetic as well as a business standpoint. Therefore we have:

1. The future development of Chicago which, if present indications continue, probably means that this city is destined in the future to be the largest city in point of population and the greatest business center on the American continent.

2. With such a vast multitude of people to be handled daily from the railroads centering at this point, could they be as easily and conveniently handled through one large terminal, however large in volume the channel might be, as through several large terminals located within a radius of a mile or more from the business center?

3. This same reasoning applies to freight traffic.

Use of Separate Terminals.

4. Experience teaches us that we never make anything so large that it does not require future expansion to meet the growing business needs. In the event that this becomes necessary, would there not be much more elasticity to the expansion of several terminals than one large terminal, for various reasons?

5. While the eminent engineers and architects preparing these various plans have been actuated by the interests of those whom they represent, it probably is only fair to assume that they are all of equally high standing and their ability is as nearly equal as slight differences in personal equation that may exist between men prominent in any profession may account for.

With these thoughts in mind,

(a) The Chicago and Northwestern through its able representatives—who are the same gentlemen who built up this splendid property—is firm in its opinion, after an exhaustive study of this question before the erection of their present magnificent terminals, that a separate terminal for the Chicago & Northwestern railway would bring about the best results for the people whom they serve.

(b) The able representatives of the Illinois Central argue in convincing manner respecting the desirability of their present location on the lake front and it goes without saying that there is no more valuable railroad entrance to the city of Chicago than the approach held by the Illinois Central railroad.

Fairness, Equity, and Justice.

(c) Eliminating for the present the Chicago & Alton railroad, which I represent, the other lines—representing four of the principal railroads entering Chicago—have developed a magnificent plan, the ornamental features of which could scarcely be surpassed. The real estate, on which it is planned, is owned, or will be owned, in fee simple. The location is convenient to hotel and business centers and it does not interfere in any way with the future development of the city, according to the plans that have been tentatively accepted, and past experience has demonstrated that the present location will best serve the people who use these roads in and out of Chicago.

In the light of the foregoing, could we with any spirit of equity or justice recognize the claim of the Northwestern and deny the claim of the Illinois Central and of the Union Station company?

Or could we recognize the claim of the Chicago and Northwestern and the Illinois Cen-

BLOCKS EFFORT AT SQUATTING ON MRS. POTTER PALMER'S LAND

Adrian C. Honore, Brother, Has Police Drive Away Workmen Who Begin Unloading Material at Night.

Adrian C. Honoré, brother of Mrs. Potter Palmer and trustee of the Palmer estate, last night blocked an attempt of squatters to erect a building on Palmer property at Walton place in "Streeterville."

While on the Lake Shore drive, Mr. Honoré noticed a number of workmen unloading building material on the property. Lieut. Cullinane of the Chicago avenue station was notified and, with several policemen, ordered the workmen from the place. An attorney who gave the name of Sullivan showed the police a permit, but at Mr. Honoré's request the workmen were driven away and three policemen were left on guard for the night.

It is said there have been a number of recent instances where "squatters" have attempted to erect temporary buildings in "Streeterville" to aid them in their court fight for title to the property.

LOBBY ON TARIFF FACES EXPOSURE; INQUIRY ORDERED

WILSON TO OFFER FACTS

President Declares He Will Back Up His Accusations; May Name Democratic Politicians.

HOT DEBATE OVER RESOLUTION

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—The senate today voted unanimously to direct an investigation into the charge made by the president that a lobby is in Washington seeking to influence sentiment on the tariff bill.

The resolution, introduced by Senator Cummins of Iowa, was passed after more than four hours of hot debate, but after it had been amended in such a way that Senator Root and others declared it was "emasculated."

The resolution has given the Democratic leaders a great deal of trouble. They would gladly have avoided the investigation, not because they feared the disclosures, but because they realize it is likely to take up much time of the senate that might well be devoted to expediting the tariff bill.

But President Wilson showed no disposition to stand out against the investigation. On the contrary, he sent word to his party leaders that he wouold welcome the investigation and stood ready to place at their dsposal information to back up his charges.

Wilson to Supply Information.

The president avowed himself willing to supply names as well as information. When these names are disclosed, it is likely a number of Democrats will be in the list, some of them former politicians.

Early this morning Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, let it be known the Democrats would advocate the investigation, but would insist on amendments to the resolution. These amendments were made before the resolution was put on its final passage. Senator Kern, leader of the minority, proposed the principal amendment, which, after being modified by Senator Reed of Missouri and Senator Lippitt of Rhode Island, was finally adopted by a vote of 38 to 28, the Democrats voting solidly for it and the Republicans voting against it. The amended resolution was then passed without a division by a unanimous vote.

Lewis Has His Little Joke.

Senator Penrose expressed the hope that since the resolution had been modified so that senators would not be required to disclose with whom they had talked, that there would be "no shrinking" on the part of senators in the matter of furnishing information.

"No one would accuse the senator from Pennsylvania of showing any tendency towards 'shrinkage,'" piped Senator James Hamilton Lewis, the new Democratic whip, with reference to Mr. Penrose's avoirdupois.

As amended the resolution authorizes an investigation by the judiciary committee of the senate, instead of by a select committee. The committee is instructed to report within ten days the names of all lobbyists attempting to influence any such pending legislation and the methods which they have employed to accomplish their ends, and in giving the name of the lobbyist to give the particular bill upon which he is working, and if it be the tariff bill, the item he is seeking to change.

Committee to Report "Influences."

The committee is further instructed to ascertain the character of any representations made by such persons to influence legislation, the names of senators to whom they were made, the names of persons making them, and the circumstances under which they were made.

The committee is to report:

1. Whether any senator is financially or professionally interested in the production or manufacture or sale of any article or articles mentioned in said tariff bill, and if so, to what extent, or in any other legislation now pending or that has been considered during his term as a senator.

2. Whether any senator represents or is connected professionally or otherwise, directly or indirectly, with any person, firm, association, or organization engaged in the manufacture, production, or sale of any of the said articles.

The president is "respectfully invited to aid the committee in its investigation by giving to it any information in his possession with reference to the subject matter of the investigation which he considers it proper to make public.

Stock Gambling Tax Offered.

Senator Cummins introduced an amendment to the tariff bill to put a tax of 10 per cent ad valorem on sales of capital stock, shares, bonds, or other obligations of corporations, all sales of products of the soil, meats, or provisions of any character made under the regulations of any stock exchange, grain, cotton, or provision exchange, board of trade, or other such institution wherein the seller is not the owner of the property. The finance subcommittee, headed by Senator Williams, already is considering the proposed amendment.

Senator Simmons announced after a conference with the president that the 5 per cent tariff discount on imports in American ships would be stricken from the bill. Representative Underwood and other house leaders, however, are not satisfied that the discount conflicts with treaty provisions, and they are expected to make a fight to have the clause reinserted when the bill reaches conference.

ADD TO LIST OF NOISE PRODUCERS

CONDEMN BAND PRACTICE

Twenty-two varieties of racket producers were added yesterday to the already long list in the hands of the anti-noise committee of the city council.

Almost swamped with complaints, the aldermen attempted to find a remedy for one of the nuisances most emphatically condemned. This was the roar of the automobile and motorcycle exhaust.

"Cut out the cutout," was the demand made by the committee by formal action. Two letters were written on the subject. One was a request that the Chicago Automobile Trades association show cause why the device for throwing the muffler out of use should not be eliminated. The other was a request for an ordinance that would prevent a driver from using the cutout while a machine is in motion.

Kick on "Music" Practice.

Complaints of the muffler nuisance and others previously reported to the committee continued to pour in; but the members were interested by the nature of some of the new protests received. Several related to the use of a house at 5120 East End avenue for the practice of "music."

"It has been taken by twenty to forty young people," wrote Miss Olive Hunter, 5124 East End avenue, "and they have installed seven pianos on which there is constant practicing from morning to night, together with cornets, horns, and other instruments."

"There were eight pianos and numerous trunks filled with brass and other musical instruments moved in," wrote H. W. Sisson.

"It seems to be a training school for brass bands," said E. E. Amory, 5115 Cornell avenue. "There are a considerable number of instruments performing at cross purposes."

Gives Roosters' Crowing Record.

"I counted and there were 110 crows in fifteen minutes," he said, "and in another fifteen minutes there were 100 crows. In five minutes the roosters within fifty feet of my window crowed twenty times, and at times the hens are worse than the roosters. One of the rooster keepers is more of a gentleman than the others. He put his rooster in a box so it can't straighten out its neck to crow."

J. D. Adams, representing Thomas Murphy, 3435 Calumet avenue, complained of the outdoor cabaret of the Chateau and the noise of automobiles at Al Tearney's place.

"This automobile noise has been modified since the slugging we read so much about in THE TRIBUNE," he said, "but he is a nuisance per se.—Al Tearney is."

Flee from Popcorn Man.

"You have to go to the middle of Jackson park to get away from the awful whistle of the popcorn man," wrote George M. Dunham, 523 West Sixty-second street.

"The balloon man's horn and the scissor grinder's bell are maddening," said an anonymous letter.

"A whole string of milk wagon men at five minute intervals shout 'Whoa,' and then jump up the stairs," said L. E. Starr, 921 Lafayette parkway.

"That screen door bangs like a pistol," said Oliver E. Ender, 2711 Osgood street.

No Balm in Gilead?

"Harry Lauder's voice is bad enough, but on a graphophone! Is there no balm in Gilead?" asked Gertrude L. Stern, 68 East Sixty-fifth street.

"Automobile joy riders make a perfect pandemonium," complained Charles B. Weeks, 5545 Evanston avenue.

"The howling, screeching mob of peddlers tells you to go chase yourself," related "Mrs. A. M."

"I've been working for fourteen years to stop the railroad whistle noise, but there's nothing doing," said Robert M. Wells, 3800 Michigan avenue.

E. G. Felsenthal promised to investigate the automatic organ that plays on the merry-go-round at a south side amusement park, and relief from boat whistles on the river was predicted by Harbormaster Monahan.

WOMAN PLUNGES TEN FLOORS TO DEATH FROM SKYSCRAPER.

Mrs. Bruno H. Belz of Hinsdale Dives from Window of Masonic Temple—Body Falls in Alley.

Mrs. Bruno R. Belz of Hinsdale last night threw herself from the tenth floor of the Masonic temple to the alley at the east side of the big building, a few feet from the Randolph street stream of pedestrians. The woman was killed instantly. The body was identified through a physician's card found in a handbag.

Shortly after 6 o'clock, when most of the occupants of the skyscraper had left, Morris Patrick of 3016 West Twelfth street, an elevator operator, saw the woman roaming about the corridor on the nineteenth floor, glancing occasionally into the deep pit, where there have been several suicides in recent years. He called to her sharply and she asked where there was a lavatory. He directed her to the tenth floor.

Scrubwomen say Mrs. Belz walk into the room with two other women. In a few minutes the two walked out. Mrs. Belz did not. Mrs. S. Tangley, an employé of the building, finally walked into the room and found a handbag on the radiator. The window was open.

Mrs. Tangley peered out just as Detective Thomas McAndrews and Patrolman John Phelan of Central station ran into the alley from Randolph street and stooped over a still heap on the pavement.

Dr. Carl Anderson, who has offices in the Temple, ordered the body taken to the Eastern Casket company, a few doors away. There search disclosed the card of Dr. W. Fradsham, 718 West Sixty-third street. He was telephoned a few minutes after Belz, alarmed because his wife had not returned to Hinsdale, had called him to learn what he knew of Mrs. Belz's whereabouts.

"Belz brought her here a short time ago and she had since mad three calls for treatment," said the physician. "I did not talk with her much, but she seemed to be sound mentally."

Belz, who is one of the family operating cleaning and dyeing establishments through the western suburbs, hurried into town. As he saw the body he swooned across it and was not revived for several minutes. He could find no explanation for the suicide except depression over illness. Mrs. Belz was only 22 years old. She had one child.

WIFE OF POLICEMAN SHOOTS INTOXICATED MAN IN BREAST.

Mrs. Harry Brown, Given Revolver by Bluecoat Husband, Uses It to Protect Her Daughter.

When some one tried to break into the residence of Patrolman Harry Brown of West Lake street, at 1508 West Austin avenue, Wednesday night, Mrs. Brown became frightened and her husband gave her a revolver to protect the house in his absence.

Last night an intoxicated man accosted 14 year old Virginian Brown at the gate. She ran into the house and told her mother. An hour later the fellow returned and walked into the yard. Mrs. Brown walked out with her new revolver.

"Get out," she said.

The man advanced. She pointed her revolver leisurely, fired into the ground a foot in front of him, and again advised him to leave. He ran toward her and she fired into the ground again. Then as he seized her shoulder she fired into his breast and he ran screaming to the street, where he collapsed. He was taken to the county hospital, where he said he was Peter Stanley Swick, 822 Ayers court. He appears to be badly hurt. The policeman's wife is held.

BREAKS BOTTLE ON CLUB MEMBER

Illinois Athletic Waiter Resents Request of M. G. Forbes for Service Change.

VICTIM IN HOSPITAL.

M. G. Forbes, life member of the Illinois Athletic club, was struck over the head with a water bottle while in the grill room of the club last night. He spent the night unconscious at the Post Graduate hospital, with two deep gashes in his scalp and a dislocated arm.

Harry Hale, the waiter who struck the blow, was arrested at his residence, 418 North State street, by Detectives O'Keefe and Monahan. He was lodged at the detective bureau under a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Mr. Forbes, who is western manager for Lucius Beebe & Sons Leather company, says the altercation followed his complaint about the waiter's service. He had asked for a change in waiters.

Waiter Tells of "Vile Name."

Hale, in a statement to his friends in the kitchen before he escaped from the club, said he had struck the blow because Forbes had called him a vile name.

Forbes was dining in the club grillroom with Oliver M. Levy, 1480 West Kedzie avenue. Hale was waiting upon Forbes and his guest. Forbes complained about the way the dinner was being served. He asked that his sliced cucumbers be served with ice.

Levy said the waiter became abusive and, used such expression as "I got your number" and "cheap skate." Mr. Forbes resented the remarks of the man who was supposed to be serving him.

Hale says at this point he heard the remark he objected to. Friends of Forbes denied any epithets had been used by Forbes.

Down Comes the Bottle.

Hale picked up a filled water bottle from the next table and brought it down twice on Forbes' head, as Forbes was sitting. At the second blow the glass water bottle broke.

Forbes staggered up and clinched with the waiter. Blows were exchanged and both men went to the floor. Clubmen and waiters rushed to the struggling pair and pulled them apart. Forbes was bleeding from the gashes in his head and his left arm hung limp at his side.

He was attended by Dr. R. W. Hardon, 5406 Michigan avenue, and rushed in an automobile to the Post-Graduate hospital, where late at night an X-ray picture was taken of his wounds. His condition was reported as serious.

Waiter Escapes Club.

Hale went to the kitchen, changed his clothes, and even stopped to collect the money coming to him. He left the club by the servants' exit in the alley. Apparently no attempt was made to stop him.

Hale was arrested on the street near his house.

Crowd Demands Prisoner Held for Slaying Railroad Man—Disperses When Told He Has Been Removed.

Council Bluffs, Ia., May 29.—A mob numbering several hundred persons, intent on lynching Henry Wiley, charged the county jail late tonight, but when the leaders were told that Wiley had been sent out of town, began to disperse.

Wiley, who is an Italian, is charged with having murdered Howard Jones, a locomotive fireman, last Tuesday night.

The mob, apparently unsatisfied, began a hunt for Wiley, although a large number remained in the vicinity of the jail.

TWO GRAND JURIES; TWO PROSECUTORS; TWO JUDGES CLASH

COOPER BRINGS ON CRISIS

ALL BRISTLE WITH DENUNCIATION

Judge William Fenimore Cooper yesterday awarded Cook county the belt as the champion investigator of the world when he announced his decision to appoint a special grand jury and a special state's attorney to investigate alleged frauds in the election of November, 1912.

This lands Cook county in first place with three state's attorneys and three grand juries. One is the regular grand jury and the regular (or irregular, according to the point of view) state's attorney, Maclay Hoyne. A second is the special state's attorney, Clyde L. Day, and his special grand jury, appointed by Judge George Kersten to investigate alleged frauds in connection with the election of the state's attorney.

This investigating body claims license to operate by reason of a petition of the state's attorney whose right to the office is in question.

The last, or Cooper, special grand jury and state's attorney come into being because the court asserts that otherwise Cook county may not have an honest investigation of election frauds.

Financial Sparks Due Today.

The sparks probably will fly today, when the county finance committee holds a special meeting to consider the question of financing the investigation.

E. M. Board, president of the committee, who incidentally absolves himself from partisan interest by citing his election to office on the Progressive ticket, indicated the Cooper investigation will be given the right of way in the following language:

"The idea of a state's attorney having a particular friend of his appointed to make an investigation of fraud in the election of a state's attorney is highly repugnant. The procedure was the most undignified, nervy, and damnably outrageous thing that has occurred since I have been a member of the board.

"I for one have no intention of voting money for any investigation in which I do not think the public will have confidence."

Other members of the board said they favored Judge Cooper because he had jurisdiction of the question first.

Cooper Criticises Hoyne in Ruling.

"Narrow, limited, farcical," are some of the terms used by Judge Cooper in the decision creating the new body. In the course of this the court said:

"The conduct of the state's attorney herein was, to say the least, most reprehensible," and "it is very evident to me from the records of the court (Judge Kersten's) that a brother judge has been imposed upon by the state's attorney."

That blood is at boiling point on the other side is indicated by a statement in the evening in which Hoyne laid the Cooper action at the door of the "traction and crime trusts."

"Who is urging on the Hard Losers' club?" he asks. Then he replies, "It is the history in this county that whenever a public prosecutor attacks lobbyists, bribe givers, crooked lawyers, and go-betweens, and the rank of agents one step above, that he shall meet with attack secretly by them and by their newspaper allies, and be denounced as an anarchist and a demagogue."

Balk at Kersten Grand Jury.

Lewis Rinaker, Republican candidate, and William Cunnea, Socialist candidate for state's attorney, both of whom contest Mr. Hoyne's right to his office, have refused to go before the Kersten grand jury. It is the paucity of witnesses to alleged frauds that has left the Kersten grand jury and four prosecutors with nothing to do but meet, shake hands, and adjourn during the last few days.

Monday may bring a climax when Rinaker and Frank Ayres, his counsel, will refuse to testify before the Kersten grand jury. They may then expect to be cited for contempt. This will provoke the question as to which special grand jury has jurisdiction. The point may go all the way up to the Supreme court for decision.

Special State's Attorney Day indicated his intention to proceed by asking and receiving permission from County Judge Owens to have the ballots and the records of the last election brought before his grand jury. The court granted this request.

Election Board Pushes Inquiry.

While the grand jury was the center of attraction, the election board investigation of election frauds made its first real progress. The mysterious "night automobile" which was said to have spread the news that Hoyne was losing and needed help was located as having been in the Eleventh ward.

"Rudolph Sabath," said to be a brother of Congressman A. J. Sabath, chairman of the H.-H. county committee, was named as the man in charge of the machine.

Direct testimony of the marking of ballots for Hoyne in the First and Eleventh wards was given by witnesses who were examined by Commissioner Czarnecki.

Judge Cooper's Decision.

When the judge began reading his decision he reviewed the entire proceedings in his court. His decision in full follows:

"At the general election held in Cook county, Ill., on Nov. 5, 1912, various national, state, and county offices were voted for, each and all of the recognized political parties of the country being represented on

Hoyne Case Status Told by Cooper

THE special grand jury appointed on the Hoyne petition by force of circumstances has been unable and evidently will be unable to accomplish anything. This court has waited patiently for the sole purpose of giving it a chance to make a record. It is now time to act.

The statutes give the judge the right to call a special grand jury when he shall be of the opinion that public justice requires it. The law says the court can appoint a special state's attorney, when the state's attorney is interested in any civil or criminal proceedings which it is or may be his duty to prosecute or defend. The records of this court, by an order which was entered on his petition, judge him to be personally interested therein, so any contention on that point has already been adjudicated against him.

The conduct of the state's attorney herein, to say the least, was most reprehensible, and one that should not be passed unnoticed. It is due to the people that those who may have intrusted officially their confidence do no act that is not open and above board or which would in the least wise tend to destroy their trust and confidence.

Officials of every character who are right and honest prefer investigations and know they will stand better with the people by reason of the result of it, while those who are dishonest and who have betrayed the people should be investigated.

It is very evident to me from the records of the court (Judge Kersten's)—and I say it most regretfully—that a brother judge has been imposed upon by the state's attorney.

Hoyne Attacks "Crime and Traction Trusts."

State's Attorney Hoyne issued a statement last evening, laying Judge Cooper's appointment of a special grand jury to the "crime and traction trusts." In part, it follows:

"Who passed the hat to defray the expenses of a special grand jury? I am going to engage in no newspaper or other discussion from now on. I will make no further reply to Judge Cooper's abuse. I have given out my letter of Feb. 17 and the history of some other conflicts between Judge Cooper and this office in order to show the public the real reason why Judge Cooper seems willing to bind himself to my political enemies by the making of verbal attacks upon me in and out of court.

"I will call attention to the transcript of the remarks of Judge Cooper on May 20 when he first learned Judge Kersten had appointed a special state's attorney. Judge Cooper then said he was satisfied. What has occurred since to dissatisfy him I do not know.

"Who is behind this badgering and hectoring of the state's attorney's office? Who really is urging on the Hard Loser's club? Who is advancing the money to defray the expenses of this continued litigation? Who is the gentleman who recently passed the hat for contributions? Who are some of the gentlemen recently applied to for contributions to continue the Rinaker-Cunnea plan of campaign? Who are the real counsel advising the agents who appear in court? What are their motives and grievances?

"Before leaving office I will answer some of these questions. I have signed another quo warranto proceeding against a railroad company, and so I suppose another outbreak may be expected any time. The crime trust and the traction trust are not going to drive me from the field by the style of tactics which they have adopted and seem disposed to continue.

"There are a number of people in this city who aspire to the mantle of Yerkes, who seem to believe their underground activities in the field of politics leave no traces and no footprints which the public can follow. It is the history in this county that whenever a public prosecutor or any other officer attacks lobbyists, bribegivers, crooked lawyers, and go-betweens, and the rank of agents one step above, that he shall meet with attack secretly by them and publicly by their newspaper allies, and be denounced as an anarchist and demagogue. I am neither, and in my private practice, like any other lawyer, have depended upon solid business for my income and livelihood."

the official election ballot, by reason of which each and every candidate was entitled to have every vote cast for him counted and honestly returned.

"There were four candidates for the office of state's attorney of Cook county: Maclay Hoyne, Lewis Rinaker, William A. Cunnea, and George I. Haight. The returns of the election on this office were made the subject of a contest in our courts, with the result that Mr. Hoyne's plurality of 14,931 on the official count was cut on a recount to a plurality of 5,603—a difference of over 9,000 votes.

"The reports of the recount on the vote as it progressed in the courts became a matter of common knowledge and general talk and the confidence of our people that our elections were being honestly conducted and returned was much disturbed thereby.

Grand Jury Charged to Inquire.

"On the assembling of the May term grand jury this court especially charged the grand jury as to its duty to investigate into the reported frauds and irregularities of the said election, and State's Attorney Hoyne had official notice of the frauds and irregularities alleged and of the duty imposed upon the said grand jury by the court.

"This grand jury was impaneled and so charged on May 12, 1913. No official recognition having been given by Hoyne to the charge of the court instructing the grand jury to investigate said election frauds and irregularities, and he having made no suggestion as to procedure therein, on May 19, 1913, on the convening of this court, Frank D. Ayers, one of the petitioners' attorneys, presented a petition reciting extensively and specifically frauds and irregularities in a very large number of the election precincts of the city, and prayed for the appointment of a special state's attorney to present evidence of the same to the then sitting May term grand jury.

Petition Ordered Amended.

"The court, after considering the petition, directed it to be amended so as to pray for the ordering of a special grand jury to consider such evidence for the reason that the life of the May term grand jury would expire in a few days and that it would be a waste of time under all these circumstances so to proceed. The court also directed that State's Attorney Hoyne be served with notice of the amended petition.

"The petition for a special state's attorney was promptly amended as directed by the court, so that it also prayed for the appointment of a special grand jury for the purpose named.

"As directed by the court, at about 4 o'clock p. m. State's Attorney Hoyne was in his office served with a copy of the petition as amended and a notice in writing the petition would be called up before Judge Cooper in his court on Tuesday, May 20, 1913, at 10 a. m., which notice was receipted for by the state's attorney in person. Mr. Hoyne also had personal notice of the pendency of the petition from several unofficial sources.

"After service of the said notice on Mr. Hoyne, the aid of the petitioners who served the notice on Mr. Hoyne went to Judge Cooper's court and so informed the judge and his court clerk and asked to have the petition motion put on the motion book to be called in regular order on the morning of May 20.

Accuses Hoyne of Scheming.

"After receiving notice of the pendency of said petition in Judge Cooper's court State's Attorney Hoyne evolved a scheme to defeat the rights of the petitionrs, Rinaker et al., and, pursuant to his scheme, framed a petition for the appointment of a special state's attorney and a special grand jury, in which last petition he admitted the fact that he had been served with notice of the proceedings by Rinaker et al. before Judge Cooper; also the fact that he was personally interested in the result of the said election by reason of being a party to a contested election proceeding in reference to his office as state's attorney pending in the Circuit court.

"Without notice to Rinaker, Cunnea, and Haight, and regardless of the jurisdiction of the subject matter and of all parties thereto which Judge Cooper had obtained, Mr. Hoyne, before the convening of Judge Cooper's court on the morning of May 20, secured the appointment of a special state's attorney, as suggested by him, and the calling of a special grand jury.

May Grand Jury Already at Work.

"At the time of securing the order for the latter, the regular May term grand jury which Judge Cooper had charged with such investigation was in session and operation and was charged with this duty.

"The conduct of the state's attorney herein, to say the least, was most reprehensible and one that should not be passed unnoticed. It is due to the people that those whom they have intrusted officially with their confidence do no act that is not open and aboveboard, which would in the leastwise tend to destroy their trust and confidence.

"We are the servants of the people, and instead of endeavoring to thwart and suppress their rights we should assist them promptly in any desired investigation and should throw open to them the doors of every public office for the most scrutinizing investigation if they desire it.

Brother Judge Imposed On.

"It is evident to me, from the records of the court—and I say it most regretfully—that a brother judge has been imposed upon by the state's attorney.

"While the petition which was filed by the state's attorney expressed itself to be a petition for the appointment of a special state's attorney and a special grand jury 'to prosecute such person or persons who may be guilty of criminal acts pertaining to and incident to said election,' and 'for the purpose of investigating the frauds and irregularities alleged to have been committed at said election,' yet the order of the court which was signed by the judge appointing a special grand jury and attorney to investigate, and which was evidently prepared in the state's attorney's office, is limited in its authority of investigation 'of any and all persons against whom there shall appear to be just and reasonable ground to establish guilt of criminal offenses committed in and about the casting of ballots and the counting of votes for state's attorney at said election.'

"An investigation limited solely to the election of the state's attorney will not satisfy the petitioners, Rinaker et al., this court, or the people, all of whom are interested parties and who are entitled to have some say herein.

'Would Make Investigation Farcical.'

"It does not take a judge or a lawyer to see that the scope of the order entered is so narrow and limited that an investigation confined to it would be farcical in its result.

"In addition to this, certain errors of law intervene in the proceedings under the Hoyne petition which make the special grand jury then called not a legally constituted body.

"The special grand jury appointed on the Hoyne petition by force of circumstances has been unable and evidently will be unable to accomplish anything. This court has waited patiently for the sole purpose of giving it a chance to make a record. It is now time to act. The exigency of the situation and the rights of the people demand a full, complete, and unrestricted investigation of any and all crimes and offenses against the ballot and of any and all crimes and offenses against the people's rights in the conduct of election affairs and of all the people's incidental rights therein.

Power of Judge Under Statute.

"The statutes give the judge the right to call a special grand jury when he shall be of opinion that public justice requires it. The law says the court can appoint a special state's attorney 'when the state's attorney is interested in any civil or criminal proceedings which it is or may be his duty to prosecute or defend.' The records of this court by an order which was entered on his petition adjudge him to be 'personally interested' therein, so any contention on that point already has been adjudicated against him.

"A special grand jury is ordered returnable before me Friday, June 6, 1913, at 10 o'clock a. m. The prayer for a special state's attorney is allowed, and an order appointing him to be entered later. Any other phase or angle of this proceeding not now disposed of is held under further consideration."

Kersten Defends His Action.

Judge Kersten had no comment to make, except to defend his appointment of a special grand jury at the request of Mr. Hoyne.

"I think I followed the law in doing so," he said. "From the evidence presented to me there was nothing pending before Judge Cooper. The petition was presented to me in legal form and when I was satisfied there was nothing before Judge Cooper I granted the prayer of the petition. If there had been anything pending before Judge Cooper I would not have taken the step I did."

"Will two grand juries investigate the same subject matter?" was asked.

"I will let Judge Cooper answer that," replied Judge Kersten.

May Ignore Day-Kersten Grand Jury.

That the Day-Kersten grand jury will receive scant consideration when it seeks funds from the county board was indicated by the interviews given out by individual members. E. M. Board, chairman of the finance committee, Commissioners Anderson, Kuflewski, Gard, and Maloney announced themselves as favoring recognition for the Cooper body.

Mr. Board's statement follows:

"The procedure in the calling of the first special grand jury and special state's attorney was the most undignified, nervy, and damnably outrageous thing which has occurred since I have been a member of the board. The whole procedure was disgusting. The idea of a state's attorney having a particular friend of his appointed to make an investigation of fraud in the election of the state's attorney was highly repugnant.

"I have been unable to find even one redeeming feature about the whole procedure. Even the attitude of Mr. Day, the friend of Mr. Hoyne, in asking for money with which to carry on an investigation gave the impression that he thought that every one in town was tickled silly because he was appointed and that we would, without having the slightest bit of accurate or reliable information before us, vote him all the money he requested.

Says Day Asked $100 a Day Salary.

"We asked Mr. Day how much salary or compensation he thought would be right for him and he replied about $100 a day. I have been informed it would be illegal to appropriate any such sum, as the State Supreme court has decided a special state's attorney shall not receive more compensation than the state's attorney himself.

"We asked Mr. Day how many assistants he wanted and he was uncertain on that point. We asked him the qualifications of the men he desired as his assistants, or their names, that we might judge of their qualifications. He said that he did not know who he intended to appoint. It is interesting for persons to suppose the county board will agree to vote money without any definite or reliable information, but it is not according to my idea.

"I, for one, have no intention of voting money for any investigation in which I do not think that the public will have any confidence. There is no good reason for an investigation unless the public will be satisfied wtih the results obtained.

Favors "Fair Investigation."

"I have no objection to any fair investigation of anything connected with county affairs and will give any reasonable aid I can for such inquiries whenever it is deemed wise that such inquiries should be held.

"I do not care to make any definite statement relative to what I would be willing to do on a request from another judge for money with which to make an investigation. When the request arrives it will be given careful consideration."

"I think that Mr. Board's characterization of the procedure of the first inquiry is all that he said and then some," added Commissioner Gard.

"I would not favor giving any money for an investigation such as was and is proposed by the state's attorney," said Commissioner Anderson. "It gives no indication that it would be of value to the public. Why should the public foot the bills?"

"We will stick with Judge Cooper," said Commissioner Kufflewski.

"I am inclined to favor Judge Cooper," said Commissioner Burg, "because he has the matter in his hands first.

Commissioners Coonley, Fitzgerald, and Ragan refused to place themselves on record, but privately indicated they favored Cooper.

Day Issues Statement.

Mr. Day, after appearing before Judges Owens and Baldwin and asking for the records and ballots of the November election, issued the following statement of his position:

"My appointment as special state's attorney devolves upon me a duty to aid and direct the special grand jury which is conducting an investigation of violations of the law in connection with the election of the state's attorney.

"Notwithstanding the action of Judge Cooper, I shall proceed steadfastly in the performance of my duty as special state's attorney until as full and complete an investigation as the special grand jury now impaneled can make has been completed, and until I shall be duly relieved by order of the court appointing me.

"I have today served notice on the attorneys for the parties interested in the recount proceedings that I will apply on Monday to Judge Baldwin, under whom such proceedings have progressed, for an order directing the election commissioners and others charged by law with the custody of the ballot boxes, ballots, voting machines, and the contents thereof, to produce for inspection by the special grand jury any and all ballot boxes, ballots, and voting machines and the contents thereof, when the same shall be called for by me as special state's attorney."

Judge Cooper refused to give any indication as to whom he will name as special state's attorney.

"I want to get a big man—a man whose honesty is unquestioned and who has no ties in politics or friendship in the matter," he said.

A report which started in the office of State's Attorney Hoyne was that Judge Cooper was considering the name of Joseph Kelly, who was the Sullivan candidate against Hoyne in the primaries. This was denied at once by the court. The names of John Barton Payne, W. W. Wheelock, and former State's Attorney J. J. Healy were among those most mentioned as being under consideration.

Former Attorney General Stead also was discussed as a possibility.

Gives Out Letter to Judge Smith.

When Mr. Hoyne heard of Judge Cooper's ruling, he ordered his stenographer to give out a copy of a letter he wrote to Judge Ben M. Smith, chief justice of the Superior court, on Feb. 17, after the breach between Hoyne and Judge Cooper in the case of "Bobbie" Burke, secretary of the county Democracy. The substance of the letter has been printed before. It charges Judge Cooper with being unfair to Hoyne's assistants and even insulting them. Hoyne upbraided the jurist because he ordered the case against Burke to go to trial and overruled the demand of Assistant State's Attorney Frank Johnston Jr. for a delay.

The letter asked Judge Smith to transfer Judge Cooper from the Criminal court because the state's attorney's office could not otherwise do its duty for the people. Hoyne also threatened to make up his calendar so Judge Cooper would not have any cases to try if he remained in the Criminal court.

Judge Cooper Comments.

Judge Cooper said the probable reason why Hoyne's assistants believed they were insulted was because he had ruled out certain things they tried to introduce as evidence in the trial of cases.

"The facts in the Burke case are too well known to the public for me to go into them again," he declared. "The statutes provide that an accused person shall have immediate trial, and under that statute attorneys for Burke asked for trial. There was only one reason offered by the state's attorney's office for a delay and that was because there was a proceeding in chancery pending in which Burke was involved. Persons familiar with the movements of courts of chancery know it would be several years before that case could be settled."

'WEEDS' ATTORNEY'S 'LEATHER' WHILE PAL IS BEING TRIED.

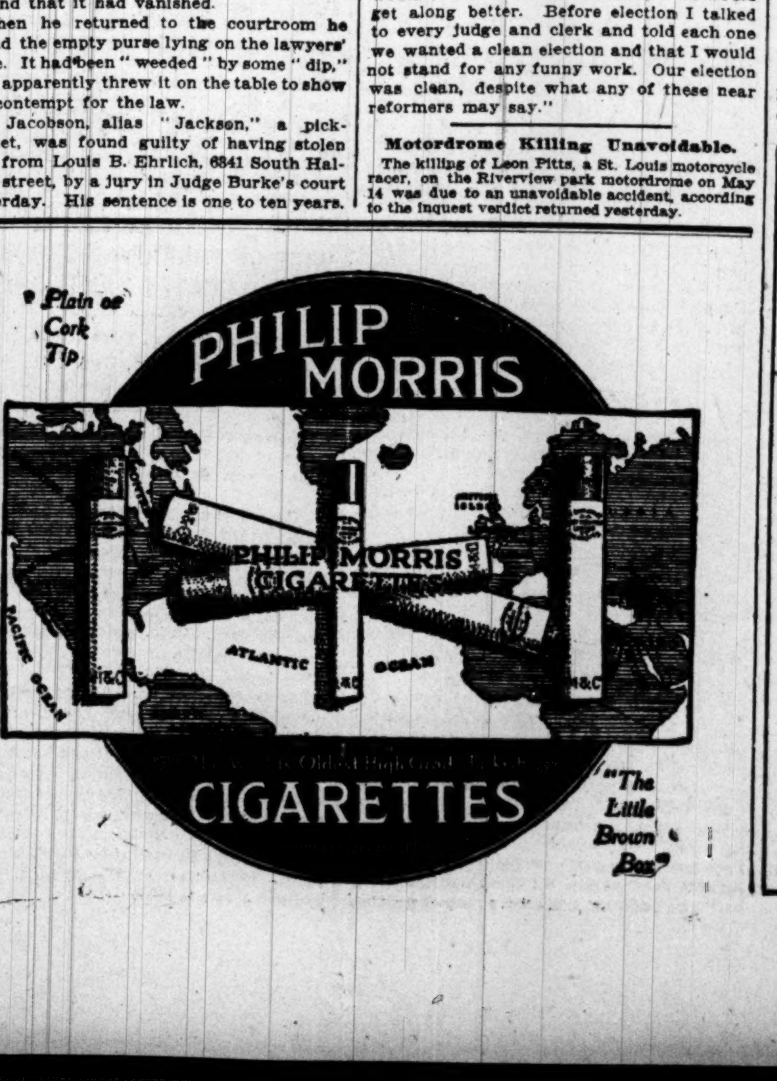
Hayden C. Bell Has Sad Experience with Pickpocket During Prosecution of Notorious Light Fingered Gentry.

Assistant State's Attorney Hayden C. Bell was robbed of his pocketbook containing $15 yesterday while he was prosecuting "Eddie" Jackson and Harry Britton two notorious "dips," in Judge Richard E. Burke's court.

The prosecutor did not discover his loss until after he had invited a friend to have luncheon with him. After partaking of the meal Mr. Bell reached into a hip pocket of his trousers for his purse, but was shocked to find that it had vanished.

When he returned to the courtroom he found the empty purse lying on the lawyers' table. It had been "weeded" by some "dip," who apparently threw it on the table to show his contempt for the law.

Al Jacobson, alias "Jackson," a pickpocket, was found guilty of having stolen $104 from Louis B. Ehrlich, 6341 South Halsted street, by a jury in Judge Burke's court yesterday. His sentence is one to ten years.



NAMES ELECTION NIGHT RIDER

L. V. Roeder Tells of Mysterious Autoist Who Backed Hoyne.

BROTHER OF CONGRESSMAN?

Asserts Man Said He Was Rudolph Sabath; Relative Denies.

The first trace of the mysterious "night rider" who is said to have scurried over Chicago on election night and spread the word that "Hoyne was losing and that something must be done for him" was found yesterday by the election board. Lee V. Roeder, Democratic committeeman in the Fourth precinct of the Eleventh ward, told of meeting the man.

According to Roeder, the mysterious stranger gave his name as "Rudolph Sabath," and after giving his warning hurried away in an automobile.

This and definite charges of the marking of ballots for Hoyne in the First and Eleventh wards marked the day's progress in the investigation of frauds by the election commissioners.

As a result of the testimony Commissioner Czarnecki will call in judges and clerks from the suspected precincts and send them before Judge Owens of the County court.

Roeder's Story of "Night Rider."

Roeder's testimony regarding the "night rider" was as follows:

"On election night I was in the precinct polling place when a man came in and asked for Mr. Roeder. I spoke to him and he said he wanted to go outside and talk to me alone. We went and he said: 'Hold out the returns on Hoyne and do all you can for him.' I said, 'Who are you?' and he answered: 'Rudolph Sabath.' Then he jumped into his auto and rode away."

Regarding fraud charges Roeder told of seeing a pile of straight ballots on the table being mixed up with scratched ballots.

"Several were marked straight Republican in ink and had crosses before Hoyne's name in pencil," he said. "It was plain to any one with common sense and eyesight the ballots had been 'doctored' for Hoyne."

Howard G. Wade, 940 Alexander place, a Progressive watcher in the Tenth precinct of the First ward, testified that a number of straight Republican ballots were "doctored" for Hoyne during the count on election night.

McInerney Warns Roeder.

The Roeder charges caused great uneasiness in the H-H headquarters and City Prosecutor James S. McInerney issued a statement telling Roeder to "watch out."

"He was at the Briggs house once during the campaign," said McInerney, "and as I knew him as a Sullivan man, I told him to get out. When he makes charges like these he had better watch out or something will happen to him. There was no automobile sent out from our headquarters on election night and I have testified so under oath."

Rudolph Sabath, a brother of Congressman Sabath and Judge Sabath, was in Indianapolis yesterday for the auto races. He went there with Morris Sabath, another brother. The congressman, however, ridiculed the idea that his brother had driven the "night rider" car.

"My brother was at my home all evening on election night," said Congressman Sabath, chairman of the H-H county committee. I am certain he was not riding about the city on election night. Roeder was either dreaming or was suffering from some other ailment."

Kenna Calls First Ward "Pure."

Ald. Kenna appeared before Commissioner Czarnecki and indignantly defended the fair name of the First ward as being as "pure as the driven snow politically."

"If some of these would-be reformers would leave us alone," he said, "we would get along better. Before election I talked to every judge and clerk and told each one we wanted a clean election and that I would not stand for any funny work. Our election was clean, despite what any of these near reformers may say."

WIRELESS AGAIN AVERTS DISASTER

Brings Prompt Rescue to American Liner Wrecked on Rocks in Dense Fog.

VESSEL TOWED TO LAND.

Lives of Nearly 1,000 Passengers on the Haverford in Peril for a Time.

QUEENSTOWN, May 29.—The American line steamer Haverford, which sailed yesterday from Liverpool for Philadelphia with 134 cabin and 850 steerage passengers aboard, went on the rocks westward of Cork's Head this afternoon in a dense fog.

The wireless again demonstrated its efficiency. By its aid what might have been a disaster was converted into a mere accident. Within a few minutes the ship was in communication with Queenstown. Its position and needs were explained.

First aid in the form of great tugs which ply between the port and passing liners with passengers and mails were going to the rescue as fire engines respond to an alarm.

Before dusk all the passengers with light luggage, had been brought to this harbor. The company arranged to forward them to their destination. When the last passenger was taken off there was fifteen feet of water in the forehold of the vessel.

Vessel Towed to Harbor.

Most of the passengers thought the position of the Haverford was hopeless because of the big hole in the forward compartment, but shipping men are more optimistic.

The steamer, however, was pulled off the rocks by tugs at midnight and towed here. It is anchored outside the harbor.

The admiralty station received the first message of distress. This it transmitted immediately to the American line office and at the same time dispatched the big government tugs Hellespont and Stormcock to the liner's assistance.

The company's Queenstown agents soon afterward sent three of the Clyde Shipping company's tugs, which with the tender and tugs carrying eighty Irish passengers who expected to board the Haverford already on the way, soon arrived at the scene of the accident. Thus the stranded vessel in a short time was surrounded by a small fleet.

Prompt Rescue of Passengers.

There was considerable anxiety aboard the American liner, as it was shrouded in the densest fog, but nothing resembling a panic.

The officers, however, wasted no time and had 400 of the passengers aboard the tugs before the Hellespont and Stormcock hove in sight. The latter soon took off the remainder. The transfer was made in perfect order.

Quarters were found here for the shipwrecked people, the cabin passengers being housed at the large hotels and the steerage passengers in the smaller hostelries. The captain and crew remained on the ship.

The Haverford was built in 1901. It suffered from a serious explosion on board at Liverpool in July, 1906, when twelve were killed and forty injured.

HEAT FELLS FIFTY IN PARADE

PARENTS BECOME FRANTIC.

Weep and Fight Police to Reach Hospital Tent and Victims.

Des Moines, Ia., May 29.—[Special.]—Ten minutes after 10,000 Des Moines grade school children had marched in a pageant parade before 25,000 cheering spectators, who crowded the grandstands and arena of Drake university this afternoon preparatory for the annual folk game festival, more than fifty were stricken by the heat and placed in a temporary hospital tent. The thermometer registered 96 degrees.

A hitch in the arrangements, which kept thousands of the children waiting two hours in the stifling street cars, was responsible for their collapsing when unloaded and started in the blistering sun to march around the stadium track.

Festival Called Off.

Realizing the situation, Z. C. Thornburg, supervisor of grades, ordered the festival called off.

At the emergency tent frantic mothers, fathers, and relatives fought to identify the victims.

The hospital tent had been equipped for any emergency, and this fact probably saved the lives of several of the more serious cases. Physicians and nurses from the crowd cared for the heat victims until added medical help came from the city.

Kansas Heat Records Broken.

Kansas City, Mo., May 29.—Heat records for the month of May in this part of the country were broken today when the mercury climbed above the hundred mark in most parts of Kansas. Western Missouri sweltered under only slightly lower temperatures.

Leavenworth and Ellsworth reported 107; Abilene, Kas., 105; Hutchinson and Salina, 104; Great Bend and Concordia, 102; Topeka, 99; Emporia, 98; Atchison, 97. Several prostrations occurred in Kansas, none, however, fatal.

FOUR ROBBERS KILL GUARD CARRYING MONEY TO MINERS.

Masked Men Fire on Drivers of Two Buggies—One Slain and the Other Is Badly Wounded.

La Salle, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—Four masked bandits, who held up pay rigs of the Illinois Zinc company five miles southeast of here this afternoon, killed one man and wounded three others, but failed to get $6,000 in cash which was being transported for the semi-monthly payday of the miners.

The dead:

DIERKS, BEN, former chief of police of Peru, Ill., acting as guard for Zinc company men, instantly killed.

The wounded:

WEST, ELMER—Clerk of the company, shot in head, neck, and chest; brought to St. Mary's hospital, La Salle; condition critical.

RICHMOND—F. D.—Civil engineer of the company, shot in back; flesh wounds; shot removed and able to help pay off men.

OESTERLE, HENRY—Employé, shot in head, also shot in arm and body; condition not serious.

Money for the pay roll was sent to the Black Hollow mine in two buggies in charge of the four men. A mile from their destination a gang of masked robbers leaped out from the bushes beside the roadway and opened fire on the men in the buggies. The highwaymen used automatic shotguns.

Dierks, who was driving the second rig, fell dead at the first volley. Almost at the same instant West, driver of the first buggy, toppled over. His companion, Richmond, grabbed the reins, whipped the horses, and fled, while the robbers stood in the middle of the road shooting.

As soon as they saw the first rig making a successful escape the robbers left the other rig unmolested and fled through the woods. Diercks' companion, Oesterle, whipped his horse and followed the other rig to the mine.

If you know anything about making clothes you know it can't be done, if you are to get anything like respectable quality.

If your clothes are bought solely on the basis of price, without reference to intrinsic values in fabrics, linings, tailoring, we're not "in it" with these "custom tailors;" go your way in peace.

We find, however, a growing sense among intelligent men, of the fact that there's no magic in clothes-making that will put quality-value into poor materials and cheap workmanship. They're coming to see that good materials and high-class tailoring are best for them; and that the only way to get them is to pay the price.

If your clothes are bought solely on the basis of price, without reference to intrinsic values in fabrics, linings, tailoring, we're not "in it" with these "custom tailors;" go your way in peace.

We find, however, a growing sense among intelligent men, of the fact that there's no magic in clothes-making that will put quality-value into poor materials and cheap workmanship. They're coming to see that good materials and high-class tailoring are best for them; and that the only way to get them is to pay the price.

MAYOR ADVISES SCHOOL TRUSTEES

SUPPORTS MRS. YOUNG.

Regrets She Did Not Consult Him Before Making Public Sensational Charges.

The big battle in the school board meeting on Wednesday on the text book question was followed by a decided lull yesterday. No one, except Mayor Harrison, cared to do much talking. Mayor Harrison advised the members of the board to leave the selection of text books in the hands of Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent, and to leave school book agents alone.

The mayor said he did not know James Plunkett of the "de luxe book" fame, whose spelling book has been urged by Henry W. Huttmann and John C. Harding, according to Mrs. Young.

Mayor Doesn't Know Plunkett.

"I do not know this Mr. Plunkett," said the mayor. "I don't believe he ever called up any one from this office. I never discussed such a matter with him nor with Ald. Kenna or Thomas Carey or Trustees Huttmann and Harding. I never authorized any of these or any one else to speak for me on any text book matter.

"The only member of the board with whom I have discussed any text book matter in two years was with Mr. Peterson, when he came to thank me for his appointment. He said he had been asked by the organization of Chicago printers' firms and the Allied Printing Trades council to obtain the adoption of text books printed in Chicago.

"I advised him he should be guided by the recommendation of the superintendent of schools and that he had better leave the text book question alone.

Criticises Mrs. Young.

"The only criticism I have of Mrs. Young is this: If any one went to her with a message purporting to come from me, I wish she had taken the matter up with me beforehand to learn the truth of the situation. In the future, I hope she will do so.

"It is rather unfair to brand one in advance in a matter of this sort before he has had a chance to be heard. As far as trying to get Mrs. Young's 'scalp' is concerned, I will say I hope she is reëlected as long as she can run the office. When I was making my campaign they tried to mix me up in reports that I was trying to oust Mrs. Young and replace her with former Supt. Cooley. There is about as much truth in this charge as there is in this new accusation."

Mrs. Young Corrects Impression.

Mrs. Young said it was a closed incident as far as she was concerned, except she wanted to correct one wrong impression.

"I did not say Ald. Kenna or Thomas Carey had come to me in the interest of the Plunkett speller," she said. "I said Mr. Huttmann had asked me to recommend the speller because Ald. Kenna, Mr. Carey, and Mr. Plunkett wanted it recommended. THE TRIBUNE was the only newspaper that quoted me correctly in that regard. I have never seen Ald. Kenna nor Mr. Carey."

"GOLD TOOTH" BANK SNEAK UNDER ARREST IN TOLEDO.

Phil Bailey, Wanted in Chicago for Murder of Rival for Woman's Love, Is Caught After Robbery.

Phil Bailey, notorious bank sneak, whose chief past disguise has consisted of artificial gold teeth, and wanted by the Chicago police for murder, is under arrest in Toledo, O. He was arrested last Monday charged with having stolen $1,000 from the Northern National bank. The money, in two rolls, was near the teller's window. Bailey reached in with a bent umbrella rib and got it. He was pursued by employés of the bank and captured.

The prisoner gave the name of James Evans. He was identified as Bailey, for whom the Chicago police have been searching since last January. He is accused of killing Otto Allie at Twenty-first street and Wabash avenue.

Bailey was released from the Waupun, Wis., penitentiary a short time before the murder of Allie. He served ten years for bank robbery. While he was in prison a woman who at one time lived with him married Allie. They met on the night of the murder in a saloon. Bailey waited outside until Allie and the woman were leaving the place. He shot his rival.

Bailey has a habit of using two sets of artificial teeth—one gold and the other porcelain. He used the gold teeth in "doing a sneak" so his victim will describe him as having "front gold teeth." Afterwards he switches the teeth, making it almost impossible to identify him.

ACCUSES LAWYER FOR KIRBYS.

Dr. Achilles Davis Says He Was Asked by Attorney T. B. Lantry to Testify Banker Was Insane.

Dr. Achilles Davis of 5121 Ellis avenue yesterday testified in the contempt case against the four lawyers for the Kirby defense that he was asked by Attorney Thomas B. Lantry in November, 1912, to testify that Dr. William T. Kirby was insane.

"Mrs. Kirby and Lantry came to see me about the first of November," said Dr. Davis. "Lantry said he wanted to speak with me in private, and we went into a private room in the Wesley hospital. He asked me if I could give him a statement that Dr. Kirby was mentally unfit.

"I asked for the reason, and he said Kirby had been doing something that seemed to indicate he was mentally unbalanced. I told him I could not do it, that I did not think he was insane, and I suggested he see some neurologist."

Awaiting Reveille for Memorial Day.

VETERANS TO DEFY THE YEARS

Fifteen Hundred Will March 3 Miles in Today's Parade.

MANY DECLINE AUTO RIDES.

National Guard and Naval Reserves to Swell Ranks.

Fifteen hundred union veterans of the civil war are expected to be in line at 3 o'clock this afternoon, when the Memorial day parade swings into Michigan avenue at Twenty-sixth street and marches toward the loop. There also will be 5,000 national guardsmen and Illinois naval reserves, and half as many more civilians in line.

Probable showers are scheduled for today, but this is not expected to deter many of the marchers.

Of the 1,500 who will follow Chief Marshal William P. Wright and Adj. Gen. Charles R. E. Koch many will be in automobiles, more than in previous years, but there is still a big percentage whose members will demonstrate their ability to trudge three miles and carry a musket or play in the fife and drum corps. Some became indignant yesterday when they were urged to ride in motor cars.

Talk to School Pupils.

Many of the veterans visited the public schools during the time set aside for Memorial day exercises yesterday and told reminiscences of war times. Dr. Liston H. Montgomery, president of the Western Society of the Army of the Potomac, was one of the many who pointed out to the children the need of a strong army and navy as a guarantee toward peace. He spoke at the Jewish Training school.

A pass written and signed by Abraham Lincoln, introducing H. Balling to Gen. Grant, to whom he was carrying important papers during the war, was presented to the Franklin school, Goethe and Wells street, by John P. Reilly of Lyon post, G. A. R.

A. W. Greely Camp U. S. W. V. composed of signal corps men who have served in Porto Rico, Cuba, Philippines and China make its initial appearance in Memorial day parade today. All the members are Western Union employés.

Review at Grant Park.

The veterans will spend the morning decorating graves. From noon, when the church bells through the city will toll for five minutes in honor of the dead soldiers, until 3 p. m. the marchers will be rallying along Michigan avenue.

When the procession reaches Van Buren street Gov. Dunne, Mayor Harrison, Col. Hoyle, commanding the department of the lakes, and their staff officers, with Marshal Wright, will move to the stand in Grant park and review the rest of the parade, which is to cross the loop in Jackson boulevard and disband at Market street.

RAILROAD MAN'S SON KILLED.

Carter Bliss, Who Was Learning Father's Business, Struck by a Swinging Telephone Pole.

Aurora, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—Carter Bliss, 17 year old son of President J. H. Bliss of the Aurora and De Kalb line, who was learning railroading to succeed his father, was hit in the back of the head by a swinging telephone pole at Kaneville, Ill., and died at St. Joseph's hospital, Aurora. The pole, which was being dragged by a work car of which he had charge, met an obstruction and swung around, striking him at the base of the brain. His mother is prostrated.

FINDS BODY OF MAN IN A PIT.

Boy In Swimming Makes Grewsome Discovery—Believed to Have Been Benjamin Peters.

The body of a man believed to have been Benjamin Peters was found in a pit, 250 feet deep, on the grounds of the Artesian Stone and Lime works, Artesian and Grand avenues, yesterday. The only means of identification was a laundry check. Every bone in the body was broken and the police believe he fell in the pit or was murdered and his body then thrown into it.

TREE MOTHER SEES CHILDREN

Mrs. Henry S. Newton Visits Her 284 "Babies."

JUST OUT OF THE HOSPITAL.

Tells School Youngsters How She Planted Saplings Years Ago.

Mrs. Henry S. Newton, the "tree mother" of the Municipal Art league, set out yesterday to visit some of her 284 "children."

She found that most of her "babies" had been sadly neglected during the three months she spent in the Presbyterian hospital. Because she still was weak from her illness she was obliged to proceed on her calls in an invalid's chair propelled by her husband.

Have Planted Many Trees.

For 38 years the Newtons have lived in the vicinity of 1706 Warren avenue, their present home. During that time they have seen little trees that they planted long ago grow into great trees.

"We have no children," said Mrs. Newton yesterday just as she was starting out for her calls, "so we have given our child love to the trees. My husband loves them as much as I and we call them our children. There are 284 of them that we have planted. We never forgot them, for they mean very much to us. Each tree has its own individuality.

Imagine They Talk.

"We fancy that they talk to us. When the sun shines on them and the little breezes blow they are very happy. 'Good Morning' and 'How do you do,' they say with the little leaves nodding and smiling and clapping hands in delight.

"Here come the school children. They have helped so much in the care of the trees."

The children gathered about Mrs. Newton's chair and greeted her affectionately. Then she told them tree stories. And with a rake that Mr. Newton had brought she showed them how to loosen the soil and keep the tree nourished.

"The peddlers and grocery boys have come to fear me. I threaten them with heavy fines if they let their horses bite the trees."

Mrs. Newton is chairman of the streets committee of the Municipal Art league.

PICNIC GIRLS IN RUNAWAY; DASH IN MICHIGAN AVENUE.

Excitement prevailed for a few minutes yesterday morning on Michigan avenue when a team of horses ran away with a "bus" occupied by a picnic party of screaming girls and children.

Traffic Policeman D. Flynn, stationed at Randolph street, threw himself before the animals, gripped the bridles and, while dragged along, succeeded in halting them. By that time several automobiles had been grazed, others had their mud shields bent, and the tongue of the "bus" was broken. The frightened passengers decided to proceed to their picnic in Lincoln park on foot.

When the conveyance, going north, passed Madison street the crossing policeman observed the driver having trouble with his horses, which already were galloping. The team had just been brought to the city and evidently was not trained to the automobile traffic on the avenue. For two blocks the swaying vehicle was dragged along a row of dodging machines and pedestrians before Flynn ended the dash.

COTTON? WHERE'S THE COTTON?

Witnesses Say Firm Mrs. Barnard Is Suing Has No Warehouses to Their Knowledge.

Arthur Groves of the brokerage firm of Clement Curtis & Co., now being sued under the gambling ordinance by Mrs. Mattie Barnard, 1519 East Sixty-sixth street, who says she lost $25,000 in cotton speculations, yesterday admitted in Judge Martin's court he never saw any warehouse receipts for the delivery of cotton made by his firm, although the firm has been dealing in cotton ever since he was a member.

He said he did not know one man to whom a delivery of cotton had been made by his firm.

"I do not know the location of any cotton warehouse," said Groves. "I cannot give you the names of any users of cotton in northern Illinois. I do not know any."

PAULIST CHOIR STIRS CRITIC

Secular Song Causes Eastern University to Withdraw Its O. K.

LILT ABOUT THE EVIL ONE.

Father O'Callaghan Blames Jealousy of Music Publisher.

According to a telegram from Baltimore, Loyola university, in that city, holding high rank as a Catholic school, has withdrawn its indorsement of the Paulist Choristers of Chicago, the famous boy choir which has been awarded the world's prize for musical excellence.

The innocent cause of the university's action is the song of Eric Delamarter, a Chicago composer, "The De'il's Awa' wi' the Excise Man," which, as its name indicates, is secular and humorous. It was included in the big repertory of the singers, and was used to lighten the program. It won favor in Chicago and other cities where it was sung—even in Baltimore, so far as the director of the choir, Father Finn, could see.

Blames Jealous Music Publisher.

But a music publisher in Baltimore who, the Rev. P. J. O'Callaghan says, has been jealous of Father Finn's success, seized on the use of the secular song to declare the choir was "extolling Satan," and presented his outraged feelings to the university authorities.

"I believe his complaint was that the song had been sung in the regular stage costume of cassocks," said Father O'Callaghan, who is head of the Paulist fathers in Chicago. "It is possible the cassocks should have been discarded for the singing of secular songs, but I am not inclined to take the criticism seriously. The Baltimore audience certainly did not. It was as enthusiastic as had been the audiences in other cities.

"Action Makes No Difference."

"I did not know the opposition had gone so far as to bring action from the university. At the same time that action makes no difference to us."

Father Finn, who has developed the chorus to its high state of efficiency and worldwide reputation, is out of the city.

Mr. Delamarter, who probably did not know what a lot of trouble his composition would cause, could not be reached by telephone last night.

Fire Nearly Destroys Four Story Brick Building Occupied by Commission Firms—Starts in Basement.

Fire partly destroyed a four story brick building at 71 West South Water street last night occupied by commission firms and caused a loss estimated at $30,000. It started in the boiler room and quickly spread to the upper floors.

The occupants of the building are: Eck-Wagefort Co., first floor; Eck-McNeill & Co., second floor; C. E. McNeill & Co., third and fourth floors.

ROADS AID FIGHT FOR GIRLS.

Eight Lines Post Notices of Vigilance Association Warning Women of Chance Acquaintance.

Eight of the large railroads entering Chicago are posting along their lines the notices to girls, issued by the Illinois Vigilance association, warning young women against chance acquaintances. Other roads are considering posting them. The notices urge the girls traveling alone to Chicago to write in advance to the Deaconess home, 22 West Erie street; the Chicago Law and Order league, 19 South La Salle street; Catholic Woman's league, 7 West Madison street; Association house, 2150 West North avenue; or the Y. W. C. A., 830 South Michigan avenue, in order that they may be met at the train and saved from designing men or women.

HERO BRAVES DEADLY FUMES.

John Renn with Smoke Helmet Gropes Way to Broken Ammonia Pipe.

A broken ammonia pipe in the basement of the Central Union block 354 West Madison street drove tenants into the street yesterday afternoon and caused alarm among pedestrians. The firemen were helpless until squad wagon No. 1 arrived when John Renn volunteered and donned a smoke helmet. He groped his way 100 feet through the gases and finally succeeded in shutting a valve cutting off the flow. When he emerged the crowd in the street cheered him.

CHARGES MAYOR BLOCKS INQUIRY

ONCE WELCOMED PROJECT

His Honor Reverses His Decision After Passage of $2,880,000 Bond Issue.

Julius Rosenwald, chairman of the board of trustees of the Chicago bureau of public efficiency, and Harris S. Keeler, director of the bureau, made public yesterday a letter they had written to Mayor Harrison by order of the trustees.

"In the face of the above record," read the concluding paragraph, "we cannot conceive of any just reason why we should be denied the opportunity of making the proposed study of city expenditures—an opportunity such as has been afforded us by nearly every governing body in Cook county. We therefore reiterate our request that the bureau be authorized to institute an independent anu untrammeled investigation of the city departments."

The "record" mentioned was a recital of the manner in which the mayor had treated similar requests during the last two months. In brief, it was a showing that the mayor had expressed his approval of an investigation in January and had reversed his decision after the passage of the $2,880,000 bond issue in April.

Begins at First Meeting.

The story began with the first meeting of representatives of commercial and civic organizations asked to aid in obtaining financial relief for the city.

"Upon the suggestion of Alfred L. Baker," it was set up, "you declared you would cordially welcome an investigation. At a subsequent conference you reiterated your entire willingness for such an inquiry, and on Jan. 28 you sent a letter to George E. Cole stating that whenever the bureau desired to make an investigation the administration would be glad to offer every opportunity."

The first request for authority for such an inquiry was made March 26, and on March 27 the mayor announced "to the press" that the investigation was to be made and that he would welcome it.

"You did not reply to our letter," proceeds the bureau's communication, "until April 11—ten days after the bond issue had been approved by the voters. You then exhibited a distinct change of attitude toward the proposed study. You attempted to reflect on the disinterestedness and fair mindedness of certain members of the bureau, although the matters set forth upon which your objections were based were known to you when you made the above announcement to the press."

It also was mentioned that some of the mayor's objections were based upon Mr. Baker's remarks, which caused the mayor to consent to the investigation in the first conference.

Send Second Letter.

The bureau representatives said a second letter from the mayor on May 5 disclosed "increased hostility," although approving an investigation "in conjunction with" the efficiency division of the civil service commission. The bureau letter then stated that several efforts were made to arrange such a joint investigation. The last effort was a conference with the civil service commission was attended by Mr. Rosenwald, Mr. Baker, Charles R. Crane, Victor Elting, and Dr. Henry B. Favill. The only result was a conclusion that the attitude of the commission would limit the investigation in such a way that the work would be "practically worthless."

The communication also recites some of the important inquiries conducted by the bureau, including an investigation of county fee offices that resulted in a saving "in excess of $100,000 a year."

DRAINAGE OUSTER OPENS ROW AMONG MEMBERS OF BOARD.

Minority Fights Forced Resignation of Controller D. M. Deininger—Paullin and Clark Try to Secure Delay.

The forced resignation of Controller D. M. Deininger created turmoil at the meeting of the sanitary district board yesterday.

President Smyth on Wednesday asked Deininger's resignation, which was read at the meeting yesterday. It was a surprise to the minority, composed of Trustees Clark and Paullin. Trustee Dailey moved that the resignation be accepted, taking effect today. Trustee Clark demanded an explanation of the dismissal.

"This is an outrage," he shouted, "to dismiss one of the most efficient employés of the district without even giving sufficient reason. It's one of the rottenest pieces of work I ever heard of." He moved to delay the matter a week. Chairman Smyth refused to entertain the motion.

"The ousting of Deininger is the initial step in the saddling of $1,500,000 of construction cost on the municipal lighting plant," said Trustee Clark last night. "J. B. Ellicott is the only one now left to protect the plant from this imposition, which means a yearly expense of $60,000 for the lighting system. This is the real purpose in bringing about Deininger's dismissal. It looks like the beginning of the end for the lighting plant."

INVESTIGATE DEATH OF WOMAN.

Inquest Held on Unidentified Person Hit by Street Car—Mystery in Accident.

An inquest was held yesterday on the body of an unidentified woman who died at the Passavant hospital from injuries suffered when she was struck by a Lincoln avenue street car Wednesday night. Policeman Casey of the Chicago Avenue station had made no report of the inquest up to midnight and the authorities of the hospital refused information to reporters. Details attending the inquest on the body of a "Mrs. Alexandria," who died at the Passavant May 22, were also denied by the hospital.

PERSONAL TAX GAIN NORMAL

RETURNS CLOSE TOMORROW.

Board Prepares Books for Final Review Work.

Tomorrow is the last day for filing personal property tax assessment schedules. Attachés of the assessors' office yesterday estimated that 15 per cent more schedules have been filed this year than last, when the penalties aggregated $33,000,000. It is figured that the total valuation will show a normal gain over the assessment of $212,582,692 a year ago.

Among those listed as having filed is Julius Rosenwald, head of the Sears-Roebuck company. Mr. Rosenwald asserts that $500,000 will cover all his personal property. The Rosenwald entry was made by Assessor David M. Pfaelzer. Other members of the board may not accept it.

Several weeks ago Mr. Rosenwald and other officials of the Sears-Roebuck company were asked to appear before the board to explain why they had not listed shares in the mail order concern.

Rosenwald Entry Made April 23.

Neither Mr. Rosenwald nor his associates appeared. The records show the Rosenwald $500,000 entry was made on April 23.

Edward Morris, president of Morris & Co., packers, scheduled $525,000, from his home at 4800 Drexel boulevard.

Three members of the Joyce lumber family scheduled a total of $600,000, equally divided. They are Mrs. W. Joyce, 4614 Woodlawn avenue; James S. Joyce, and D. G. Joyce, the latter of 5045 Drexel boulevard.

Some of the Schedules.

Others who made returns in Hyde Park were:

Edward Tilden, who was head of the National Packing company, $10,000.

J. Shaffner, 4819 Greenwood avenue, $20,000.

Ryerson Penalized $226,000.

Martin A. Ryerson, bank director and capitalist, was among those in Hyde Park who failed to make a return. The board assessed him on a valuation of $452,000 and then added $226,000 as a penalty.

F. D. Bremner, biscuit manufacturer, was penalized $30,000 on top of an assessment of $60,000 for his failure to file a schedule. W. O. Johnson, receiver for the Chicago and Milwaukee Electric railway, incurred a penalty of $6,000 in addition to a $12,000 assessment.

Sol A. Lewinsohn, banker, saloonkeeper, and bondsman, was let down with a $2,000 assessment and a $1,000 penalty.

CHILDREN SURPRISE POLICEMAN BY GIVING HIM GOLD WATCH.

Patrick F. Shannon Presented with Unexpected Gift by Pupils of Holy Name School.

Policeman Patrick F. Shannon of the Chicago Avenue station yesterday marched bravely up on the platform of the auditorium of Holy Name school, West Chicago avenue and Cass street. He had been invited to tell the pupils of his Spanish war experiences.

The boys and girls snickered as Shannon tramped across the stage. The bluecoat looked uneasy. Then Peter Daly, one of the school graduates, marched up and handed him a gold watch and fob.

Shannon looked at it. "From the teachers and students of Holy Name school to Policeman Patrick F. Shannon," he read with tear-filled eyes. Then he blushed and tried to thank his donors. He forgot all about the war with Spain and hurried out as soon as possible.

"They sure put one over on me," he said later as he mopped his face energetically and slyly wiped his eyes. "You see I've patrolled that beat for five years and all the kids know me, and I guess they must like me, too."

EX-HUSBAND WITH FIANCE AT BIER

Prof. Gebhardt and Raymond Burnham to Be at Suicide's Funeral Today.

BRING BODY FROM NORTH.

Dead Woman Known in Chicago as Writer Under Pen Name of "Helen Hale."

Raymond Burnham of St. Paul and Prof. George F. Gebhardt of Armour institute will meet today at the grave of Mrs. Florence Gebhardt, who wrote as "Helen Hale." She was the divorced wife of the professor and was expected to marry Burnham, the third of the trio of warm friends.

Prof. Gebhardt discovered last September his wife no longer cared for him, and to free her filed suit for divorce, charging desertion. The decree was granted and it became known after the expiration of one year she probably would be married to Burnham. On Tuesday she threw herself in Lake Como at St. Paul, Minn.

Mrs. Gebhardt was one of the officers of the Illinois Woman's Press association. Because of her death Mrs. L. H. Manson of 844 Leland avenue has recalled her invitations to the association for tomorrow.

The body was turned over to Burnham, who is bringing it to Chicago. The funeral will be held privately this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Gebhardt's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Adams, 3316 Calumet avenue. The Rev. Frank Gunsaulus, head of Armour institute, will conduct the service.

CORRECT IN HIS HABITS.

Others Testify That He Occasionally Drinks Light Wines Sparingly.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Marquette, Mich., May 29.—Testimony at today's hearing in the lible suit of Theodore Roosevelt against George A. Newett, an Ishpeming editor, who charged the plaintiff with drunkenness, was substantially a repetition of that recorded at previous sessions, that the colonel is virtually a teatotaler.

Those who testified were Andrew W. Abele, a former railroad fireman of Ohio; former Judge A. Z. Blair, who disfranchised hundreds of Ohio voters for selling votes when he was on the bench; Charles Willis Thompson, a New York newspaper man; James R. Garfield, Gifford Pinchot, Lawrence Abbott, owner of the magazine of which the plaintiff is one of the editors; Edward Heller, naturalist of the African hunting expedition; O. K. Davis, secretary of the national committee of the Progressive party; Philip Roosevelt, whose father is a first cousin of the former president; and Edwin Emerson, a newspaper man, who was field clerk to the colonel of the rough rider regiment.

The colonel was trailed through every state in the union and to Africa and back in an effort to discover if any one ever had seen him under the influence of liquor or ever had smelled liquor on his breath.

Young Roosevelt Causes Titter.

Philip Roosevelt testified that he took the four years' course at Harvard in three years. He is 21 years old. Asked how long he had known Col. Roosevelt, he replied.

"Well, he's known me all his life."

In the midst of the titter which went round the room he corrected his answer, and said he had known the colonel ever since he could remember.

The newspaper men were questioned as to how intimate they had been with the plaintiff; the rough rider and the naturalist were asked how close their sleeping tents were to that of their chief, the lawyers trying to discover if there had not been periods when witnesses could not have known whether the plaintiff was drinking or not.

Watched Closely by Pinchot.

Mr. Pinchot was anxious to explain just why he considered himself an authority on the colonel's habits and Attorney Pound accordingly framed the proper question. The former chief forester then explained that he was a student of efficiency and that, finding Col. Roosevelt to be a sample of that quality, studied him to discover whence it came. To this purpose he observed the colonel's eating habits, what he drank, how and what he read, how he exercised, how he transacted business—in short, every detail which might further the study. He felt qualified, therefore, to declare that the plaintiff was a man of unusually abstemious habits.

Tomorrow being Memorial day the bailiff at the conclusion of the day's session announced that court stood adjourned until 9 o'clock Saturday morning. There will be no session of court Saturday afternoon. The hearing probably will consume another week.

Tells of Tour with Colonel.

Charles William Thompson of New York, for nine years a Washington correspondent, was the first witness.

"As Washington correspondent," he said, "I used to go to the White House to see Mr. Roosevelt. I saw him usually alone, sometimes in the morning and sometimes in the afternoon, usually in his office, but sometimes when, in order to lose not a minute in his work, he received visitors while lying in the barber's chair. I never detected the odor of liquor on his breath, never saw him in the slightest degree under the influence of liquor, and never saw his manner in any way changed from its ordinary one."

"Ever go on any trips with him?"

"I was with him on his 11,000 mile swing round the circle last year, which lasted a month. I afterward joined him at Mercy hospital, Chicago, after he was shot, stayed there until he went to Oyster Bay, went there with him, and stayed until election.

"Could he have got drunk on the train without your knowing it?"

"He could not even have been slightly affected by liquor without my knowing it, either on the trip or at Oyster Bay."

Climbs Up Lookout Mountain.

Andrew W. Abele of Ironton, O., a locomotive fireman, described a trip he made with Col. Roosevelt up Lookout mountain at Chattanooga, Tenn., in October, 1902. He said he became acquainted with the colonel at the convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen in Chattanooga.

Q.—How was it you came to go up the mountain? A.—The colonel was starting up and as we were talking to him he said: "Boys, come along."

Q.—You walked about the top of the mountain with him? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you observe whether he had been drinking liquor? A.—I knew he had not been drinking.

The witness said he was in the colonel's car from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. constantly.

Q.—What did the colonel drink in the way of spirituous liquors? A.—Not a drop.

A. Z. Blair of Portsmouth, O., former judge of the Common Pleas court in Ohio, who two years ago disfranchised several hundred voters in Adams county on charges of illegal voting, testified he first met Col. Roosevelt at Ironton last May. He accompanied the colonel to Portsmouth on the special train on which Col. Roosevelt was traveling in his campaign.

Q.—How close to the colonel were you when you were on the train with him? A.—I was sitting at the breakfast table with him talking.

Q.—What was his physical condition? I mean as to drinking? Whether he was sober or drunk, you would say he was? A.—He was sober.

Philip Roosevelt, a son of W. Emlen Roosevelt, who is a first cousin of the former president—a tall, slender young man of 21—having been sworn, said he was a newspaper man of New York City.

Q.—Now, taking your earliest recollection of the plaintiff, what can you say as to whether he was addicted to the use of liquor? A.—Of course, he was not a drunkard.

Q.—What can you say as to his speech—I mean as to profanity? A.—He never uses it.

Q.—Did he ever use obscene language?

The young man remained silent, and Attorney Pound added: "Of course, it's a delicate question. Answer 'yes' or 'no'?"

Testimony Given by Quaker.

Edwin Emerson, a newspaper man, being a quaker, was not sworn, but affirmed that his evidence would be the truth, "under pains and penalties of perjury." He knew the plaintiff in the days when Roosevelt was police commissioner and at Washington, as assistant secretary of the navy, and as colonel of the rough riders, of which Emerson was a member. Emerson became field secretary to the plaintiff, with whom he was in constant touch.

Mr. Roosevelt never drank intoxicants, he said.

Attorney Belden asked only one question on cross-examination and the witness was dismissed. Court then took a noon recess.

Closely Observed by Pinchot.

Gifford Pinchot, chief forester in the Roosevelt administration, testified at the afternoon session that he had seen the colonel many times on trips and at Oyster Bay.

"Have you observed Col. Roosevelt keenly?" inquired Attorney Pound.

"Yes, I have, and I would like to give my reasons for so——"

"We will come to that," interrupted Pound. "I'll ask you the question; now you may tell your reasons."

"My reason for observing him closely was a deep interest in the subject of efficiency. If I saw a man who was capable of unusual work, who was very efficient, I wanted to observe why, to learn why he was efficient. I observed what he ate, what he drank, how much he slept, everything which might account for unusual efficiency. So I studied Col. Roosevelt."

"Now, from that observation, please tell the jury whether he drank spirituous or malt liquors."

"Occasionally a glass of wine."

"Could the plaintiff in this case have drunk to excess, have been a heavy drinker, without your knowing it?"

"No, he could not."

Roosevelt a Temperate Man.

"On public occasions what were the habits of the plaintiff as to the use of liquor?" continued Pound.

"Always temperate."

Witness said that he had seen Mr. Roosevelt drink one mint julep; champagne a few times, and light wine a few times.

"Did you ever see him drink between meals?" asked the attorney for the plaintiff.

"Only that julep, and perhaps once or twice light wine."

"Have you ever heard Col. Roosevelt indulge in profanity or obscenity?"

"Never," came the vigorous reply.

On cross examination, Mr. Pinchot was asked:

"You have not been with Mr. Roosevelt on any of his trips for the last two years, have you?"

"I have not—not since a trip to Denver in 1910."

"You have not testified as to the use of liquor in his house?"

"My understanding is that liquor does not include light wine."

"Well, tell us about wine, too."

"I have been served at his home with light wine, sherry, and possibly Madeira. On one occasion only have I seen champagne at his home. I don't mean the White House."

"Isn't it a fact that whisky was served in the White House?"

Abstemious on Foreign Tour.

Mr. Pinchot was followed on the stand by Lawrence F. Abbott, son of Dr. Lyman Abbott of New York. He is president of the company which publishes a periodical of which Col. Roosevelt is one of the editors.

"What can you say as to whether Mr. Roosevelt indulged in liquor to excess?" he was asked.

"He did not. In my trip with him in Africa and Europe, dining with him and riding on trains with him for three months, I handled his money and he drank scarcely anything. At dinners he drank only light wine or a little champagne."

"You have never seen him under the influence of liquor?"

"Never."

Mr. Abbott's cross examination was brief.

"You feel an interest in the outcome of this case?"

"Yes; the same interest I would have for any intimate friend."

"On your trips with Mr. Roosevelt you do not say that he abstained entirely from wine or champagne?"

"No; I said he abstained more than any other man."

On redirect examination Mr. Abbott was asked:

"Had Mr. Roosevelt been in the habit of getting drunk, would your publishing company have retained him in service?"

Objection was raised and Mr. Abbott was not permitted to answer.

Mr. Abbott was then excused.

J. R. Garfield on the Stand.

James R. Garfield, who was secretary of the interior in the Roosevelt administration, was called.

"What relation were you to President Garfield?" he was asked by Attorney Pound.

"A son," he replied.

Mr. Garfield said he is 47 years old and a lawyer in Cleveland.

"When your father was president of the United States what was the custom as to the serving of state dinners?"

"My recollection is there were no state dinners."

"State whether wines were kept in the White House by the president or not."

"Yes, they were."

Mr. Garfield outlined his acquaintance and friendship with Col. Roosevelt over a period of twenty years.

"I have been with him very often since his return from the African expedition," the witness said. "I have been with him when he was under strong mental strain and on occasions of great and prolonged physical exertion, hunting and riding in the west when a man naturally would get tired. I have seen him in all kinds of circumstances. I was with him throughout the Ohio primary campaign. The trip covered a route between Chillicothe and Columbus and over the northern and central tier of counties. Then we went to Marietta and worked north, Mr. Roosevelt speaking frequently. I also was with him during the Republican convention at Chicago and at the Progressive convention later."

Never Under Liquor's Influence.

"Now, in all these trips, and since you have known him, have you ever seen the plaintiff under the influence of liquor?"

"I have never seen him in the slightest degree under the influence of liquor."

"Could he have got drunk without your knowing it?"

"I have been with him so much I am sure he could not have got drunk without my knowing it."

"What, if any, liquor have you ever seen him use?"

"Only in milk punches. He used brandy in the milk. I don't know how much."

When Attorney Pound asked how the milk punches were made the witness hesitated a moment and then replied: "Like milk punches are always made, I suppose."

"When, if ever, have you seen the plaintiff take champagne?"

"Very few times; I have seen him sip it at public dinners. He never drank at breakfast."

Tea Taken After Exercise.

"Now, after hard rides and exercise, did he ever drink anything?"

"Yes."

"What?"

"Tea; several cups sometimes."

"Did he ever use liquors as a stimulant on these hard trips?"

"He never was stimulated by any wine he ever drank."

"On the primary trip was he ever under the influence of liquor in the slightest degree?"

"Never in the slightest degree."

Mr. Garfield, when cross examined, said he saw on Col. Roosevelt's table at various times only champagne and sherry.

"When you referred to not finding liquor on Col. Rosoevelt's table you excepted champagne and sherry, did you?"

"Yes, but I include all of them when I say he has never been under the influence of liquor in the slightest degree."

Mr. Garfield was then excused and Edward Helfer, the naturalist, was called after a ten minute recess. Mr. Heller is connected with the Smithsonian institution, which sent Roosevelt on the African trip.

Naturalist Tells of Trip.

"On the voyage to Africa how frequently did you see this plaintiff?" asked Mr. Pound.

"Frequently. My special duty was to take care of the skins and I was with Col. Roosevelt constantly."

"How many were in the party?"

"Seven."

"How many specimens did you bring out?"

"In all, about 3,000."

"Where did you sleep?"

"In my tent, about 30 feet from the colonel's. Kermit slept in a tent next to his father's."

"How many times have you seen the plaintiff since the return to America?"

"Eight or ten times at Oyster Bay."

"From the time you sailed for the hunt till the party broke up at Khartoum, what was the condition of the colonel's health?"

"He was well. I had a touch of malaria."

"What liquor was taken on the trip?"

"There was a case of champagne." Witness thought it was given away, but this not being personal knowledge, the answer was stricken out and he said liquor was not served at meals on the trip.

Cross-examining Mr. Heller to show that the colonel was not constantly under the eye of the witness, Attorney Belden elicited that the colonel had taken several side trips, and also that the witness was a busy man caring for skins.

"You did not pretend to keep track of Col. Roosevelt, did you?"

"No."

Colonel in Flying Machine.

O. K. Davis, newspaper man and secretary of the Progressive national committee, was sworn. He said as a Washington newspaper correspondent he was intimately associated with Col. Roosevelt. He accompanied the colonel on campaign trips.

"Do you remember Col. Roosevelt's arrival in St. Louis in October, 1910? Did anything happen that day?"

"There certainly did. Col. Roosevelt went up in a flying machine," replied Davis, amid laughter.

"From the beginning of your acquaintance with Mr. Roosevelt up to Oct. 12, 1912, what can you say as to his drinking liquor?"

"I have seen him drink only light wines on a few occasions."

"Have you seen him under the influence of liquor?"

"Never."

Refers to Milwaukee Shooting.

Col. Roosevelt's attorney asked the witness as to what precautions were taken to protect the colonel's life.

"I want to show that the only time there was nobody with him he nearly lost his life," said Attorney Pound, referring to the shooting at Milwaukee.

Objection was made and the witness was not allowed to answer. Neither was the witness allowed to tell whether Col. Roosevelt's clothes were ever torn in going through crowds.

"Now I ask that that flying machine episode be stricken out," moved the attorney for the defense. "It has not been shown to be material."

Mr. Pound promised to show the materiality of this testimony later.

The cross examination of Mr. Davis was confined to his activity in behalf of Col. Roosevelt's campaign.

"It is true Col. Roosevelt carried Michigan, is it not?"

"He did."

"Did he carry this county?"

"I don't know."

When Mr. Davis was excused court adjourned until 9 a. m. Saturday.

Feeble Old People

Much of the feebleness of old age is due to lack of appetite and to impure blood.

Old persons especially ought to appreciate the value of Penslar Agency Trifol Alterative because they know so well the true medicinal value of red clover, stillingia, pokeroot and burdock, which are four of its eight ingredients. The full formula is on the label.

To sharpen the appetite, renew and enrich the blood and impart energy and vigor to the system, we are sure Penslar Trifol Alterative is without an equal. It is therefore a splendid thing for aged persons and we earnestly recommend it to them.

A petition asking that the Wellington Hotel company, operating the hotel at Jackson boulevard and Wabash avenue, be declared bankrupt and its affairs placed in the hands of a receiver was filed yesterday in the United States District court.

A few minutes later creditors of the George H. Currier Publishing company, which issues the Woman's World and other home publications, asked that its affairs be put in the hands of receivers. They say its total liabilities are $200,000.

Blames Drop in Patronage.

The troubles of the hotel have been piling up for some time owing, Attorney William A. Rogan says, to a falling off of patronage. The petitioners of record are the Excelsior Laundry company, claiming $823; James M. Woodcock, $136 for groceries; and H. Barrett & Co., $129 for engineering supplies. The principal claim, not filed in the statement, is that of Oliver A. McClintock, owner of the lease, for $15,000. It was McClintock, who operates a hotel in Madison, Wis., who forced the proceedings.

"Mr. McClintock proposed that perhaps the best way of assuring the creditors that they would get their money out of the hotel was to have him take over the management until April, 1915," said Rogan. "He told the committee that he thought by that time he would put the hotel on a footing to meet all its obligations."

The liabilities are said to exceed $30,000, with assets only $10,000, mainly in furniture.

Magazine's Affairs Tangled.

The affairs of the Currier company have also been in bad shape for some time, according to C. B. Haffenberg, attorney for the petitioners, the Dunstan Lithograph company, the Illustrated Postal and Novelty company, and the Julius P. Bein company, whose claims aggregate $75,000, or a little over a third of the total liabilities.

A third petition in bankruptcy was filed against the Chicago Pure Food company. N. A. Cable & Co., Habicht, Braun & Co., and the Consumer Box Manufacturing company scheduled claims aggregating $1,400.

CHICAGOAN MAY BE NAMED CONTROLLER OF CURRENCY.

Senator Lewis Asks President to Appoint E. N. Hurley—Friends to Urge Morris for Diplomatic Post.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—Edward N. Hurley of Chicago, president of the Hurley Machine company, is the latest Illinois candidate for controller of the currency. Senator Lewis called at the White House today and asked President Wilson to appoint Mr. Hurley to the position. The senator explained that Irving Shuman of Sullivan, Ill., whom he previously had indorsed, had withdrawn from the contest.

Mr. Hurley has the indorsement also of William C. Niblack, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, and of Edmund D. Hulbert, vice president of the Merchants' Loan and Trust company. Senator Lewis said that Charles R. Crane also had given the president a strong recommendation. He added that Mr. Hurley would be indorsed by Gov. Dunne and Mayor Harrison if Illinois should be recognized in the disposition of the place.

Secretary McAdoo has stated that he wants a man with metropolitan banking experience and a national reputation as a financier for controller.

The senator arranged to have the friends of Ira Nelson Morris of Chicago see the president on June 11 with reference to the appointment of Mr. Morris to the diplomatic service. It virtually is settled that Charles J. Vopicka of Chicago, president of the Atlas Brewing company, will be appointed minister to one of the Balkan states selected by Secretary Bryan.

The president nominated Cato Sells of Texas as commissioner of Indian affairs and Fred Robertson of Atwood, Kas., as United States attorney for Kansas.

A training school for suffrage orators—all women recruited from Chicago society and club circles—is to be established shortly by the Chicago Equal Suffrage association. This was decided yesterday at a meeting of the executive board over which Mrs. Hugh McBirney Johnston of Lake Forest presided. Mrs. Johnston is credited with being the originator of the plan.

WILSON DECLINES REQUEST; MONEY BILL UP TO M'ADOO.

President, While Delegating Draft to Treasury Head, Will Direct Essentials of Proposed Currency Legislation.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Democratic leaders in congress interested in currency reform, have invited President Wilson to frame a bill from the three drafts presented by Senator Owen and Representative Glass, heads of the two congressional committees on banking and currency, and Secretary McAdoo of the treasury department.

The president let it be known today that while he considered the request a generous one, he did not feel competent to write a detailed measure and would turn over the task of condensing the three bills to Secretary McAdoo, indicating first his approval of different sections in each.

SAY DISTRIBUTION OF "PIE" HURTS GOVERNMENT SERVICE.

Efficiency Experts Declare Against Apportioning of Federal Jobs Among the States.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—In a report sent to the senate today by President Wilson the economy and efficiency commission severely arraigned the operation of the United States civil service laws, declaring that the effort to distribute appointments proportionately among the different states had greatly reduced the efficiency of federal employés and cost the government a great amount in the quality of its professional labor.

The commission recommended that the attempt to give each state its share of federal jobs at Washington be greatly modified.

MAY NOT FILL GROSSCUP POST.

Attorney General Advises President Not to Appoint Circuit Court of Appeals Judge.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—Attorney General McReynolds has advised President Wilson not to fill the Grosscup vacancy in the federal Circuit Court of Appeals.

This recommendation is based on information obtained by the attorney general from the Democratic leaders in congress to the effect that the Commerce court will be abolished. In that event Judge Mack would be assigned to the Court of Appeals in Chicago.

RECTOR'S FAILS; HOTEL BLAMED

New Venture with Broadway Restaurant Drags Down Profits.

FOUNDER GIVES UP ALL.

Bankruptcy Petition Follows Poor Business of 1912; Receiver Named.

New York, May 28.—[Special.]—Another bright light of the great White Way has gone out, financially speaking. "Rector's" is bankrupt; the Rector's at Broadway and Forty-fourth street that was planned to be the last word in the restaurant life of the metropolis.

Three creditors claim more than $400,000, while the assets are placed at $50,000.

A petition in bankruptcy against Rector's hotel and restaurant was filed in the United States District court today by Attorney James F. McNaboe, representing these three creditors. Judge Holt appointed Edwin C. Ward receiver under bond of $25,000.

Rent the Biggest Item.

Mr. McNaboe represents the Thompson-Starrett company, whose claims amount to $121,504 for money advanced; Elton T. Cowan, $1,018 for merchandise, and the Hotel Rector company, $320,265 for rent.

According to the petition the $50,000 assets consist mainly of food supplies, wines, liquors, cash, and furniture. The creditors say they have reason to believe that the hotel management has considerable cash on hand. The Hotel Rector company, landlord of the alleged bankrupt, has taken possession of the hotel property pursuant to the terms of the lease.

The petition charges that on May 25, 1913, the management committed an act of bankruptcy by transferring to Burns Bros. property valued at $1,295.43, with intent to prefer them over other creditors.

Blow Worst to Rector.

The blow comes to Charles E. Rector, manager and principal proprietor of Rector's, after nearly a quarter century of apparently increasing prosperity, for three or four years ago his fortune was well over $1,000,000.

Rector's restaurant, as it was known in Broadway the first decade of the century, closed a nine years' career on Feb. 10, 1910, to be supplanted by the Hotel Rector, which was opened on Dec. 28 of that year.

According to a statement made by Mr. Rector's lawyer today the new hotel prospered in 1911 and early in 1912, but during the winter months and this spring business had so far fallen off that the interest on the first mortgage could not be paid.

Founder Loses Fortune.

It was said today that the Thompson-Starrett company now controls the Rector Hotel company.

"Mr. Rector," said Attorney Stoddard, "is out of it. He sacrificed many thousands of dollars of his personal fortune trying to tide the business over, but failed. Mr. Rector did everything an honest man could do. I regret to say the report that Mr. Rector has lost his entire fortune is true."

ASSEMBLY PREPARES FOR RUSH

Legislature Adjourns After Clearing Decks for Bills Likely to Pass—Appropriations Favored.

Springfield, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—The general assembly adjourned today until Tuesday, with the decks cleared for final action on all bills which have a chance for passage. Appropriation bills will have the right of way in both senate and house, and everything else will take a back seat, unless there is a specific order to the contrary.

The most of the senate's attention today was devoted to an unavailing attempt to pass senate bill 420, the sanitary district bill, which is being bitterly opposed by Illinois valley's representatives because of the overflow suits which have been pending against the sanitary district for overflow damages in the downstate counties.

Gov. Dunne departed at midnight for Chicago, and will return tomorrow night.

Gets $5,000 for Alienation.

Dr. Victor I. Englert, who was named as corespondent in the divorce case of Henry Kors against Nora E. Kors, was assessed damages of $5,000 by Judge Moran of the Circuit court yesterday in the alienation suit instituted by the husband.

"ALBINI" DOES LAST MYSTERY

Magician Dies Without Revealing His Real Name.

NOT EVEN WIFE KNOWS.

Had Long Been Popular on "Small Time" Vaudeville Circuits.

"The Great Albini" mystified the public of America and Europe for thirty years with his tricks of magic. Yesterday he died and his last delusion probably will last forever. He died without revealing his real name.

Even his wife and children do not know what the magician's name was before he went on the stage. One or two employés of the Sullivan & Considine circuit have heard Albini's boyhood name, but they have forgotten it.

Dies of Dropsy.

Herbert A. Albini, as he registered at hotels, died suddenly yesterday in a bathroom at the Grant hotel, Madison and Dearborn streets. Dropsy was the cause of death. He was born fifty-two years ago in England and was of Jewish parentage. "The Great Albini," as the readers of billboards knew him, came to America and made an immediate hit with his tricks of magic and monologue "patter."

Twenty years ago, it is said, he saved the life of Charles Considine, one of the partners in the Sullivan & Considine combination. Also he was a close personal friend of Mr. Considine. Year after year he was given "time" in Empress theaters when he was down and out.

Magic Made Him Popular.

"He was the greatest magician on the stage today," said a vaudeville manager. "His magic and the monologue which he gave, usually at the expense of the audience, made him popular. In recent years however, he grew intimate with the two short glasses and the bottle in barrooms and wasn't dependable."

Albini was to have opened an engagement at the Colonial on Monday. He is survived by a widow and twelve children.

OBITUARY.

CORNELIUS ROBBINS FIELD died suddenly yesterday at the home of his son in Brooklyn. He was born in Troy, N. Y., seventy-seven years ago. He became prominent in real estate development in the vicinity of Chicago. He was the first mayor of Highland Park, where he lived for many years. For years he was connected with the First National Bank of Chicago.

JOHN GEFFS, a charter member of Park Manor lodge No. 899, A. F. & A. M., died on Monday in his sixty-eighth year. Services will be held Sunday at 10 a. m. in the Englewood Masonic temple. The body will be taken to Toronto, Canada, for interment.

MRS. W. G. SKILLEN, wife of Dr. W. G. Skillen, died yesterday in her twenty-fourth year at her home, 4317 North Robey street. Her maiden name was Marian Stanley. Her funeral tomorrow will be private.

HARRISON MINER, aged 73, vice president of the Savings bank of Kewanee, Ill., and an extensive land owner, is dead.

OLD AGE PENSION LOSES IN HOUSE

SPLIT IN ALL PARTIES.

McCormick Favors Idea, but Attacks the Measure as Improperly Drawn.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—The King old age pension bill failed of passage today by lack of six votes.

All of the parties, except the Socialist three, divided seriously on the bill.

The bill was admitted to be the pioneer measure of its kind in a state legislature. It was for the pension of all persons in Illinois of 75 years and upward.

Old Man as an Argument.

Representative King in opening his argument for the advancement of the bill had brought upon the floor of the house a man, 83 years old, who makes a precarious living selling popcorn and chewing gum around Springfield.

Representative Rothschild protested against bringing the old man before the house. No one has greater respect for old age than himself, but he objected to bringing of unfortunates into public view in this fashion. He thought the bill should be discussed on its merits and not sentimentally.

McCormick Attacks the Bill.

In speaking against its passage Representative McCormick said in substance: "I oppose this bill, not because I am opposed to old age pensions, but because I want the first bill adopted in this country to be a success, in order that old age pensions may extend from state to state, whereas I believe if this bill, which is simply an adaptation of the English act, should pass, it will fail and progress throughout the nation will be impeded."

FOSS HAS STRIKE OF 1,200 MEN.

Employes of Governor of Massachusetts Quit When Refused Higher Pay Because of Tariff.

Hyde Park, Mass., May 29.—The plants of the B. F. Sturtevant company and of the Becker Milling Machine company at Hyde Park, from which 1,200 workmen walked out on strike today, probably will be shut down indefinitely, according to a statement made tonight by Gov. Eugene N. Foss, who owns a controlling interest in both concerns. Recently in refusing the 20 per cent increase in wages demanded by the men Gov. Foss said that changes expected in the pending tariff law made it impossible to grant any advance.

TAX COMMISSION TO SLEEP?

Bill to End Board of Equalization May Not Be Pushed.

SPLIT AMONG DEMOCRATS.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—Although the administration bill providing for the abolishing of the state board of equalization and the substitution of a state tax commission, governed by statute, went to third reading in the house today, there is strong belief the bill will not be pressed and that it will be made an issue in the extra session when that is called by the governor.

It is reported strong opposition has arisen within the Democratic ranks to making the elimination of the state board an administration matter and that there have been reasons presented which have caused close advisers of the executive to recommend that definite action be delayed until there is a settlement of the submission of the initiative and referendum resolution.

Board Figures in Revenue Bill.

In the event of the failure of the legislators to send out the I. and R. to a vote of the people as a proposal for a constitutional amendment, it seems established that the effort will be pushed to put out the proposed constitutional amendment for general revision of the revenue section of the constitution, which would include provision for the abolishment of the present state board.

There are surface indications that enough opposition has been engendered already to seriously endanger the governor's flat proposition of summary abolition of the state board.

Dunne's Aids Fear Turndown.

The feeling seems to be that the administration lieutenants, in view of the supposed sentiment, do not care to take the chance on a turndown of an administration proposition when the chances are favorable as matters stand for a general overthrow of everything but appropriation bills. The administration bill as it came from the revenue committee of the house went through second reading without amendment today, due to the protracted battle which was made concerning the old age pension bill.

The real test will come on third reading, and if it is made certain next week that nothing will go by except the appropriation bills the chances are that the effort to put it over will not be pushed strenuously.

FRIDAY, MAY 30, 1913.

VETO THE CALUMET OUTRAGE.

Square on the shoulders of Gov. Dunne now rests the responsibility of life or death for the Kleeman Calumet harbor grab.

Engineers of knowledge and distinction, citizens and associations of proved disinterestedness and public spirit, the responsible press of Chicago have thoroughly exposed this preposterous project. Justice to the people of the sanitary district, common sense, foresight, public policy all demand that this measure shall be vetoed.

PUBLIC PROTECTION.

Senator Ettelson's bill amending the state pure food bill to include drugs is meeting with not unexpected opposition. The measure has the strong approval of the state food commission, and the governor is said to favor it emphatically, so the public's interest in the warfare on "dope" is being carried on with confidence. The Ettelson bill, No. 528, is an elaborate measure, thoroughly empowering the commission to bring under proper regulation the manufacture and sale and labeling of drugs, and follows the lines of the best existing legislation on this subject.

The people of Illinois are entitled to this protection. No legitimate business interests will be injured, no legitimate business methods interfered with. The assembly should recognize the need for this extension of public protection and pass the bill without weakening amendment.

ABOLISHING FINES.

The appointment of a woman judge to try cases of delinquent girls was a happy move. The next step in humane handling of the woman who errs lies in the same disposition of her case after she has been found guilty.

Church and social workers are now raising a protest against the system of fining women brought into the morals court. The fine, they say, only aggravates the problem of vice, for it puts the woman in debt and, consequently, under further obligation to the man who is keeping her in this life of slavery. Instead of fines, it is suggested, repeating offenders should be sent to the house of correction, where they would be taught an occupation whereby they could earn an honest living upon their release.

The first suggestion is wholly deserving of approval. The ends of justice and morality are hindered rather than furthered by the imposition of a fine upon the delinquent girl. She should be sent to an institution and taught a trade. It is questionable, however, whether the house of correction is the best type of instruction for her. New York has a farm where women of that class are sent, and where they are taught certain trades. Chicago might follow the example set.

Meanwhile, senate bill 389, giving the morals court the right to send delinquents to the House of the Good Shepherd, or the Coulter Home for Girls, or, in the case of more persistent offenders, to the bridewell should be enacted.

THE TRUTH ABOUT MEXICO.

"Observer's" narrative of the Huerta plot and the murder of Madero and Suarez, published yesterday morning in THE TRIBUNE, is a careful, dispassionate account of the establishment of the Borgian crew of assassins now asking the United States government for recognition.

The attempts of American residents in Mexico to persuade President Wilson that our national interests demand and our national honor can stomach an indulgence of turncoats and cutthroats will hardly survive a general understanding of the situation as "Observer" explains it.

No one in America doubted that Huerta killed Madero. The American apologists in Mexico City ignore the fact as if it revealed only an uncertainty of temper and a stress of circumstances in a man otherwise well disposed and a government otherwise honorable.

Huerta's villainies were more interesting. He not only killed Madero, whose money he was taking. He prevented the conciliation of Zapata by carefully designed treachery. He left Orozco free to operate in the northern states, and devoted himself to grafting off the territory he was sent to reduce to order. He was at the bottom of the coup Felix Diaz attempted in Vera Cruz, and he allowed it to fail in order that he might lay his hands on Diaz and use both him and old Bernardo Reyes later in Mexico City.

He had Reyes killed at the first exchange of shots in the revolt in the city. He had need of the old dodderer to warm the public mind to the glorious rising against authority, and then in the old fellow's moment of triumph he blew his head off. He slaughtered Madero's only dependable troops, the rurales, by sending them down a street in an attack on machine guns. He had Gustavo Madero, with whom he had been drinking, tortured and killed. He had Madero and Suarez killed, and now the government of which he is the head asks recognition of the United States.

We might as well come to an agreement with a rattlesnake or sign a treaty with a copperhead. Huerta is in extremis. The constitutionalists are hurrying the day when he will be in flight or hanging from a tree. We can wait that time.

A CHALLENGE OF DECENCY.

Her position is the highest executive office in the public educational system of the fourth city in the world.

Does the book agent show any apparent consciousness of these facts? Does he come in with his hat in his hand respectfully to petition official consideration of his wares?

He does not.

He tells this high official and distinguished woman that he "will get her scalp."

Is he thrown out by the scruff of his neck?

He is not.

Why?

Why, gentlemen of the board of education? Why, Mayor Harrison? Why, people of Chicago?

No such situation as has been disclosed in this disgraceful episode could possibly have been created unless there were something rotten in our school affairs. No book agent, no representative of any private money making corporation could have borne himself with the insufferable insolence of this book agent unless there were something rotten in our school affairs.

What is this secret current of influence which is strong enough to force an official like Ella Flagg Young to defend herself before a body of supposedly responsible representatives of the people of Chicago?

What is the weight of the pull of a stockyards gangster and a lodging house boss in the educational affairs of Chicago?

What is the weight of publishing houses for the dictation of school purchases and school policies, and the mulcting of parents for unnecessary changes of text books?

This scandal is rank, and if the community is not sound asleep it will not endure that it be whitewashed or shuffled out of sight.

WE REASSURE JAPAN.

Secretary Bryan has authorized the American embassy at Tokio to deny that the movement of two companies of coast artillery from New York to Hawaii was a war measure, thus confirming our own belief that it was not. It was Mr. Bryan's embarrassment to find that Secretary Garrison was obliged to carry out military plans of the preceding administration, made when California was getting along peaceably with the Jap farmer, and order a movement of troops constituting so considerable a part of our armed force as to give Japan cause for uneasiness.

Mr. Bryan thus found himself uncomfortably capped by a helmet at the precise moment when he was uttering words of love for all men, including such as are ineligible to citizenship as well as such as are eligible. Naturally the worthy man, alarmed by the sound of his own voice rumbling within the steel casque, hastened to pull it off and to show his smiling face to the world again. Both Mr. Bryan's hands are outstretched in peace and there is nothing up his sleeve.

DOESN'T "Memorial day" convey the idea a little better than "Decoration day"?

THERE is no denying that it often rains on the 30th of May—but there are mackintoshes and umbrellas.

THE soldiers whose memory we honor today had to march through a great many rainstorms between 1861 and 1865.

FROM the colonel's testimony we gather the impression that he doesn't like cigaroots any better than President Wilson likes lobbyists.

IN your wildest flight of imagination did it ever occur to you that the Hon. H. Dink would become famous some day as a spelling reformer?

IN A MINOR KEY.

Hitherto Unpublished Story About Him.

One day not long ago, a slender, average sized man with a grave, studious, preoccupied look on the face of him, was riding his bicycle leisurely through the suburbs of an opulent and important city.

As he pedaled along a lonely stretch of road two masked men suddenly stepped out from behind a huge tree by the roadside and confronted him with drawn revolvers.

He stopped and dismounted.

"I wish you wouldn't point those things at me," he said. "Accidents have happened through the careless handling of firearms. May I ask you what you want?"

"We want yer coin!" briefly answered one of the two men; "an' wotever joolry ye've got about ye!"

"Well, you will have to 'frisk,' me," he rejoined. "I think that is the conventional term for it. I have to 'hold up' my wheel, you see."

A ghost of a smile faintly irradiated his lean face for a moment.

The two men went through his clothes with a facility born of long and frequent practice. They relieved him of a cheap but serviceable watch, an unpretentious stickpin, and $3.20 in currency.

"Now, gentlemen," he said, "if you will pardon me for using the expression, it must be apparent to you that the tangible results of this business venture of yours are scarcely commensurate with the efforts put forth and the possible risks involved. But let that pass. Gentlemen, answer me on your honor—such as you have. As citizens of this country, and aside from your occupation, don't you consider yourselves good Democrats?"

They looked at each other, then looked at their victim again, and nodded.

"Well, you have robbed a Democratic president of the United States—and the first one the country has had in sixteen years. Don't you feel a bit ashamed of yourselves?"

Without a word they handed back the cheap but serviceable watch, the unpretentious stickpin, and the $3.20 in currency, turned their backs upon him, tore the masks from their faces, climbed a fence at the side of the road, and speedily vanished from sight.

The solitary wheelman slowly remounted his bicycle and rode along as before, but his face wore a look of perplexity.

"Let me see," he muttered, as if vainly trying to recall something that had escaped his mind, "where was I when that little episode interrupted the current of my thoughts!"

"Bill," said one of the two holdup men, half an hour later, as they stopped to rest, "d'ye reckon that reely was Woodrow hisself?"

"Durned if I know," responded the other; "but it looked like 'im."

Dr. Evans will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

BREAD.

THAT bread is the "staff of life" is an old saying that is hardly subject to contradiction. Everybody eats bread. It is more abundantly used that any other article of food.

Bread is made of flour ground either from wheat, buckwheat, barley, rye, or corn. Enough water is added to the flour to make a uniform dough, after which it is kneaded, either by hand or machinery. A pound of bread is composed of three-quarters of a pound of flour and one-quarter of a pound of water. To this is added enough yeast to excite a fermentative process.

As a result of the fermentative process starch is converted into alcohol, carbonic acid, and water. Just enough salt is added to the bread to give it a pleasant, wholesome taste.

The object of baking is to kill the yeast germ and arrest fermentation. The art of baking bread is all important, since it has much to do with whether the bread is heavy or soggy and whether it is sour. When the baking process leaves the bread in this state it has not been scientifically done, as the germ of fermentation is still active.

Where bread is made from wheat flour it is usually referred to as white, gluten, graham, whole wheat, and bran bread, the name being derived from the particular kind of flour from which the bread is made.

Of these, the white is higher in nutritive value, but it may not be so wholesome, as it is less bulky, contains less roughening, and hence is more constipating.

Graham and whole wheat breads are supposed to be made from flour which contains all of the constituents of the original grain in their same proportions. In many cases, however, the graham and whole wheat flours have been but partially bolted.

Bread is a mixed food, containing many classes of ingredients—fat, salts, sugar, protein, and starch. While it contains fat, it does not contain enough to make it a perfect food, which probably explains in part the reason why people eat butter with their bread.

Bread does not seem to tire the appetite. No better explanation, perhaps, could be given for its common consumption than this fact.

The free use of hot bread is usually tabooed by hygienists for several reasons. Hot rolls, for instance, are not thoroughly chewed before swallowing, and are, therefore, not properly mixed with the digestive juices. There may be too great a quantity eaten, because of greater palatability. Accordingly, the habit of eating stale bread instead of fresh should be encouraged.

White bread usually is more pure than the brown breads, because it is easier to adulterate the brown breads than the white. White bread, however, may be adulterated with chalk, gypsum, pipe clay, and similar articles.

The addition of a mineral acid to bread containing these adulterants produces an effervescence when it comes in contact with the carbonates used as such adulterants.

PREVENTS STABLE ODOR.

J. L. N. writes: "Will you kindly let me know if there is any truth in the claim made for powdered lime in the inclosed clipping:

"'The visitor who now goes through the stables of the Fiss, Doerr & Carroll company, in New York, where horses have been kept constanly for sixty years, would not, if he were blindfolded, know that he was in a stable. The remodeled, renovated buildings are without a particle of stable odor. This is due in part to a new wrinkle in sanitation introduced by William Bradley. In one corner of each barn is a small bin filled with pulverized limestone, which the grooms sprinkle lightly over the floors every day or two. The effect is truly astonishing. Mr. Bradley says it not only absorbs all orders but all moisture as well, keeping the barns in a condition that no amount of hard work and good management could have equaled under old methods. "And if you can find a fly in any stable where that limestone is sprinkled, I shall pay you a quarter apiece for them," Mr. Bradley added. It would seem as though other owners of stables might well give limestone a trial as a dissipator of odor and enemy to flies.'

"Is there anything that can be used to prevent flies from breeding in manure that will not destroy its fertilizing qualities?"

REPLY.

The method described is excellent. It has been used by at least one wide-awake dairyman for years, I know. It prevents odors, and it adds to the value of the manure. However, it is not of great value as an anti-fly measure. If Mr. Bradley has been paying 25 cents a fly for many years, he is probably in the poorhouse now. Prof. Forbes says that sulphate of iron, one pound in a bucket of water for each horse or cow, each day, prevents flies, and does not harm the manure.

DOCTOR MEANS CONSUMPTION.

Mrs. G. L. F. writes: "A man past 35 is troubled with a cough, mostly in the morning, and raises mucus, which, he says, is caused by catarrh. After he clears his head he seems all right for the day. He has just been examined by a doctor, who has found a bad spot on the right lung. He smokes a great deal. Do you think these are symptoms of consumption? What do you advise?"

REPLY.

When a doctor says there is a bad spot on a lung he means consumption is present. If the diagnosis is correct the man should go at once on an open air rest feeding treatment. This should be taken in a sanitarium if it can be arranged. Home treatment generally is unsatisfactory.

BETTER NOT GIVE OIL.

Anxious Reader writes: "Is it wise for a mother to give small children, one 3 years and one 5 months old, olive oil for constipation? They are unusually large and heavy children and it seems to me that the oil would do more harm than good."

REPLY.

It is permissible, though it is not wise. She should be able to control the condition in the older child by giving fruits and vegetables. The younger may take some orange juice. In addition she can help by regulating her own diet.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1913: By the Brentwood Company.]

THE Comtesse de Greffulhe, organizer of the floating exhibition of French art—bronzes, porcelain, embroideries, laces, tapestries, crystals, jewels, ivories, etc.—which arrives in New York today on board the liner La France, which has given up two large galleries fitted with glass showcases for the purpose, is acknowledged leader of the smartest Parisian society, and the originator of all sorts of enterprises for public benefit.

Her idea in devising this latest of her schemes is to give the masters of French decorative art an opportunity to make their works known to people on this side of the Atlantic.

The two galleries of La France, which will be open for inspection during the vessel's stay in New York, contain some of the finest works of Rodin, Faliz, Lalique, Bourdelle, etc., and it is proposed to change the exhibits on each trip of La France, so as to give a chance to as many leading creators of decorative art as possible to become known in the new world.

A couple of years ago the Comtesse de Greffulhe started in Paris an institution, entitled the School of Marriage, and which, having for its object the teaching of economy, neatness, cooking, needlework, and what may be described as home making, has proved a great success.

It teaches the students how to cook a wholesome meal for 15 cents, how to fashion a dainty and practical trousseau for the modest sum of $15, and how to please the future husband by cheerfulness, intelligence, neatness, economy, and sweetness of manner. It always has a large number of pupils, chiefly girls of the working classes, and daughters of city employés.

The Comtesse is a rich, clever, and brilliant woman, passionately fond of music and the high priestess of Wagnerism in France. It is entirely due to her influence that the former prejudice against the creator of the "Niebelungen" has disappeared.

During the days of Napoleon III. Wagner's operas were hooted off the stage, and the popular demonstrations against them were so great that, on the night of their only performance give at that epoch, Princess Pauline Metternich, then Austrian ambassadress, deliberately snapped her jeweled fan in two in passionate anger at the treatment accorded to the masterpieces of the composer.

Today these same operas are applauded, thanks mainly to the Comtesse de Greffulhe, who has thus shown herself to be more powerful in her generation than was Princess Metternich, in the day of her reign, as queen of fashion at Paris, prior to the war of 1870.

Parisian society, in fact, submits to her direction in matters of fashion, of mannerisms, of fads, and of taste, and, under the circumstances, it is a matter for congratulation that these tastes should be of an intellectual and of a philanthropic character.

A Belgian by birth, being the eldest sister of that Prince Joseph de Caraman-Chimay who was compelled to obtain a divorce from his American wife, the former Clara Ward, in consequence of her infatuation for the gypsy violinist, Rigo, she was brought up entirely in France, her mother being a member of the historic French house of Montesquieu.

She has not only a large fortune of her own, a portion of which consists of shares in the French Canal du Midi, a waterway between the Mediterranean and the Atlantic ocean, through French territory, constructed 250 years ago by her ancestor, Pierre Paul Riquet, Baron de Bonrepos, but her husband also is wealthy.

The Comte de Greffulhe is a most hospitable, genial, and open handed man, looking on the rosiest side of everything, and determined to permit nothing to cloud his sunny disposition.

He is the grandson of a peddler of Cevennes, who went to Paris at the time of the great French revolution and made a fortune. Realizing earlier than most people the wane of the Napoleonic régime, he turned his eyes in the direction of the Bourbons, and became one of the most generous backers, in a monetary sense, of Louis XVIII., while he was still in exile.

After the restoration Louis recompensed the services thus rendered by creating Greffulhe a peer of France and a count.

Greffulhe thereupon married a Mlle. de Vintimille, daughter of one of the great nobles entirely ruined by the revolution. His son, Henri, married into the ducal house of De la Rochefoucauld, and was the principal banker of Louis Philippe during the last ten years of that monarch's reign, managing all the king's shrewd operations on the money markets of Paris and of other European capitals.

The present Comte de Greffulhe is the son of King Louis Philippe's banker, and has given evidence of the possession of a remarkable amount of diplomacy, in managing to remain on the best of terms with the republic, without forfeiting the good will of his friends among the monarchical parties.

It was in order to be able to maintain this exceptional position that the countess, when offered some time ago by the government the cross of the Legion of Honor, in recognition of the prominent part which she has taken in every philanthropic enterprise for the last twenty-five years in Paris, declined the distinction, on the ground that it might impair her powers of usefulness in connection with charitable undertakings.

So splendid are the hospitalities of the count and countess at their house in Paris, and, above all, at their château of Bois Boudran, that the count goes by the name of "the Veau d'Or" (golden calf), the one time golden hue of his fine beard, suggesting the yellow metal, being in part responsible for this sobriquet.

Bois Boudran has at least 10,000 acres of richly stocked game preserves, where royalists, imperialists, scions of foreign reigning houses, and pillars of the republican régime are accustomed to meet on a common ground.

Edward VII., the late King Carlos of Portugal, the Duke and Duchess of Aosta, Queen Mary Amelie, Russian grand dukes, and Austrian archdukes have all been entertained at Bois Boudran, the battues in the day time being followed by special representations of the Comédie Française, or else of some other Parisian playhouse, in the large private theater of the château.

The Greffulhes have several children, one of them being married to the Duc de Guiche, the clever son and heir of the present and eleventh Duc de Gramont.

Lewis Harcourt, British secretary of state for the colonies, is blessed with an altogether remarkable memory, which proved of inestimable service to his father, when he was acting as the latter's most devoted and efficient private secretary, and which, in one memorable instance, was of great value to the government and to the royal family.

In the midst of this quandary, Lewis Harcourt happened to recall that, twenty years previously, when his father, the late Sir William Vernon Harcourt, was secretary of state for the home department, he had been intrusted by Queen Victoria with a mysterious, sealed package, with instructions that it was to be carefully kept at the home department and not to be opened until the day following her death.

It was found to contain Queen Victoria's instructions for her obsequies—instructions which were complied with, almost to the letter.

Lewis Harcourt is married to Miss Mary Burns, daughter of Mrs. Walter H. Burns, who is a sister of the late J. Pierpont Morgan.

[H. G. Wells, in the London Author.]

The sum "to a ha'penny" I have "put out advertising" to "arrive" at my "present stage of success" is just exactly £0 0s. 0d., and I have no doubt that Mr. Bennett and Mr. Shaw will confess to an equal parsimony. What my publisher spends is between himself and God. I never pay for advertisement or corrections, never allow an agency clause in my agreements (I generally don't do business through agents), always take 25 per cent upon a 6s. book, always exact a big check on account of royalties (rather larger than what is caused by the certain sales), always reserve the right to publish a cheap edition at less than 13d. at the end of two years, and never suffer a 13 as 12 clause. I draw up my own agreements with Messrs. Macmillan, who also, as a matter of courtesy—and subject, of course, to a considerate use of the privilege—give me unlimited free copies. If an author is really worth while publishing, he can get these terms from any decent publishing house, and I wish we could make some agreement among authors to hold the publishers generally at this level.

The Friend of the People.

Communications to this department MUST be signed by the full name and address of the writers. No attention will be paid to letters unless they are so signed. This is important to note, as many answers are sent by mail direct to the writers. Pen names may be used if so desired, but for our benefit you must give us your full name and address.

THE DOCUMENTS IN THE CASE.

Chicago, July 10, 1912.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Is there a law compelling people to take care of and keep in proper condition the cement sidewalks in front of vacant property?

I refer to the sidewalk in front of the premises which number is either 3743 or 3745 Waveland court. It has been that way for something like three or four years, and does not improve with age.

A NEIGHBOR.

Supervisor Corey reports that in front of the above premises, which are owned by E. J. Coyle, 10 North Union street, there is a six foot cement sidewalk which is crumbling away. He has notified the owner to have the same replaced with a new walk.

N. E. MURRAY,
Superintendent of Sidewalks.

Chicago, Sept. 21, 1912.—Mr. N. E. Murray, Superintendent of Sidewalks: On July 10 I wrote a letter to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE "Friend of the People" department making inquiry if there is a law compelling owners to take care of and keep in order the sidewalks in front of their vacant property.

I was informed through their columns that Supt. Corey reported that the walk in front of the premises at 3743 Waveland court was in bad condition and that he had notified the owner to have same replaced with a new walk.

To this date there has been nothing done in the matter and this particular piece of sidewalk is becoming worse and more unsightly from day to day.

NEIGHBOR.

Chicago, Oct. 8, 1912.—Mr. N. E. Murray, Superintendent of Sidewalks: Would greatly appreciate if you would refer to my letter of Sept. 21 and let me know at an early date what your department has done towards having repairs made on the badly crumbled away cement sidewalk in front of the premises at 3743 Waveland court.

NEIGHBOR.

Chicago, Oct. 22, 1912.—Dear Sir: Your complaint as to condition of sidewalk in front of 3743-45 Waveland court was referred to Inspector Snyder for investigation and attention. Mr. Snyder reports that he has notified the owner of this property to build a new walk in front of same.

N. E. MURRAY,
Superintendent of Sidewalks.

Chicago, Dec. 6, 1912.—N. E. Murray, Superintendent of Sidewalks—Dear Sir: In reply to your letter of Oct. 22 in reference to the condition of the sidewalk at 3743 Waveland court, beg to say that I have had this matter up with the board of local improvements with various sources since the 10th day of July, and it seems strange that the only satisfaction that can be obtained is that the owner of the property in question has been notified. Is this all the department does, to notify? Are these notices or notifications not followed up to see that the conditions mentioned in the notices are remedied?

If the bureau of sidewalks cannot obtain action on these notices kindly inform me by return mail what person, or body, or department under the city's jurisdiction this matter can be taken up with in order to get action.

An early reply will greatly oblige the writer.

NEIGHBOR.

Chicago, Dec. 17, 1912.—Replying to your letter of Dec. 6, in regard to condition of the sidewalk at 3743-45 Waveland court, in which you inquire if this bureau has no method of following up notices, you are advised that the only method we have of following up these notices is to prepare an ordinance and have assessment proceedings confirmed and the work done under city contract, provided the owner does not do the work. We are preparing such an ordinance to cover this case.

I have also this day written the owner, Mr. E. J. Coyle, 14 North Union street, again notifying him to rebuild the walk.

N. E. MURRAY,
Superintendent of Sidewalks.

Chicago, May 6.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Trying vainly for the last five years to have sidewalk in front of 3743 Waveland court put in. Enclosed find the effort I made after reporting to the sidewalk department with no results further than the last (Dec. 17) reply. Will you please ask the department what power keeps them from getting the promised sidewalk put in place? Letters like the last one are to me of no use except that one sees that he is up against it and therefore I ask your kind help.

NEIGHBOR.

Chicago, May 28.—With reference to the attached communication complaining of walks on Waveland court, would say that there were several notices served on the owners of the property to repair the walk, to which no attention was paid. There is now a proceeding under way to have the work done by ordinance, but in any event the work cannot be done before some time in the fall.

N. E. MURRAY,
Superintendent of Sidewalks.

CONDUCTOR WILL BE INSTRUCTED.

Chicago, May 26.—[To the Friend of the People.]—The transfers issued by the Chicago Railways company are supposed to be good for fifteen minutes after punched. What is to be done when conductor 2994 of the Robey street line refused transfers punched 9:40 p. m. at exactly 9:45 p. m.? [transfers numbered 1761]. Is there no exception when car from which transfers were issued becomes delayed? Should not such conductors be so informed?

A. L. BREDFIELD.

A transfer punched 9:40 p. m. is valid until 9:55 p. m. if otherwise properly marked and dated. Conductors are instructed to issue new transfers to passengers when their cars have been delayed so as to interfere with the time limit on transfers already issued. This matter will be brought to the attention of conductor 2994. We regret the occurrence.

CHICAGO RAILWAYS COMPANY.

PLAY RIGHTS OF A CHILD.

Chicago, May 23. — [To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Kindly advise me if a landlord has the right to stop a child from playing in the back yard, front steps, and basement. I am living in an apartment building and the landlord told my wife, and also instructed the janitor, that our daughter, who is 6 years old, could not play on the premises. My wife argued with him a little about the matter, saying that the child could play any place on the premises, whereas he said we had a lease on the flat we occupied only, and not any other part of the property.

A READER.

Your child has the right to play as you suggest, provided she does not bother the landlord or other tenant unnecessarily. If the landlord continues his present attitude hold up the rent on the ground that the landlord is refusing you rights which go with the renting of the flat.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WHAT CAUSED THE INJURY?

Chicago, May 20.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Mrs. B. had operation performed in Cleveland, and during the operation her left foot was very seriously injured, and it has caused her severe pain, and she has not been able to use her foot since. Who should be held responsible for this?

O. C. B.

The liability of the hospital and the doctor depends on what was the direct cause of the injury. It would be well to make any claim for damages against the hospital and the doctors jointly.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

JAMES H. POUND, CHIEF COUNSEL FOR ROOSEVELT, AN OLD SCHOOL LAWYER.

BY FRANK G. KANE.

JAMES H. POUND of Detroit, who is chief counsel for Col. Theodore Roosevelt in the former president's action for libel against George A. Newett, the Ishpeming editor, is a lawyer of the old country circuit kind. He writes all his legal papers in his own hand, appears personally in all his cases, quotes the classics and Shakspeare and the Bible in his addresses to juries.

He is 61 years old, over 6 feet tall, weighs somewhere near 200 pounds, and is grizzled and indurated. He has a harsh, metallic voice, a round, big head that was "shock" when more hair adorned it than now, and a round, fat face with an iron gray mustache that hardly can be called an adornment. In dress, in speech, in manner, and in habit of living he is plainness personified.

Mr. Pound's law office in Detroit has been the place of inception for many of the great legal cases in the Michigan courts and some in the federal tribunals. It has been also the college of law to which not a few Michigan lawyers of marked ability, and even one or two judges, look back as their alma mater. Yet is is modest and unpretentious. It is more like the workshop of a country justice of the peace than the "suite" of the lawyer who has one of the largest practices in Michigan.

To get to this office the seeker after counsel first must find the old and blackened building in lower Griswold street. No inspection of the telephone book will aid him; for Mr. Pound has no telephone in his office. He looks on it not as an improved means of communication but as an adjunct to distraction. The way to the office door leads up a rickety set of stairs, none too well kept, and all too well worn.

Within the office all is severity, mellowed only by the dust that coats the law books, the furniture, the window panes. There are no rugs, no flowers, no ornaments to relieve the bareness of the room. Sitting around and gossiping leisurely may be found two or three old friends. More likely than not, Mr. Pound will not be in. If any one of the numerous courts is sitting, he probably will be there. He will be down at his office in the evening, when he does most of his book work and consulting.

His desk in the corner is not one of the flat, new fashioned desks, but of the high, leaning, roll topped sort. It is piled high with papers, a great confusion of them, weighted down with a law book or two, opened and thrown face downward.

Every one of the papers is manuscript from the hand of Mr. Pound, excepting those that have been served on him by some of "these stylish lawyers." Mr. Pound will have no typewriter in his office.

"I write them out myself," he says, "and then I know what's in them."

A tour of the courts in search of the lawyer may take a few moments or a day. He may be before the Circuit court, or in the Federal court, or at Lansing, or at Cincinnati, or Washington. He may be in the justice court, pleading the cause of a widow, whose case involves no more than $8 in money, but some broad principle of justice, or some keen point of the law.

Mr. Pound has a marked sense of obligation to his profession. No case is too small or too big for him. The fee doesn't matter. Until a few years ago he accepted all who came to him with clean hands and seeking justice. Lately, so much to his regret, he has had to limit his practice a little. The limitation would be laughed at in the offices of a thoroughly modern law firm, with its many members and its numerous specialties, but to Mr. Pound it means a mighty stroke of elimination when he has to decline one deserving case out of a score.

With all his hard work he has managed to occupy some public positions and to try for others. Also he has managed to accumulate a considerable fortune, partly from his law practice, partly through dealing in real estate. He is accounted one of the moderately rich men of Detroit.

It is difficult to say whether Mr. Pound is a better book lawyer or a better trial lawyer. It is in his work before a jury that the homely characteristics of the man appear clearly and to advantage. One of his usages in opening his argument before a jury is to draw a simple, eloquent comparison of the high privilege and sobering responsibility of jury duty as compared with that other great service, defense of country in time of war. He draws for the jurors a picture of themselves, in sober business suits, sustained by no excitement, incited by no martial music, but called on to perform a service as necessary to the perpetuation of the country as that rendered by the soldier.

Mr. Pound was born in Detroit in August, 1852. In 1863 and 1864 he was selling newspapers in the streets of Detroit. As soon as he had saved enough to take him to New York he went there to enlist. He found it hard to get into military service, because he was only a little over 12 years old, but he persisted, and at last succeeded in getting aboard the steamship Spalding, Gen. B. F. Butler's flagship, as cabin boy. He thus was in the stirring events along Albemarle sound in the closing days of the civil war.

He returned to school, was graduated from the high school, and then went as apprentice into a machine shop. He learned the machinist's trade, and for four years was employed in bridge and locomotive works. At 19 he entered the law department in the University of Michigan, from which he was graduated with the class of '73. Within a year he had a case before the state Supreme court. He espoused the Democratic party, served a term as Circuit court commissioner, and ran for congress in 1898, but was defeated. Through his work in the courts and his pronounced utterances on all matters in which he was concerned that happened to be made public, he became widely known in Michigan.

In 1907 he was appointed water commissioner for Detroit, and he served on that board until 1912. When he resigned, he let every one know why he was going. He said he had enough when he saw a "$900 man paid $3,600 a year."

"I understood that we were to get $1 worth of work for a dollar," was another of his statements on this occasion.

When the Progressive party was formed last summer, Mr. Pound severed his lifelong allegiance with the Democratic party and accepted the Progressive nomination for congress. J. Coyle, 14 North Union street, again notifying him to rebuild the walk. N. E. MURRAY, Superintendent of Sidewalks.

Chicago, May 6.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Trying vainly for the last five years to have sidewalk in front of 3743 Waveland court put in. Enclosed find the effort I made after reporting to the sidewalk department with no results further than the last (Dec. 17) reply. Will you please ask the department what power keeps them from getting the promised sidewalk put in place? Letters like the last one are to me of no use except that one sees that he is up against it and therefore I ask your kind help. NEIGHBOR.

Chicago, May 23.—With reference to the attached communication complaining of walks on Waveland court, would say that there were several notices served on the owners of the property to repair the walk, to which no attention was paid. There is now a proceeding under way to have the work done by ordinance, but in any event the work cannot be done before some time in the fall.

N. E. MURRAY,
Superintendent of Sidewalks.

CONDUCTOR WILL BE INSTRUCTED.

Chicago, May 26.—[To the Friend of the People.]—The transfers issued by the Chicago Railways company are supposed to be good for fifteen minutes after punched. What is to be done when conductor 2994 of the Robey street line refused transfers punched 9:40 p. m. at exactly 9:45 p. m.? [transfers numbered 1761]. Is there no exception when car from which transfers were issued becomes delayed? Should not such conductors be so informed?

A. L. BREDFIELD.

A transfer punched 9:40 p. m. is valid until 9:55 p. m. if otherwise properly marked and dated. Conductors are instructed to issue new transfers to passengers when their cars have been delayed so as to interfere with the time limit on transfers already issued. This matter will be brought to the attention of conductor 2994. We regret the occurrence.

PLAY RIGHTS OF A CHILD.

Chicago, May 23. — [To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Kindly advise me if a landlord has the right to stop a child from playing in the back yard, front steps, and basement. I am living in an apartment building and the landlord told my wife, and also instructed the janitor, that our daughter, who is 6 years old, could not play on the premises. My wife argued with him a little about the matter, saying that the child could play any place on the premises, whereas he said we had a lease on the flat we occupied only, and not any other part of the property.

A READER.

Your child has the right to play as you suggest, provided she does not bother the landlord or other tenant unnecessarily. If the landlord continues his present attitude hold up the rent on the ground that the landlord is refusing you rights which go with the renting of the flat.

WHAT CAUSED THE INJURY?

Chicago, May 20.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Mrs. B. had operation performed in Cleveland, and during the operation her left foot was very seriously injured, and it has caused her severe pain, and she has not been able to use her foot since. Who should be held responsible for this?

O. C. B.

The liability of the hospital and the doctor depends on what was the direct cause of the injury. It would be well to make any claim for damages against the hospital and the doctors jointly.

came to him with clean hands and seeking justice. Lately, so much to his regret, he has had to limit his practice a little. The limitation would be laughed at in the offices of a thoroughly modern law firm, with its many members and its numerous specialties, but to Mr. Pound it means a mighty stroke of elimination when he has to decline one deserving case out of a score.

With all his hard work he has managed to occupy some public positions and to try for others. Also he has managed to accumulate a considerable fortune, partly from his law practice, partly through dealing in real estate. He is accounted one of the moderately rich men of Detroit.

It is difficult to say whether Mr. Pound is a better book lawyer or a better trial lawyer. It is in his work before a jury that the homely characteristics of the man appear clearly and to advantage. One of his usages in opening his argument before a jury is to draw a simple, eloquent comparison of the high privilege and sobering responsibility of jury duty as compared with that other great service, defense of country in time of war. He draws for the jurors a picture of themselves, in sober business suits, sustained by no excitement, incited by no martial music, but called on to perform a service as necessary to the perpetuation of the country as that rendered by the soldier.

Mr. Pound was born in Detroit in August, 1852. In 1863, and 1864 he was selling newspapers in the streets of Detroit. As soon as he had saved enough to take him to New York he went there to enlist. He found it hard to get into military service, because he was only a little over 12 years old, but he persisted, and at last succeeded in getting aboard the steamship Spalding, Gen. B. F. Butler's flagship, as cabin boy. He thus was in the stirring events along Albemarle sound in the closing days of the civil war.

He returned to school, was graduated from the high school, and then went as apprentice into a machine shop. He learned the machinist's trade, and for four years was employed in bridge and locomotive works. At 19 he entered the law department in the University of Michigan, from which he was graduated with the class of '73. Within a year he had a case before the state Supreme court. He espoused the Democratic party, served a term as Circuit court commissioner, and ran for congress in 1898, but was defeated. Through his work in the courts and his pronounced utterances on all matters in which he was concerned that happened to be made public, he became widely known in Michigan.

In 1907 he was appointed water commissioner for Detroit, and he served on that board until 1912. When he resigned, he let every one know why he was going. He said he had enough when he saw a "$900 man paid $3,600 a year."

"I understood that we were to get $1 worth of work for a dollar," was another of his statements on this occasion.

When the Progressive party was formed last summer, Mr. Pound severed his lifelong allegiance with the Democratic party and accepted the Progressive nomination for congress. He ran second in the election to the incumbent, Frank E. Doremus, Democrat. It was probably through his active participation in the Progressive campaign in Michigan that Mr. Pound became interested in the present case of Col. Roosevelt against the Ishpeming editor.

AIL CHIEFS TELL TERMINAL NEEDS

al and deny the claim of the Union Depot company?

Or, if we should deny the claims of all of these roads, in an effort to force them into a large central terminal station, which naturally would compel them to dispose of their present valuable real estate holdings, would not such action be, in effect, a forceful confiscation of property which could not possibly be as valuable for any other use as for railroad purposes?

As I have been a resident of Chicago but a short time, you will observe I have tried to view this situation from the angle of the onlooker, but it does seem to me that whatever may be done that it should be along the lines of fairness, equity, and justice.

BY C. H. MARKHAM.

[President of the Illinois Central Railroad company.]

While, as a citizen of Chicago, I have naturally given some thought to the general question of location of downtown freight and passenger terminals, as president of the Illinois Central I have not felt that my company was in any way involved in the present discussion. The Illinois Central downtown freight terminal is east of Michigan avenue and north of Randolph street, with the Chicago river on the north and the lake on the east. This terminal is convenient to the downtown business district and because of its location, with reference to the river and the lake, does not now, nor will it in future, in any way retard further growth of the business section.

There are suburban passenger stations at Randolph, Van Buren, and Twelfth streets, the through station being also located at Twelfth street. Under the agreement with the south park commissioners we will have ample ground space for the construction of a station of track capacity not exceeded by any passenger terminal in the United States. Like the freight terminal, the location of our passenger station and all the necessary track and other facilities is such as in no manner to interfere with further expansion of the business district or in the carrying out of any city improvement plans which have, up to the present time, been considered.

My company is under contract to provide passenger facilities for the Michigan Central and Big Four railroads, and, by utilizing to its full possibility the existing property and the new land acquired under contract with the south park commissioners, we will have room to take care of all future needs of the Illinois Central and its present tenants, as well as a number of other lines so located as to permit of making convenient use of our facilities.

With Twelfth street extended across our property so as to serve the Field museum and proposed boulevard connecting Grant and Jackson parks, a passenger station, with the upper level served by Twelfth street boulevard and the lower level by widened Indiana avenue, would be of convenient and easy access to the traveling public, and provide a splendid setting for the south end of Grant park.

BY W. A GARDNER.

[President of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway company.]

Originally your railways were largely influenced in location of terminals, both passenger and freight, by the ordinary business desire to reach or be in close touch with the center of activities, and we have manifest evidence that this early instinct, sagacity, or whatever you may term it, was sympathized with and encouraged by their patrons and the general public.

Passenger stations and local freighthouses, with their adjuncts, are the retail departments, if you please, of our transportation lines. They aggregate a multitude of people and thousands of tons of merchandise, but the units to be transported consist of individual persons and small packages of freight.

Your railway manager is like any other zealous salesman; he endeavors to exploit the only article he has to sell—i. e.: transportation for persons and things, in its most attractive form, and this early motive or determination to minimize the distance between business districts and passenger terminals, as well as between local freighthouses and the shippers' warehouse door, has proved to be of mutual benefit and a particularly valuable asset to those enterprising carriers who, in a measure, forecast or entertained visions of your commercial development and supremacy.

Traffic at New Station.

As a justification of the policy outlined, you will, we trust, pardon an illustration which we use because we can vouch for its accuracy. The Chicago and Northwestern Railway handles in and out of its Chicago passenger terminal 60,000 persons each week day, 10,000 per day more than the maximum in the old Wells street station—the new location is nearer the banks, hotels, office buildings, and retail and wholesale districts than the old. Notwithstanding the excellent trolley service and ample supply of cabs and motors on call, a fraction over 90 per cent of these people choose to walk to and from the station; (our passenger business is by no means confined to commutation zones) the ability to do this comfortably from a standpoint of distance adds to their pleasure and satisfaction, and annually increases our patrons and revenues.

It might be well to state right here that it is estimated 25 per cent of our people do 75 per cent of our traveling; therefore, when you satisfy the regular and constant patron you are doing the greatest good to the greatest number of users.

Another interesting fact is the small number of passengers, compared with the whole, who use Chicago as a quick tranfer point from one railway to another. Our experience is that less than 10 per cent of the peope we bring in or take out of the city on through tickets desire to make a continuous trip; the large majority aim to stop over several hours during the day and they do not spend that interval in a railway station, no matter how attractive; therefore, it is a logical conclusion that some misapprehension exists in the minds of those who urge the close proximity of passenger stations as a practical necessity.

We have some statistics relative to our local freight stations at State street and Grand avenue, the former serving our lines west and the latter north and northwest. Approximately, 1,100 wagons, trucks, etc., deliver package freight at these houses daily for forwarding. About one-fourth that number of teams, etc., call at the in-bound houses in same location to receive and take away package freight. We endeavored to trace the wagon movements by streets and distances; a surprisingly small number originate in the loop district.

Warehouses Near the Tracks.

A large percentage comes from and goes to places north of Randolph street and west of Fifth avenue, and many of the streets carrying this traffic would, without it, be quite as conspicuous for their bareness or vacancy as they now are for their activities.

This indicates, to our satisfaction at least, that merchants, jobbers, and others who serve the territory we reach are to a large extent located in the immediate vicinity of our terminals. No doubt this is true of other railways, their terminals and patrons, because it is a well known and accepted fact that there is less lost motion on commerce in Chicago than in any other city in the United States. In other words, the distance from store or warehouse to railway is exceptionally short, and this fact, together with the aggressiveness of the Chicago business man, is no small factor in the expansion of Chicago business.

Competition is not drowsy nor dreaming in this western country. Many interior jobbing points are searching energetically and persistently for trade expansion; they provide active assistance in securing franchises and privileges for tracks in streets and alleys; some of the identical things that we try to discourage in Chicago they are prolific and emphatic in encouraging.

Diversion to Outer Yards.

The Chicago lines have for a long period been active in diverting their wholesale or carload exchange business to outside yards. Very comprehensive expenditures have been and are now being made to wholly eliminate from local or downtown yards everything not city or local, and the space vacated by inside train and transfer yards will provide room for increased local business for a long time in the future.

All public utilities, including railway passenger and freight terminals, should be so located and administered as to provide the maximum of advantage and conveniences by the expenditure of a minimum of effort, time and expense upon the part of those whom the utility serves. This is to be qualified by the fact, already expressed, that a small portion of uor population does a very large proportion of our traveling; likewise, a very modest number of citizens are sellers or shippers as compared with those who purchase, and the rights, privileges, and comfort of the masses is entitled to equal or greater consideration than any particular class or classes.

We have gradually adapted ourselves to current conditions wherein your railway terminals, without exception, so far as we know, are, by virtue of their very location, efficient public utilities and not public disabilites, and so long as your financal center, your wholesale and retail districts, your office buildings and your manufacturing plants remain where they are, my conviction is that it would be detrimental to all people to divorce or further separate the public or the public's business from present and existing railway facilities.

Much can be and much will be done in the general interest to enlarge and improve present terminals and to prevent congestion, a large majority of the objectionable features, which seem indispensable in connection with both passenger and freight terminals at this time, will eventually (not in the next century, but during our lifetime) be dispensed with, and we may also express the hope for less obstruction, more bridges to simplify and accelerate the flow of traffic from either side of the river.

I do not understand that a revolution in railway terminals is a necessity in realizing upon the main features of the Chicago plan. I entertain the highest and most cordial respect for those whose constructive genius has presented us with designs for comprehensive civic improvement, likewise, equal respect for those who at great self-sacrifice have given their time and effort to explaining and introducing this innovation to the public.

HARRISON FAVORS WEST SIDE DEPOT

CLAIM COUNCIL MAJORITY.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

Mayor Harrison yesterday committed himself to the plans of the Pennsylvania group of railroads for freight and passenger terminals on the west side. He thinks some one has ulterior motives in urging Twelfth street as the best site. The mayor is quoted by the city news bureau as saying:

"The Twelfth street advocates will have to show me something better than they have shown before I can see any imperative need of moving the west side depot to a location south of Twelfth street.

"I am fairly well convinced there is something more behind the agitation for the south side terminal than the mere desire to put it at Twelfth street. I don't know what is back of the agitation, but I am sure there must be something."

Attacks "Chicago Plan."

The mayor intimated the judgment of the Chicago plan commission favoring Twelfth street did not influence him. He explained he had appointed only one or two members of the commission. The mayor's argument was that those who favored Twelfth street did not provide a scheme for removing the tracks and freight houses from along Canal street.

"As I view it," continued the mayor, "they will use Twelfth street for a passenger station and leave the freight tracks downtown, thus, instead of making this part of town attractive with a magnificent passenger station, they will make it more ugly than it is now."

Asked whether he had conferred with representatives of the Pennsylvania railroad, the mayor replied:

"Only to a slight extent. Last Monday some of the Pennsylvania people were in my office talking about the ordinances they were going to have introduced that night. I have also talked with Mr. Wacker about the terminal situation."

Mayor's Action Settles Issue?

The announcement of the mayor's position was hailed with delight by certain west side aldermen. Although the council committee on terminals has not reached anything near the end of its public hearings, the west side partisans of the Pennsylvania plan said the mayor's announcement settles the issue finally.

It was pointed out the number of aldermen in the council who will follow the mayor's lead, coupled with those who represent the west side, will constitute a majority.

At the council terminals committee meeting during the day Charles Lederer, attorney representing west side property owners, and A. J. Graham, banker, spoke in favor of the west side plan.

Mr. Graham argued that the Pennsylvania plans provide for structures both for freight and passenger traffic that will be ornamental. He urged the location is fair for all business concerns, that one union station for all Chicago roads is undesirable and that it is better to have a big improvement at once than wait for a plan which may or may not be developed.

He said the loop district will disappear in twenty years and that the center of business will be at Kedzie avenue and Madison street.

He said west side people are in favor of the widening of Halsted street and predicted that project soon will be brought to a head.

Architects Indorse Ponds' Plan.

The Chicago Architects' Business association appeared through F. E. Davidson, as opposing the plan of the Pennsylvania group. The architects favored the plan of Pond and Pond for the passenger terminal and the plan of Jarvis Hunt for freight.

A resolution presented by the architects says in part:

"We do not believe the city council should legislate in the interest of those real estate speculators who have recently acquired holdings in the vicinity of the proposed new terminals, but we believe it should legislate for the lasting benefit of all transportation systems and all the people.

Predict South Side Center.

"When it is considered that for years past at least $10 has been spent for permanent industrial improvements on the south side for every $1 similarly spent on the west side, it is reasonable to suppose the new civic center will arise somewhere south of the present loop district, because of our folly in letting the central west side be cut off by the selfish Pennsylvania program from being as it should be and as otherwise it is sure to be a continuous and integral part of the present central business district.

"We are convinced that if the present plans of the Pennsylvania officials are permitted to be carried out and new barriers created instead of existing barriers broken down, the result will be of benefit solely to the Pennsylvania and allied roads and an ineradicable damage to the west side and to the entire city."

The plans of the Pennsylvania were referred to as "a menace" and the appointment of a committee of architects to report on the terminal situation was proposed.

Discuss Electrification Plan.

The meeting was called primarily to discuss the Long ordinance requiring electrification of all railroad terminals by July 1, 1914.

Another meeting will be held next Monday on electrification. It was agreed the terminal question will be sidetracked until the proposed electrifictation ordinance is disposed of.

MAKES NEW VACCINE RULE; FRIEDMANN MUST GET PERMIT.

New York Health Board, Decrying Doctor's Methods, Holds "Cure" Inefficient, Unsafe, and Harmful.

New York, May 29.—The board of health this afternoon adopted a resolution forbidding the use of living bacterial organisms in the inoculation of human beings for the treatment of disease unless permission is first obtained from the board.

Although Dr. Friedrich F. Friedmann was not mentioned in the resolution, the effect of the measure, it was announced, will be to prohibit the further administration of his treatment for tuberculosis except under special permission from the board.

Certain tests of the efficiency and safety of an alleged cure for tuberculosis now being made here appear unsatisfactory, unscientific, and practically futile, through the insistence of the originator of the alleged remedy on conditions which involve inadequate observation, inaccurate methods of administration, and the insistence of secrecy regarding the substances employed in some phases of the treatment.

"Evidence is already at hand to show that the so-called remedy not only does not fulfill the promises of efficiency and safety under which its use was at first permitted in this city, but, on the contrary, during its administration many patients have suffered serious and unduly rapid progress of their disease."

TAKES MERCURY DOSE; LIVES.

Woman Swallows Four Tablets by Mistake, but Seems Unaffected After Antidote.

Dr. J. A. Neil of 1401 West Madison street yesterday found a bichloride of mercury poisoning in Chicago similar to that which resulted in the death of Banker O. S. Walker of Macon, Ga. Mrs. Edith Colomer, 432 South Loomis street, swallowed four tablets early in the morning, thinking she was taking headache tablets.

Dr. Neil was called. He administered an antidote.

"I don't anticipate any serious effects," Dr. Neil said last night. "The case was taken in time and she will recover in a few days."

Mrs. Colomer was going about her housework yesterday afternoon.

James Howe of 119 South Euclid avenue, Oak Park, who was arrested yesterday after he had run his automobile into the jackknife bridge at State street while it was being raised, was fined $5 and costs by Municipal Judge Williams at the South Clark street court yesterday.

JAPANESE SHIFT DISTURBS BRYAN

STIRRED BY ALIEN BILL.

Possibility That Conservatism May Be Abandoned in Reply to Wilson.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—Disquieting dispatches from Japan have caused Secretary of State Bryan to cancel his speaking engagements in Alabama, Mississippi, and Georgia for next week.

Although the state department has no official announcements to make upon the subject of the Japanese problem, and in spite of the fact that no reply to the note of Mr. Bryan on the subject of the California alien land bill has been received, the department is disturbed.

Rabid Opposition to Act.

Word has been received that the Japanese government has discovered such a pronounced disapproval of the American administration's attitude prevailing in the opposition party's ranks that it has been found necessary to take into the confidence of the present imperial ministry the leaders of the opposition. This will be done before the reply to Secretary Bryan's note is made.

The opposition party in Japan contains the more rabid of the anti-American leaders of the empire. The necessity for their inclusion in the confidence of the imperial ministry is thought here to indicate that the reply to the Bryan note will not be couched in conservative terms.

At any rate, Mr. Bryan himself was sufficiently perturbed to cancel his dates for commencement oratory in the south. He has decided to remain "on the works."

No Remedy Is Suggested.

The Japanese government, it was learned today, throughout the diplomatic interchanges, formal and informal, which resulted from the alien land legislation in California, has not suggested a method for relieving the discrimination which it alleges its citizens have suffered. The communications delivered at the state department by Ambassador Chinda have been confined to expressing Japan's views on the legislation and pointing out the grounds on which Japan felt justified in asking for rectification.

The state department has received no intimation as to when to expect the Japanese rejoinder.

SHOOTS GIRL ON WEDDING DAY

Peter Baker Probably Fatally Wounds Genevieve Thomas.

THEN TURNS GUN ON SELF.

Result of Jealous Quarrel Following Visit to Amusement Park.

The police, called to a rooming house at 836 West Adams street early yesterday, following a succession of revolver shots, found on the floor a man and a woman, both wounded probably fatally. Beside them lay two notes. One was from the badly injured man.

"J. F. Thomas," it read. "This is the kind of wedding you will see—a funeral instead.

"PETER BECKER."

Thomas, who lives in Forest Park, is the father of the girl, Genevieve Thomas. The wedding, prevented by Becker's jealousy, was to take place during the day. But it was the note written to her, too late, by her younger sister, begging her to reform, that furnished the bitterest part of the tragedy.

Her Sister's Letter.

It follows:

"Dear Genevieve: I am inclosing $5, which ought to tide you over for a while, at least with what Pete can make, and keep you in groceries until next Saturday, when he gets to work.

"This isn't much, but I don't want you to spend one cent of it for drink, and keep away from that dive, the one on Monroe street, for you are going to the bad.

"I'm going out to the cemetery this afternoon and see about having mamma's grave fixed up and tonight I am going to confession and communion in the morning, both of which I will offer for you, with the hope that through the act of divine Providence you will be given a little common sense to mend your ways.

"I should think you would try to do some kind of work. I have to work for what I get, and work hard, too, and I am sure you are as strong as I am, so far as that goes. I suppose I can talk myself sick along this line, for all the good it will do. Call me up when you can and let me know how things are, and whatever you do, try to be decent and don't spend these few dollars foolishly.

"BABE."

Tell "Babe" of Shooting.

"Babe" was identified as Miss Marie Thomas, stenographer at the Central Trust Company of Illinois, the younger sister. The police had to notify her of the older girl's shooting, and she hurried, frantic, to the county hospital, where both Becker and his intended bride were taken.

The couple quarreled after the return from an amusement park. At the hospital it was said neither's chance for recovery was strong.

Masons at World in Chicago.

The biggest Masonic celebration of the year reached its culmination at 7:30 o'clock last night when 1,250 Knights Templar marched down Wabash and Michigan avenues from the Coliseum to the Auditorium theater. The demonstration had been arranged by the general officers of the Knights Templar and the Masonic lodge in conjunction with the officials of the World in Chicago.

In honor of the Masonic fraternity, the exposition at the Coliseum and the "Pageant of Darkness and Light" at the Auditorium theater were turned over to the Masons the entire day. They had charge of everything and with their usual strenuousness made it a great day both for the Masonic fraternity and the World in Chicago.

Today is Patriotic day and a special program has been arranged. Monday will be Grand Army day.

Bryan and Daniels Praised.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Secretaries Bryan and Daniels and other administration officials were commended for the stand they have taken on the temperance question at a temperance rally at today's conference of Seventh Day Adventists of the World at Takema Park, Md.

Mrs. Emma Sanford Shelton, president of the District W. C. T. U., declared in an address that one indication that the nation is awakening to the temperance question is the fact that an "ex-president is now suing an editor for stigmatizing him as a drunkard." Her statement that, as far as she knew, the nation has now a temperance president was loudly applauded.

It was announced that more than $500,000 had been appropriated by the Adventists for missions in 1913.

Miss Sophie Bloom

A romance which started over a basket of roses at a charity dance last November at the Hotel La Salle yesterday brought announcement of the engagement of Miss Sophie Bloom, 438 East Forty-fifth street, the flower girl, and John Nuhoff of New York, who bought the roses. Mr. Nuhoff was one of the guests who bought roses. He came back and bought more, and when the supply was exhausted gave them back again so he could continue buying. The wedding is to take place in the fall.

Pay Tribute to Mission Worker.

Several hundred men who have been led from drink and crime by the Bible mission at 626 West Madison street gathered in the hall last night in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of John Stewart's work.

Former tramps, "rod riders," drunkards, and other members of the "down and out" fraternity greeted Mr. Stewart. They are business men and workers now, due to the efforts of Stewart. A program was prepared by Rollo H. McBride. Former Judge McKenzie Cleland advocated freedom of the bench from precedents. John W. Scott of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., treasurer of the mission, and Thomas W. Ball also delivered addresses.

Mr. Stewart is 72 years old. In the twenty-five years he has had charge of the Bible mission 912,000 men have dropped into the little hall, heard his advice, and decided to reform. The mission found positions for 145 men who were "down and out" in May.

How to Earn Money at Home

The purpose of this department is to find profitable employment for women in occupations which they can carry on at home without interfering with their domestic duties. To stimulate suggestions The Tribune will award $1 each for every help published.

Address—Sally Joy Brown, care The Tribune, Chicago.

The exhibit room in The Tribune building is open from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. except on Saturday, when it closes at 1 o'clock.

Are You Getting Ready for Christmas?

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

ARE you starting to get ready for Christmas?

You think it is too early?

There are lots of other home women do not think it is too early and they are the ones who are going to earn the money!

Aren't you just as anxious as they are to earn some money that will be absolutely your own?

Then why not do the same as they are doing by starting now to get ready for the demand for home products the Christmas season will bring?

You just simply can't realize what a demand there is for home products of all sorts at the Christmas season.

Crocheted wool slippers, shawls, baby bootees and sacques and carriage covers, so many of these things that you could make over the summer.

Needlework novelties of all sorts—made of ribbons in all of the dainty shades and flowery combinations, ribbon flowers, bags, cushions of various styles.

Can you imagine anything more delightful than to be making these things during your idle afternoons and evenings this summer?

It is such a pleasure to work on dainty materials, but such an expensive pleasure unless there is a market for your products!

There is a market for your products!

A market that reaches from the isthmus of Panama to Alaska and from the Pacific to the Atlantic ocean!

A market that sometimes carries the products of a little home woman on a Nebraska farm to the heart of London and even to Paris!

That is the sort of market that is waiting for the home things you can make.

⁂

Do you wonder how you are going to reach these people in all parts of the world when you, perhaps, live in a small country town or on a farm?

You can do it the way other home women have done it through the medium of an advertisement in THE TRIBUNE Home Workers Market place!

A small advertisement started in this section this summer would mean that you would be securing advance orders for your work—orders upon which you could be working this summer.

Don't you see that it isn't one single bit too early to begin to get ready for Christmas?

The home women who are going to reap the largest benefit from the big sales of home products this Christmas are the home women who start to get ready the earliest.

Are you going to be one of these women?

The summer isn't so long after all and it always flies past long before one expects it to.

Then why not use it to the best advantage to be making a little stock of pretty things for the Christmas trade?

⁂

Take the time today to write to me of the things that you can make that you think would be appreciated by the busy people who have to buy their Christmas gifts.

I can help you to find the market that will be glad to pay for the work you can do.

Start to get ready for Christmas this minute by writing me that letter!

Fancy Things for the Holidays.

The position I held before this one was at a pharmacy school and I often did stenographic work for the students, for which I was well paid. I would work on Saturday afternoons and also come down early in the morning. At one time I made quite a little sum by writing questions and answers given at the state board examinations and by making six or seven duplicates I could sell them at a price which the students could pay and yet double the amount I otherwise made. I have also taken sermons down in shorthand. I make many little fancy things at Christmas time. Many of them cost the mere sum of 25 cents. I am always on the lookout for new ideas in the fancy departments and in this way each Christmas I make different articles. I could name them here, but it will take up too much space. However, if any one wishes any suggestions from me I shall be glad to give them. I have also painted postal cards, which I purchase at 1 cent each, and they sell for 5 and sometimes 10 cents. Then I have framed them for 10 to 15 cents, and these can be sold at a quarter or more. At present I am making some favors and place cards combined for a bridal shower, which I priced at $3 per dozen, and the expense I was put to is 60 cents. The cards I hand painted.

MISS M. M. NIELSEN, 7329 Lexington avenue.

Piled Up with Orders.

A good way for a girl to make pin money is by making Windsor ties. I buy remnants of all kinds of silk and from a square yard of goods I make seven ties, each from four to five inches wide and a yard long, making the edges in a shape and stitching French knots, which are simple, near the edge. These I sell for 25 cents each. I got an order from a girls' club for twenty-five ties and arm bands, with the initials G. L. C. of the girls' club. I am to make the monogram in all French knots and the arm band too. I can hardly wait till I have them all done, then I shall receive $7.75, as I charge them 35 cents apiece. I am piled up with orders to keep me busy till July.

Solicit Fire Insurance.

I know a widow who has made a living for herself and children by soliciting fire insurance. One can work up a nice business in this line, as, after having placed policies, at their expiration all one need do is to telephone and ask the insured for renewal, and they usually renew in that way.

L. KOLMER, 4567 Woodlawn avenue.

For Automobile Tourists.

A friend of mine, who had been having much leisure time, is now realizing quite a sum of money making automobile bonnets. They are made of chiffon and draped in such a way as to take the place of a veil, if needed. She charges from $1.50 to $2, depending on the quality of chiffon. This being the season for tourists and by making them so inexpensive, she has more orders than she can possibly fill.

Formula for a Face Preparation.

I know a woman who made a face wash and sold it at 50 cents per bottle. She had people who would give her repeated orders. It is not injurious to the skin, but good for it. You will see by the recipe it stays on the skin better than talcum and does not show like a regular face powder, but looks like a natural color of skin. It is to be applied with the fingers or a cloth and let dry. I secured a bottle and would not be without it. If one is not sure of its merits procure a small quantity for trial. One pound Epsom salts in one-half pint boiling rain water, one teaspoon glycerin, one ounce rose water, one ounce bay rum, one teaspoon tincture of benzoin, two tablespoons lemon juice, strain through a cloth. Few drops of perfume. Make only one-quarter at a time.

MRS. OLIVE MEADE,
124 North Root street, Aurora, Ill.

More Orders Than She Can Fill.

One woman accidentally hit upon a plan for making money. She made a set of covers for her upholstered parlor furniture of bright colored cretonne bound in white. She also made side drapes behind her net curtains to match the furniture covers. For her library table she lined a long piece of the cretonne to make it heavier and edged it with lace for a scarf. A friend in the furniture business admired the outfit and offered to place them on sale in his store for her. He would not accept anything for selling the set, as nothing like that had been seen before, and it was a sort of advertisement for him. Soon she had more orders than she could fill herself.

AN OF MARRIAGE MYSTERIES TAKEN WEST TO STAND TRIAL.

dmund E. C. Von Klein Leaves Minneapolis in Charge of Detectives—Faces Charge of Swindling Women.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 29.—Edmund E. Von Klein, Minneapolis diamond broker, ssed through his home city this afternoon er the Northern Pacific railway in charge two detectives, bound for Portland, Ore., to nd trial on a charge of swindling. Von ein walked beside his train for a few in es and talked of his line of defense.

"I shall make it clear that it is a case of staken identity," he said. "I shall present dence to show that police of several cities looking for a 'Chappie' Lewis, who has yed the marriage game and who has a rtillon record. I am not that man."

Von Klein had been much distressed over ports that he would travel to Portland ackled with the "Oregon boot," which pre nts a prisoner from running.

Neither Mrs. Von Klein, his wife, nor Miss rie von Klein, his sister, was at the sta n.

"Please tell them I'm sorry I could not see em," the prisoner said, when he stepped ck on the North Coast Limited, as the train lled out of the station, and he waved a good Senators Declare Disorders in Suffraget Pageant Due Alone to Crowds and Not to Officers' Neglect.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Supt. Sylvester and the Washington police are absolved from blame for the disorders which attended the big woman suffrage pageant here on March 3 by the report of the senate committee which investigated the affair, presented to the senate today.

The immense crowd that flocked to Washington for the inauguration and the fact that street cars were permitted to operate along the line of march up to the last moment were charged with being principally responsible.

The police were generally praised for their efforts to give the marchers a clear path.

MRS. PANKHURST REFUSES FOOD.

LONDON, May 29.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffraget leader, has taken no food since she was rearrested and taken to Holloway jail.

She is said to be in a very weak condition owing to reduced vitality consequent on her previous "hunger strikes," which lessened her powers of resistance. According to suffraget leaders her release may be expected at any hour.

The Gold Dust Twins' Philosophy

ONE day, when Mr. Jones returned with what his weekly toil had earned, he found his little wife in tears and mood not suited to her years. It seemed the cook had bade "adieu," likewise the washerwoman, too.

Gold Dust as Strike Breaker

At first within the House of Jones there followed sad despondent moans. No hopeful word could reconcile, no honied kiss inspire a smile. "I never knew before" said she, "how horrid household cares could be."

"Upon my word I'm up at six and working still as midnight ticks. I scrub and run and wash and shine to keep the little things in line, and yet around me here and there I see undone another share. I almost feel as if I'd like to join the other ones on Strike. Some morning try it—get a mop; go through from cellar to the top, and I will venture you must see, the greater burdens fall on me."

Now Mr. Jones was passing wise and later, sprang a glad surprise. Through friends who praised the "GOLD DUST WAY," he brought a package home one day.

From tears to sunshine, Wifey now has found the good of "Knowing How" and striking servants fail to stir, the placid calm content of her.

'The Children's Crusade.' Well Sung at Festival.

BY GLENN DILLARD GUNN.

By far the finest achievement in the brief history of the north shore festivals was the performance last night of Gabriel Pierne's most beautiful of all modern choral works, "The Children's Crusade." In spirit, in technical finish, in scope and refinement of interpretative means it represented a level of art worthy of the composition. Higher praise cannot be written; for this work, by the poignant, wistful beauty of its song, by the delicate, shadowy texture of its harmony, brings to us, down the pale vistas of the centuries echoes of that strange and awful tragedy of the Christian faith.

It is a masterpiece. In every aspect it is perfect. The pathetic story is unfolded with touching simplicity. Merely to read the text is to fall under its spell. This the composer has known how to intensify without once yielding to the Gallic fondness for the theatrical. The music disguises its artifice, making every shade and tint of harmonic and orchestral color tributary to the unending stream of melody. This melody is borrowed from or modeled after the quaint rhythmic patterns of medieval folk song and in it sounds the voice "of silent people and old times dead."

To its unfolding Dean Lutkin brought the simplest and surest of means. His reading was an unaffected recital of a beautiful legend. He was content to let the composer speak through the perfectly trained vocal and instrumental forces at his command, and by this restraint he proved how certain was his understanding of the work, how true and deep and convincing his response to its appeal. There were no overwhelming climaxes, no startling contrasts. But for each inflection of the melody he found the complementing impulse of light and shade and accent.

The choral burdens of the composition fall most heavily on the children's voices. Mr. Lutkin, seeking reliability, replaced the boys' choir demanded by the composer with a chorus of five hundred young women from the Evanston High school. Were it not for the fact that these young women sang with an exceptional warmth and sympathy of tone and with remarkably accurate and flexible response in all matters of dynamic contrast one would be tempted to deplore the change. For their voices lacked something of the luminous clarity of tone which the composer evidently desired.

The regular chorus sustained its share of the performance with even greater precision than was attained in the opening concert of the festival and the orchestra assisted with painstaking attention and contributed brilliantly to the success of the evening. One recalls with especial pleasure Mr. Weisbach's delivery of the violin obbligato in the prelude to the second part. The beautiful proportions maintained by chorus and orchestra throughout this division of the work also deserve a word of especial commendation.

The soloists, without exception, were splendidly suited to the parts assigned them. Mrs. Mabel Sharp Herdien endowed the principal soprano rôle with such rare beauties of vocal art that one is tempted to describe her share in the performance as the finest example of song heard in oratorio this season. Her voice has gained in evenness, in intensity, and in variety of tone until one must seek her rivals among the famous stars of the lyric stage.

But Mrs. Herdien had notable competition even in this concert. Mrs. Edith Chapman Goold, who was assigned the soprano part of second importance, likewise is a singer of unusual gifts and attainments. Her voice is typically American in its clear, soft resonance. A voice of equal beauty and of greater power and richness was disclosed by Miss Mary Ann Kaufman, who discovered a grateful opportunity in the song of the mother—a moment of exquisite melody.

Paul Althouse of the Metropolitan opera assumed responsibility for the tenor solos. His introduction to Chicago music lovers was most happily accomplished, for though the rôle of the narrator is not the most important in the work it affords occasion for some effective declamation. Mr. Althouse made light of its vocal difficulties, thanks to the brilliancy, range, and power of his voice. But having learned his art in New York and Europe he had his troubles with the English language. The other soloists and even the chorus delivered the text with remarkable clarity. Gustaf Holmquist had little opportunity to display the scope of his voice and his interpretative art in bass solos, but served efficiently, if modestly.

Saturday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock the fourth concert of the festival will take place. The program will enlist the services of Miss Helen Stanley, soprano of the Chicago opera, as soloist; a chorus of 1,500 children from the Evanston schools, and the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The children will sing part songs by A. G. Wathall, a cantata by Rathbone, and patriotic songs. Miss Stanley will contribute an aria from "Mme. Butterfly" and songs by Rogers, Landon Roland, Franco Leoni, and Horatio Parker.

Saturday evening the festival will close with a Wagner anniversary concert by the Symphony orchestra under Mr. Stock, Mme. Schumann-Heink, Miss Florence Hinkle, Paul Althouse, Clarence Whitehill, Herbert Miller, and the chorus. Mme. Schumann-Heink will offer Senta's ballad from "The Flying Dutchman" and the aria, "Gerechter Gott," from "Rienzi," and will collaborate with the other soloists and the chorus in scenes from "Lohengrin" and "The Mastersingers." Mr. Whitehill will sing "The Evening Star," from "Tannhäuser," and Wotan's "Farewell." The orchestral numbers are the overture to "The Flying Dutchman," the bacchanale from "Tannhäuser," and the "Ride of the Valkyries."

Pope Sends Message to Chicago Knights.

The Most Rev. James Edward Quigley, archbishop of Chicago, read a cablegram from His Holiness Pope Pius last night at the banquet given by Lafayette council of the Knights of Columbus at the Auditorium hotel, in commemoration of the fifteenth anniversary of the council.

"The holy father accepts the homage of Lafayette council," the cable read, "and sends his apostolic blessing."

It was signed by Cardinal Merry del Val, the pope's secretary.

"We thank God our country is a free country," the archbishop said, "where we are free to worship him, and to teach our children in their religion, free to establish our own schools and our own churches.

"It is not so in some other countries, but the church will ever protest against this, and will ever insist on its right to teach. The Knights of Columbus have done much to educate our children by their donation to the Catholic university at Washington.

"The church has been an educator and a fighter since the day of Pentecost, when the apostles set out to convert the world. She has fought graft and corruption and the social evil ever since her birth.

"She has built up Christianity and civilization. Let us try to make that civilization the highest form of civilization the world has ever seen. To do this we must have charity. Do we think of the poor? Are we self-centered?

"Can it be said of us, as it was of the early Christians, that because of them, 'there are no poor nor needy persons in the city'?

"There is scarcely an infirmity, a need, that is not taken care of by over a thousand of Catholic charities of Chicago, that are unknown to the rest of the world—charities that attend to the immigrant, feed him, clothe him, give him medicines, and, if he dies, bury him, and care for his family.

"This is the very highest type of charity and it exists among the poor of Chicago, among the so-called foreigners who take care of their own kind when they come here."

Right Rev. Bishop Paul P. Rhode, "the leader of 2,500,000 Polish Catholics," gave a gentle rap to the suffrage movement.

"In the old days," he said, "the knights went about seeking the damsels in distress and aiding them. Nowadays the wandering knight would find precious few damsels willing to be protected. In the days when knighthood flowered the insignia of the knight was his crest and shield; in the future his insignia will be the nursing bottle and the teething ring.

"The ancient knights were saintly men, the Knights of Columbus should be the same. They must fight for the honor of their religion and for the culture and the civilization of their country, they must fight the social and political corruption of our times. They must teach the world that if the church is intolerant in its doctrines, it is to save the minds of men from chaos, and that if it is unbending in its discipline, it is to save souls.

"The church is the grandest fighting machine the world has ever known, a machine built not by man but by God, and it fights for its children."

John E. Maloney, county commissioner, was toastmaster. Other speakers included Very Rev. A. J. Thiele, V. G.; Very Rev. M. J. Fitzsimmons, V. G.; the Rev. E. F. Hoban, chancellor; John R. O'Reilley, grand knight; James A. Flaherty, supreme knight; Le Roy Hackett, state deputy; A. A. McCormick, Robert M. Sweitzer, Francis D. Connery, Judge William Dever, and Quin O'Brien. Fourteen hundred members and their friends attended.

Judge Scores Wives Seeking Big Alimony.

NEW YORK, May 29.—[Special.]—Justice Aspinwall, in the Supreme court at Brooklyn, today scored women who marry men moderately rich and then come into court demanding big alimony.

This criticism was elicited in the course of an argument on a motion for alimony of $78,000 a year. Mrs. Blanche A. Williams Heye, wife of George Gustave Heye of the banking firm of Battles & Co. of 60 Broadway, had insisted that she would be unable to live on a smaller allowance in the style to which she had been accustomed.

She wanted $2,000 a year pin money, a $10,000 apartment in the Hotel Langdon, with service at $700 a month, a town house in Madison avenue at $15,000 a year, a country place at Rosyln with twenty-one servants and a garage costing $20,000 for its annual upkeep. The demand seemed to stagger Justice Aspinwall.

Mrs. Heye's lawyer made a final appeal for the allowance of alimony, but Justice Aspinwall said:

"You may be absolutely certain that I shall not allow $78,000 alimony to any woman. These New York society women make me tired. They live too high. They go to fashionable hotels, and drink highballs, and smoke cigarets instead of staying home trying to make their husbands happy.

"They ride up Fifth avenue in their fine automobiles, with poodle dogs in their laps, and, when they are married to a poor man, unfortunate enough to have $1,000,000, they come into court and say that their social position requires an exorbitant amount of alimony. It will take me little time to decide this motion."

High School Pupils March for Prize.

The first of the marches by high school pupils was reviewed by Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools, yesterday. Seven hundred and twenty boys and girls from the Bowen High school marched a half mile at Bessemer park, and then, not satisfied with their showing, marched over again. Mrs. Young was very much impressed.

"It was very interesting to see the girls march," said Mrs. Young. "From the way the girl captains gave their commands one would think that they had been born to war."

The twenty-one high schools in the city have formed marching clubs to compete for the $50 prize which Mrs. Young has offered for the best company. There will be two marches each school day for the next two weeks. The judges are four physical instructors from the elementary schools.

Attack "Vacation Jurisdiction."

An attack upon the school board's jurisdiction over its pupils during vacation time was made yesterday in a bill for injunction filed by Samuel M. Dowst of 7028 Yale avenue. Helen Dowst, his daughter, was expelled from the Parker High school after she had given a luncheon during the Easter vacation to several members of her sorority, Theta Sigma Phi, and their friends.

Attorney John W Creekmur said he would try to make an issue of the board's power over the pupils during vacation when it could be shown their activities did not injure their studies.

It is the smallest working motor car in the world and is specially geared down to seven miles an hour as Queen Alexandra was anxious it should not go fast enough to cause any hurt to the little prince in case of accident.

When Things Go Wrong in Burma.

Life is simple in Burma. In a country that is underpopulated and that contains vast areas of unoccupied land fit for cultivation, the people need not submit to oppression, as many oriental nations must. Migration is always a possible means of relief.

Every man is his own carpenter. He puts together his house of bamboo and planks cut by his own hands. He knows how to take it down. He has no need to send for contractors or furniture vans. There are the carts and the plow cattle in his sheds. He has talked things over with his wife, who is a capable and sensible woman.

One morning they get up, and instead of going to the fields or his fishing, or whatever it may be, he takes his tools, and before sunset, the wife helping, the house is down, and, together with the simplest household goods, is stowed away in the cart. The children find a place there, too; or, if they are old enough, they run along beside their mother. If the local magistrate is so blind to his own interests as to oppress the people, there is a wiser man a few leagues away who is ready to welcome them. For what is the good of land without men to live on it?

Of course, the real point of the performance consists in discovering the animal which must make the first jump.

Strawberry as a Symbol in Art.

When the old masters introduced the strawberry into their religious pictures it was because that stoneless, thornless fruit with its chaste white blossom and trefoil leaves was the symbol of perfect righteousness. The violet is usually seen with it, indicating that the truly fruitful soul is always humble. So says Elizabeth Haig in her "Floral Symbolism of the Great Masters." Miss Haig alludes to the famous "Madonn of the Strawberries" at Solothurn, to Perugini's "Adoration" (Munich), to Botticelli's pictures, and others. When the fruit appears in the mystical "Inclosed Gardens" it expresses the virtues of Mary.

SIMPLY CAN'T KEEP 'EM AWAY, CHAUFFEUR TELLS JUDGE.

Peter C. King Narrates Pathetic Tale of Being Pursued by Feminine Admirers—Doesn't Even Know Them.

County Judge Owens refused yesterday to believe that a man may be pursued by women whom he does not know.

Peter C. King, 1513 Devon avenue, came into his court to have an order of $6 a week for the support of his wife modified.

She produced a number of postal cards with sentimental mottoes. One of them bore the photograph of a young woman.

"I don't know any of them. I can't prevent them from writing to me," said King.

"Do you mean to say that you are being pursued?" asked the judge incredulously.

"I certainly do," replied King. "That is my address and name, but I don't know who they are."

Judge Owens refused to modify the order when the wife told of three pairs of shoes, a number of suits, silk socks, and a well appointed room which Mrs. King discovered in an expedition to 1513 Devon avenue.

Mrs. King lives at 2233 Austin avenue.

AUERBACH TO GET NEW TRIAL; CONVICTED OF KILLING FRIEND

Michigan Supreme Court Finds Flaw in Testimony Which Sent Him to Prison for Slaying Chicagoan.

Lansing, Mich., May 29.—Oscar M. Auerbach, convicted last winter in Lake county of the murder of Harry W. Fisher, formerly a wealthy Chicago business man and promoter, was granted a new trial by the Supreme court today. Auerbach, who was well known socially in Chicago, is now serving a life sentence in Jackson prison. He is employed in the prison creamery plant and is catcher on the prison baseball team.

Fisher was killed on his fruit ranch while Auerbach was there as a guest. He left $200,000 in insurance policies to his widow and it was charged that friendliness between Mrs. Fisher and Auerbach resulted in Auerbach committing the crime.

Testimony relative to the life insurance formed an important element in the prosecution and the Supreme court holds there was no evidence that Auerbach had knowledge of the existence of the life insurance policies previous to the death of Fisher.

COL. ROOSEVELT'S OWN STORY

Being Chapters of a Possible Autobiography

Published by special arrangement with The Outlook, of which Theodore Roosevelt is the contributing editor.

The First installment will appear in The Daily News on Saturday next and later installments every Saturday.

Now a private citizen, after 30 years of continuous public service, Mr. Roosevelt will devote himself to relating in familiar and intimate fashion the stirring events of his first half century of life.

Few have had the privilege of meeting Mr. Roosevelt at close range. The millions who know him as speaker, soldier, public servant, will now have the opportunity to know him intimately. He has taken part in so much and has done so many things that what is now to be told is largely a matter of selection. He will relate serious and amusing incidents—will give sidelights on happenings that have interested and puzzled the Nation. He will write about events as he has known them personally—as a participant.

So much of the personal side of public events as may properly be made known at this time Mr. Roosevelt will relate in these papers. He will tell of the Standard Oil and Sugar trust prosecutions; of the voyage of the battlefleet around the world; of the creation of the interstate commerce commission; of the Panama canal, and of many other historical events in which he had so large a part. He will deal not only with events, but with the men who made the events.

The World's Cooks

Roman Asparagus.

ROME.

all the great cities of the world and among great cooks everywhere, as well as among the most experienced eaters, the asparagus is one of the vegetables in highest favor. In Rome great quantities of at is called the wild aspargus (asparagi vatici) are used. This is like the garden paragus except that its branches are tiny, metimes hardly bigger around than the top a grass blossom.

The Roman cook book has several recipes cooking this wild variety, followed by the tement that all the recipes given for cooking the wild variety can be used for cooking asparagus of the garden.

The subject of the wild asparagus is introced by the statement that this can be pred in an infinite number of ways and used garnish broth and soup, every sort of lled meat, and the roast and stew, cutlets eaded or simple, for the scalloppine (cutlets st browned in butter then stewed), the dinetti (vegetables in a mold which the lians call pudding), etc.

WILD ASPARAGUS IN THE SOUR MANER—After washing it well tie it in little undles and cut off the lower and harder poron of the stalk. Boil in salted water, drain, nd serve while hot, adding to it oil and lemon uice after it has been put on the individual lates.

WILD ASPARAGUS IN THE MILANESE MANNER—Prepare and boil as in the precedng; then, after draining, arrange it on a plate f ample size; sprinkle it abundantly with rated Parmesan cheese, turn over it much utter, melted and browned, and season with pinch of salt and pepper. A little meat juice lso may be added.

This recipe is rather a famous one, for it has been adopted by the French, but it is evident from the following French version of it that the asparagus is first fried rather than boiled, but this may be a mistake.

MILANESE ASPARAGUS (French adaptation)—After having taken the asparagus from the grill, press it on a round plate, all the heads on the same side. Powder each layer, but only on the heads, with grated Parmesan cheese, salt and pepper. When it is all ready brown some butter in a frying pan and turn it boiling hot on the heads of the asparagus in order to cook the cheese, and serve hot.

ASPARAGUS WITH ANCHOVY BUTTER—Break off the tender part of the asparagus; cut it in pieces; boil, drain well, and then put it into a little saucepan. Add to it a pinch of pepper. When it is well seasoned, take it from the fire and mix with it a little anchovy butter and some chopped parsley. Garnish with croutons of bread fried in butter.

ASPARAGUS WITH MAYONNAISE SAUCE—Cut and boil the asparagus as described above, and, when it is cold and well drained, mix with it some tablespoons of rather piquant mayonnaise sauce and some parsley chopped fine.

A Tuscan cook, under the heading "Asparagus," makes the following remarks:

"In order to give asparague the most beautiful appearance, scrape, before cooking it, the white part with a knife, and cut off the stems so that all will be of the same length. Then tie with a string into bundles not too large, and immerse them in boiling water. They are cooked just right when the heads begin to bend, but it is better to try them with the finger to see if they yield to an even pressure. When they are taken off throw them into fresh water, but take them out immediately in order to serve them hot.

"This vegetable, precious not only on account of its diuretic and digestive qualities, can, being boiled, then be prepared in divers manners, but the most simple and best is that common one of seasoning it with the finest oil and vinegar or lemon juice. Nevertheless, for the sake of variety, we prepare it in other ways, having half cooked it by boiling.

"Put the pieces to fry whole in butter, and then, having seasoned them with salt, pepper and with a small pinch of Parmesan cheese, take out when they begin to brown and turn the butter over them. Then, separating the green part from the white, take a hot plate and dispose them in the following manner:

"Powder the bottom of the plate with grated Parmesan cheese and small pieces of butter. Make another layer of asparagus and season in the same manner, proceeding until you have done. The layers of asparagus may be laid crosswise like a thick grating, put under a cover with a fire over it, in order to dissolve the condiments, and then served hot.

"If one has meat juice, boil the asparagus until it is half done; take it off and cook it in this, adding a little piece of butter and a little Parmesan.

"One may also serve the green points of the asparagus in a fritto misto (mixed fry), first enveloping them in a pastella (a mixture of egg and flour, in which to dip things for deep frying).

"Other and divers modes of preparing are indicated in books of the kitchen, but they most frequently lead to confusion and are not approved by good eaters.

"The asparagus may be served in a white sauce, if one pleases, or served separately and then seasoned with it as served."

This last method is too often ours in America, whereby we spoil an excellent vegetable if we do not know how to make a good white sauce. A French cook would use the water in which the asparagus has been boiled instead of milk for his sauce.

Good Habits and Bad Habits.

[Copyright: 1913: By Lillian Russell.]

THE woman who would develop her physical charms to the point of perfection is constantly urged to "make a habit" of the correct form of living. So many details are necessary in perfect development of the body, and these details must be cared for by "habit" that to bring them all to one's attention at the same time would be, seemingly, to impose a tremendous task upon her she would be beautiful. I had a letter recently from a woman who said that she hesitated in seriously taking up a study of herself with the idea of improvement, because "so many new habits of life were necessary." Yet that same woman is today living by habit—but by bad habit.

Nature intends that every person, no matter how gifted as to face or form, shall make the best of nature's gifts. Life consists mainly of habit, which begins in the cradle. Every woman today lives according to certain habits. To adopt new and good habits of living does not mean to burden oneself with a hundred and one details the application of which means constant mental effort. Rather, to adopt new and good habits, the proper and the only method, is to examine one's method of life honestly and carefully. Find the bad habits and recognize them as bad. They will then be intolerable after once being recognized, and the habits which will take their places will be good habits. Carelessness in dress, in walking, in bathing, in exercising, in the care of the hair or teeth—all the result of a bad habit.

Inasmuch as the treatment of the body is solely a matter of habit—which is nothing more or less than the routine action of intelligence—why should not the good, the correct habit be cultivated? There can be no better illustration of this than by the person who has an affected manner, by which is meant a manner which advertises the effort that is necessary to it. Now, affectation is a bad habit. Naturalness is a good habit. It requires ten times the effort to keep up the habit of affectation as it does the good habit of being natural and composed and self-possessed at all times.

Remember: That time passes with unerring regularity, whether or not there is proper care or correct, habit in the life of humans. Why not, then, the good habit of living?

CLEO: The "white bumps" are called whiteheads and easily can be removed from the face without leaving a scar. Open each little seed with the point of a fine needle which has been sterilized by dropping it into boiling water or dipping it into peroxide. Press or pick out the tiny white mass, then apply a little peroxide. By bathing the face with warm water first it will soften it and make it easier to open the whiteheads. By applying vaseline to the eyelashes and eyebrows each night they will gradually darken, but of course it will take some time. You might use an eyebrow pencil. If you will send me a stamped addressed envelope I shall be happy to send you a formula for removing sunburn.

LEAH: The formula for hair tonic with complete instructions for scalp massage is too long to print in my column, but if you will send me a stamped addressed envelope I shall be glad to send them to you. The tonic will remedy the dandruff and will stop your hair from falling.

MRS. T. E.: Sallow skins may be made pink and white by perfect exercise and diet. There is seldom a real excuse for a sallow complexion if one has the desire to cure the defect. American women as a class are far ahead of any country for beauty of face and form. The speed we cultivate has its advantages and it does not allow stagnation or disintegration. My five rules for health and beauty are: Eat plenty enough, drink only water, walk two or three miles a day, sleep eight hours, and slander never.

Wine Soup.

BEAT the yolks of six eggs with one cup of sugar. Add two tablespoons of flour, one bottle of white wine, one bottle of water, and three slices of lemon without seeds. Put all over a strong fire and beat constantly with egg beater until very hot. Do not let it boil, as the soup will curdle. Pour into soup tureen. To garnish the top, beat the whites of the eggs with plenty of sugar. Add this by spoonfuls to make it look like little dumplings, and top each off with a dash of cinnamon. Cover tureen; serve. This quantity will serve from eight to ten people.—Kindness of Mrs. C. G.

Recipe for Layer Cake.

"Will you be kind enough to state in your corner a good recipe for a layer cake; also how to make a caramel filling? F. A. H."

Cream a quarter cup of butter with a heaping cup of sugar, add four eggs, beaten light, and enough flour sifted with two even teaspoonfuls of baking powder to make a good batter. Bake in layer tins.

Caramel filling is made as follows: Put a cupful of sugar in a saucepan wtih a quarter cup of hot water and simmer until the sirup begins to brown. Move the saucepan about from side to side so that all the sirup will be browned evenly. Do not allow it to char or blacken, but when it is of the darkest shade of brown add to it carefully a cup of boiling water and boil until you have a dark sirup. This is your caramel. Now put in another saucepan three-quarters of a cup of cream and a half cupful of sugar creamed with a generous tablespoonful of butter. Boil until this sirup spins a thread, then stir in four tablespoonfuls of the caramel and flavor to taste with vanilla. When cool, spread on the cake.

A Cabbage Salad.

"Other people have given directions for removing pecans, but as mine differs slightly I send it. Place your pecans in cold water and leave them overnight. In the morning crack the shells gently on the ends and you will find the meats will come out and be free from the bitter taste from the brown lining. The meats will be slightly damp, but can be dried easily either in the sun or in the oven.

"A suggestion for a salad is the following: One head of cabbage shredded fine, two sweet spiced, medium sized pickles cut fine, one-half cup of pecan meats, one pimento, all chopped fine. Add salt and paprika. Mix thoroughly and pour over all your favorite salad dressing. This was an experiment of my own and pronounced fine by all who tried it. V. G. C."

We add these directions for opening pecans to the others which have been sent in by correspondents.

We are glad to get the recipe for what you term an experiment. It certainly seems to have been a successful one. Our housewives will be glad to try it and to report upon the result.

Cleaning an Asbestos Mat.

"Will you please tell me how to clean a large asbestos table mat? Mrs. H. P. C."

Rub three parts corn meal and one part salt, well mixed, into the mat and leave it for several hours. Beat and brush out and apply boracic talcum in the same way, leaving on this powder for twenty-four hours, then shaking and beating out. If any reader has a better method for cleaning asbestos mats will she not send it in to the Corner?

It would be interesting to note how often a request for a favor of some kind is accompanied by an offer of something which our readers may find useful. The proffered gift may be magazines and embroidery patterns, or it may be foreign stamps, or patch pieces, or post cards, or picture books for the children. But the offer always shows the kind heart of the giver and the desire to make somebody happy.

Offers Calico Bits.

"If you will send me the address of the Missouri woman who has eight children to support and who asks for calico bits for comfortables I shall be more than glad to send pieces to her. Here is a splendid recipe for oatmeal cookies:

"Oatmeal Cookies.—One-half cup granulated sugar, one-half cup shortening, two eggs, one level teaspoonful soda in four tablespoons of sweet milk, one and one-half cups raw oatmeal and the same of flour, one cup raisins chopped fine. This makes a stiff batter. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased tins. Bake in rather quick oven. Reader."

The address for which you ask has gone to you by mail. We thank you for your kind thoughts and generosity for the correspondent in question.

We also thank you for the recipe for oatmeal cookies. These, when made properly, are delicious and wholesome and a pleasant variation from cake and cookies made of white flour.

How to Clean "Comforts."

"This is the first time I have ever sent anything to the Corner, but thought these ideas might answer 'Mrs. F. M. H.' as to the best way to clean 'comforts.' Rip the covering from the filling, but do not rip the seams. Wash the covering. Whip batting or filling lightly with a rug beater but do not pull apart. Replace covers. They will last many years, and new covers may be used when the old ones are faded and worn.

"The following is my way of preparing—

"Boston Baked Beans.—Pick over and wash one quart beans; parboil until skins crack when blown upon. Into a bean jar put four tablespoonfuls of dark molasses, one-half pound salt pork, one even teaspoon of salt; add beans. Cover well with water and cover jar with stone cover or plate. Bake ten to twelve hours, adding boiling water as needed. Do not add water for at least one and one-half hours before taking from the oven. When done, the liquid should just show at the top of the beans when jar is tipped on edge. This is an old, tried recipe.

"I am sending the best recipe for mock mince pie I have ever seen:

"Mock Mince Pie.—One cup sugar, one egg, three-fourths cup chopped raisins, one cup sour milk or buttermilk, one tablespoonful vinegar, half teaspoon cloves, cinnamon, and nutmeg, one-eighth teaspoon salt. Bake between two crusts. This makes one large pie.

"How many housewives know that chicken fat tried out makes the best pie crust?

"Constant Reader."

Letters for "F. S."

If the correspondent who signs herself "F. S." and who asked for vocal lessons in exchange for cooking, washing, or housework will write to me I will forward to her address a package of letters, offers of vocal lessons, that were sent to the address I have on file. The postoffice authorities have returned it marked "Unclaimed."—Editor.

Laura Jean Libbey's Advice

By Laura Jean Libbey

Are Men Courteous to Poor Girls?

[Copyright: 1913: By Laura Jean Libbey.]

WITHOUT doubt the truest and best of men revere and are chivalrous to all womankind despite their social rank. There is scarcely a poor girl through whose mind this thought has not passed: "Are men as courteous to poor girls as they are to rich ones?"

The girl who must enter the business world to make her living, and is therefore brought into contact with all classes of men, gradually becomes an excellent judge of human nature. She sees the man who attempts to ogle her in the car as she comes to and from her employment and has the audacity to strike up an acquaintance with her, sneering at her when he fails, the very acme of propriety when she sees him in the company of a very wealthy girl.

While there is one class of men who have not graded modesty and virtue, there are others who have one standard for the daughter of the rich and are exceedingly lax in their calculations as to the standard for the poor girl. If they invite the daughter of a rich man to luncheon they make preparations for her chaperon as a matter of course. He is sure to take her to the most circumspect place to dine, having her at her own door not later than 10 o'clock. If he takes her to a theater he provides a box for her family. First of all he makes sure that the play is strictly moral, without a line or word that could offend her.

This same man may ask a working girl out the next evening. He does not ask her which place she would prefer, but selects as the place where she shall dine the gayest café along the great white way, the jolliest place that he could pick out, where everything is brightness and glitter, enlivened by the songs and dances of the merry cabaret entertainers. This place is patronized by the liveliest of throngs. The crowds at the tables seem to vie with each other in telling the most amusing jokes and in drinking the most wine.

It never occurs to the man that 1 o'clock is a late hour to keep the girl away from her home. Nor does he take into consideration the fears of the poor old mother who sits with drawn face close against the window pane, straining her eyes through the darkness, praying between her sobs that no harm has come to her child. The girl reaches home in the wee sma' hours. It is little wonder that she is fatigued by turning night into day, that she can scarcely awake the next morning and hurry off to her duties.

He thinks nothing of disappointing her, breaking his word as to the evening on which he promised to call. He does not inconvenience himself so much as to send her a note of explanation and regret. He forgets that he should be as courteous to her as to the other girl.

The girl who realizes that she has a man of this kind to deal with should look the matter squarely in the face. She must force him to give her the respect which she is entitled to.

She should firmly refuse to go with him to places where he would not even consider for a moment taking the other girl. She should insist, too, upon being escorted to her own door at the same hour that he leaves the rich girl at her home. She should make him realize fully that there is not one course of procedure for the millionaire's daughter and quite another for the girl who is thrown upon the world to earn her own living.

She must force him to realize that the dependant girl of virtue must be treated exactly like the rich. It is the poor girl who adheres strictly to the right policy, that she shall be accorded true courtesy, whom that class of men will marry.

Wishes to Go with Girls.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am a boy of 15, six feet three inches high, weigh 156 pounds. I want to know if I am too young to go with the girls. I have a great desire to go with them. If I am too young tell me how long I will have to wait. A."

You are entirely too young to go about with girls. Wait five or six years at least. In the meantime put your mind on your studies and your work, so that when you have arrived at that age you will be interesting and well on the road to a successful life.

He Is a "Generous Young Man."

"Dear Miss Libbey: Would you mind giving me a bit of advice about love affairs? What would you think of a young man who had only called three or four times and proposing to me that soon? I am 18 and keep company with a man a great deal older. Would you advise me to keep on going with him? He is a very generous young man indeed. Is it proper to hold hands with a boy while talking to him? Is it nice for a boy to take your hand to tell you good-by and kiss it? Peggie."

No, it isn't proper—it's only foolish! I think he is a rather impulsive youth to propose on such short acquaintance.

Is He Interested in Her?

"Dear Miss Libbey: I have a friend whom I have known for about six months. He seems to think a great deal of me and went with me last summer. He goes with another girl regularly, but still corresponds with me and comes to see me occasionally. Do you think he cares anything about me? B."

He probably is interested in you, or he would not write to you. However, you are too young to attach any importance to his interest in you other than that of just good friendship.

'BREAKS' HELP SOX WIN FROM TIGERS IN TEN ROUNDS, 3-2

SPEED GIVES CALS VERDICT

'TEX' RUSSELL STEADY IN PINCHES

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Dame Fortune, who had been turning a gold map to the White Sox for a whole week, became a coy and smiling young flirt yesterday and helped them put on the brakes, which Cleveland had released, by defeating Detroit's Tigers, 3 to 2, in a ten inning battle.

The Callahans were outbatted and outfielded, according to the figures, but they outran the Tigers on the squared diamond by considerable. This superior work on the paths, with the help of a good break or two defensively, enabled the White Sox to overcome the odds against them in other departments.

A wild pitch slipped out of Edgar Willett's fist and let in the winning run in the tenth session, but this would not have happened if Rollie Zeider had not just sneaked from first to third on a single to right by Lord. That swat would not have been so potent if Zeider had not been put in to run for Easterly, and Rollie would not have been running if Easterly had not drawn a pass. However, the White Sox were in a bully position to win the game without the aid of a wild chuck, for they had runners on second and third with one out and a pair of long rainbow hitters coming to bat in Collins and Bodie. Apparently Willett was going to pass Collins and fill the bases, but he got the first ball so wide that Stanage could not grapple with it successfully.

Russell Drives In Tally.

The Sox would not have been in position to make an overtime fight of it if Tex Russell had not delivered a timely single in the seventh, driving home a run which sprouted out of a Weaver hit. And that run would have been worthless without one which Bodie sent home in the sixth after Lord had singled and embezzled second base.

Three runs never would have won the game if Ownie Bush had not fallen flat on his face between third and home in the first inning, thereby saving Jack Fournier the penalty of a careless play. Bush was on first by virtue of a hit when Vitt bunted to Fournier. Jack elected to make the out himself, instead of tossing the ball to Berger on first.

Fournier managed to tag Vitt just in time to get the verdict, but was so intent on this play that he forgot what might be going on behind his back. Bush took full advantage of the opening and sneaked clear to third on the out. Too late to stop him, Fournier wheeled and made a low throw to Lord. The ball squirted away from Harry far enough to let Bush keep on to the plate, but half way home the runner fell down. Before he could get up Lord recovered the ball and Bush was run to death. It was a lucky slip all around. If Fournier had made the play to Berger Bush surely would have scored on Crawford's long single.

Fortune Again Favors Sox.

Another loose chuck resulted in the White Sox favor in the seventh. Moriarity blew it open with a single and Stanage bunted to Russell, who fired wildly to second, losing the out. Weaver knocked down the ball and recovered in time to shoot to third. Moriarity beat the play all right, but overslid, and was tagged before he could reconnect himself with the cushion.

Tex Russell pitched against the Willett person and went to a finish with him. Both were determined slabmen in the pinches and extremely hard to score on. The Sox hurler was steadier and the two passes he issued were intentional. Both were handed to Ty Cobb with runs waiting to score. Schalk twice nailed the fleet Georgian in attempts to steal. The first time Cobb was flagged at second with the aid of Weaver's quick handwork. The second time he was headed off at third.

Thanks to Bush's stumble in the first there was not a tally counted until the third. Stanage, first up was nicked on the uniform by a curve ball and allowed to walk. Willett trundled a single to right and Bush pulled one safely to left, scoring Stanage. Vitt laid down a bunt and was retired by Russell's good footwork without the aid of a first baseman. The two runners advanced, but Weaver held them back while he retired Crawford. Cobb was given a voluntary walk, filling the bags. Veach fouled out.

Single by Schalk Wasted.

The Sox had a chance to tie up the score in their half when Schalk led off with a single. Russell sacrificed him ahead, but Schaller and Berger flew out. Again in the fourth the locals looked promising. Lord walked. Collins struck out trying to advance him, but Harry made up for that by stealing. Bodie was hit on the meat hook. Fournier and Weaver rolled out by way of Vitt.

The sixth brought the knot in the count. With one down Lord singled and stole second. Collins whaled a long fly to High. Bodie scratched a little one toward first base and landed safely while Crawford, Willett, and Vitt were drawing lots to see how the play should be made. Crawford finally made a high toss to the stand and Lord scored on it. Fournier fouled out.

In the seventh the Callahans took the lead. Weaver led them to it with a single. Schalk sacrificed and Russell drove a clean single to Cobb, scoring Weaver. Schaller and Berger flew out again. The lead lasted only until the Tigers got to bat. One was out in the eighth when Crawford perforated the left center landscape with a two bagger. Once more Cobb was passed as a precautionary measure rather than give him a good one. Veach came through with a single to left on which Crawford rode home with the tying run. Here Manager Jennings sent Dubuc to bat for High, and the pinch hitting pitcher came close to delivering. He peeled off a liner to center, but Bodie was right in line and squeezed it on the fly. Cobb then tried to lead a double steal, but Schalk and Lord gave him the red light signal.

Bodie and Fournier Fail.

A pass to Lord to start the home eighth, followed by Collins' sacrifice, listened a bit like a run, but Bodie and Fournier went out by the sky route and the two teams went into extra rounds on even terms. Vitt, Crawford, and Cobb were retired in order in the tenth—and they constitute a trio hard to retire in that manner.

Beginning the home tenth Willett knocked down Schaller's hard rap and retired him. Easterly was sent to bat for Berger and worked Willett for a walk. Zeider went on to run for Ted and sneaked all the way to third on Lord's single to right. Harry made second on Cobb's throw back, and that was the situation when Willett made a wild pitch on the first one he handed to Collins.

SOX SYDELIGHTS.

Detroit twice today, once more tomorrow, and again on Sunday.

Although this is Friday, it was announced "ladies' day" would be suspended on account of the holiday.

Russell showed no sign of being gun shy in spite of the blow he received on his head the last time out. He complained of a severe headache after the game.

Willett used a slow ball with considerable deadliness at times. He fooled Schaller with it in the fifth. Bodie came close to timing it accurately in a later round, but pulled his drive just outside of third base.

By way of observing Memorial day the Sox and Tigers will engage in real battles morning and afternoon. The post-breakfast scrap is booked to start at 10:30 o'clock and the matinée performance at the usual hour.

The White Sox have won eight out of ten games from Detroit so far this season. It might be interesting to figure where the Callahans would stand if the Tigers were not in the league. Again, where would Cleveland be if Chicago wasn't in the circuit?

Three American league umpires were on hand yesterday. Besides Connolly and Hildebrand, who worked, McGreevy sat in the stand and watched them. After today's double assignment it is probable Connolly will start east and leave the final two games of the series to the two arbitrators from the Pacific slope.

Lord stole second twice and Collins once. Lord also pulled a wide awake play in the eighth. He was on second with one out when Bodie fouled out to Veach. Moriarity and Bush also went after the foul, leaving third unguarded. After the catch Lord sneaked to the open bag safely. Willett made a lucky one handed stop of Veach's throw back. Lord would have scored the winning run if that ball had bounded away from Edgar.

FOURTEEN NAGS IN RACE.

New York, May 29.—With fourteen entries, comprising the class of the American thoroughbred field of today, the ninth running of the Metropolitan handicap will be staged at Belmont park, Long Island, tomorrow afternoon, marking the resumption of racing at New York tracks after a lapse of over two years. Established in 1903, this turf classic was run annually until 1910, when the abandoning of racing in New York state caused the event to be dropped.

Record Made by Fashion Plate.

The record of 1:37 4-5 for the mile is held by Fashion Plate, and the record value was $11,080, won by Gunfire in the initial event.

The entries for the Metropolitan, together with the weights, follow: Bob R., 105; Merry Task, 109; Aldebaran, 105; Light o' My Life, 115; Guy Fisher, 109; Bard of Hope, 99; Whisk Broom II., 126; Night Stick, 98; Sprite, 116; Yankee Notions, 104; Spring Board, 103; Dr. Duenner, 108; G. The Westchester Racing association, under whose auspices the meet will be held, and other associations which have planned meets at other tracks circulated announcements today the law in relation to bookmaking and betting would be enforced in its strictest interpretation. Notice is served that if any attempt is made at bookmaking, as it is feared there may be among the crowds within the inclosure where only $1 admission is charged, this popular priced section will be closed entirely.

Individual Betting O. K.

The right of individuals to bet among themselves will not be interfered with by the police, it is understood, if only oral wagers are made.

STARS GATHER AT CAMBRIDGE FOR INTERCOLLEGIATE MEET.

Michigan and California Teams Will Represent West in Title Contests Which Start Tomorrow.

Cambridge, Mass., May 29.—The best athletes of a majority of the large universities and colleges in the east, augmented by high class delegations from Michigan and California, were gathered here today for the thirty-eighth intercollegiate championship games to be held in the Harvard stadium tomorrow and Saturday.

The weaker portion of the 700 runners, leapers, jumpers, and weight hurlers will be eliminated tomorrow in the trials, and on Saturday the team scoring the largest number of points will carry home the championship. The University of Pennsylvania will defend the title won last year in its own arena, and many close followers of the sport believe that the Red and Blue will be successful again.

The University of California men spent the greater part of the day in keeping their muscles limber. The wearers of the maize and blue from Michigan are stopping just outside the city, but the Pennsylvania, Cornell, Yale, Columbia, Dartmouth, Syracuse, and other teams are at hotels within a few minutes' ride of the stadium.

The athletes who reached here before midafternoon managed to get in a few minutes' active work in the stadium.

The meet will start at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon with the trials in the 100 yard dash on the track and with the eliminations in the shot, high jump, and pole vault in the field.

PENN TRAINER NEAR DEATH.

Mike Murphy, Veteran Coach, May Never Hear Result of Pupils' Efforts in Title Meet.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 29.—[Special.]—While tomorrow the University of Pennsylvania track athletes are clashing with their rivals from other colleges in the annual intercollegiate track and field champions, Mike Murphy, the man who developed whatever ability these sturdy sons of Penn possess, who has brought more honor and fame to the Red and Blue than any man who ever lived and who generally is acclaimed the peer of all athletic trainers, lies at his home here so near death that his passing is only a matter of a short time. For the first time in more than a score of years Penn athletes will miss his personal direction in the intercollegiate meet. In fact, he will not even have the satisfaction of hearing the results of the championships unless his condition takes a turn for the better within the next few days.

Osborn to Captain Purple.

SCHMIDT BOWS TO HILTON IN BRITISH GOLF TOURNEY.

Young American Gives English Veteran a Hard Fight, Losing at the Nineteenth Hole.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 29.—Though defeated in the sixth round of the amateur golf championship today by Harold H. Hilton, the famed English crack of the Royal Liverpool Golf club, W. Heinrich Schmidt, the young player of Worcester, Mass., by his plucky fight, in the estimation of the British golfers, established his right to rank with Jerome Travers, Charles Evans Jr., and Fred Herreshoff as among the greatest young golfers America has produced.

For eighteen holes Schmidt made the Englishman fight every inch of the way. He was out in 39, Hilton in 38, but it was only by running down a twenty-five foot putt for three that Hilton finally won at the nineteenth hole.

If Schmidt had had half the luck of Walter J. Travis, who won the championship nine years ago, he would have stood at least 4 up on the Englishman. Time and again he lipped the hole with long putts, although on the first hole he putted brilliantly, winning the hole in three—one below par—against Hilton's four.

The men were tied on the eighteenth, and an extra hole had to be played. Hilton outdrove Schmidt off the tee, but the Massachusetts lad made up on his second. Hilton, however, holed a long putt and won the hole in 3 against Schmidt's 4.

A gallery of 2,000 followed the match, but the spectators did not disturb in the least the American's equanimity. He took his defeat in a sportsmanlike fashion, and after the game said:

"I should like to have taken the championship home to America. I did my best to do so, but I have had only two weeks' practice this year.

"You see, I have to work for my living.

The brilliant play of the young Worcester golfer, who succeeded in forcing H. H. Hilton, one of the world's best amateur players, into an extra hole match before admitting defeat in the sixth round of the British golf championship, is taken as a token among American golfers that a new star has arisen in the game. His ability to give the great Hilton such a severe test on a strange course and with little preliminary practice indicates that he has the qualifications needed for flights in the highest golf rankings.

In the semi-final round Hilton beat Alymer, West Surrey, by one up, and tomorrow will play Harris of Acton for the championship over thirty-six holes.

Cricketers to Open Season Today.

The Chicago Cricket association will open its season today with the annual match between the presidents and vice presidents teams. Play will start at 10:30, the match being staged at the Pullman grounds, One Hundred and Fourth street.

DILLON OUTSLUGS KLAUS IN BATTLE

CROWD OF 12,000 AT GO.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—[Special.]—Jack Dillon of Indianapolis handed Frank Klaus a beating in a ten round fight before 12,000 persons here tonight. Neither showed any particular cleverness.

Dillon forced the fighting after the third round, and by repeated use of his right hand managed to punish his adversary. Klaus gave evidence of being a better wrestler than a fighter. He hugged Dillon at every opportunity and gained nothing, as Dillon was his equal at close milling.

Klaus never was in serious danger of a knockout and neither was seriously distressed. Dillon's best rounds were the seventh and ninth. He used both hands to the detriment of Klaus' face in these sessions, and in the seventh rocked Klaus' head with several smart right hooks.

Klaus was the first to crawl into the ring and a dozen or more fans applauded the Pittsburgh "bear cat." Dillon jumped through the ropes after Klaus and a sonorous cheering proved him favorite. Both seemed to be in condition. Referee Tommy Dillon held a conference with the battlers in midring. Several pugilistic gentlemen then were introduced. After a few minutes of this monotony the fighters squared away.

Story of Fight by Rounds.

FIRST ROUND—They sparred for an opening and then ran into a clinch. Klaus landed the first blow, a right hook to the head which Dillon partly blocked. They clinched and Dillon rocked Klaus' head with two severe right hooks. Klaus was rough and the crowd hooted him. Dillon punished Klaus in the clinches. Dillon, angered by Klaus' roughness, fought fiercely and the local boy had a shade better of the argument at the gong.

SECOND ROUND—Dillon rushed into a clinch and Klaus was hooted for butting with his head. Klaus punished Dillon about the body. Dillon hit Klaus in a break from a clinch. Klaus appealed to the referee, but was denied a hearing. Dillon met every rush savagely. There was little to choose between the men. Klaus put a straight left to Dillon's jaw and Dillon came back with a fierce right hook to Klaus' jaw as the bell rang. The round was even.

THIRD ROUND—Both fighters showed an unrestrainable desire to clinch. They bulled around the ring and were cautioned repeatedly by the referee for stalling. The taunts seemed to inject a little pepper into the fighters and both mixed it viciously. Klaus forced the fighting and landed repeatedly. Dillon hurt Klaus with a stinging right to the mouth. Klaus had the advantage, as he was forcing the fighting at the end.

FOURTH ROUND—Klaus opened the round as if he intended ending Dillon's career. Dillon covered skillfully. Klaus shot a hard left to Dillon's body, and the Hoosier back retaliated with a right to the head. They mixed in Dillon's corner and Klaus landed three straight rights to Dillon's head without return. Dillon played at Klaus' body, and had little difficulty in landing. Dillon caught Klaus with his right, bringing blood from Klaus' nose. The round was even.

FIFTH ROUND—They went into repeated clinches, dividing honors even in the infighting. Dillon shot a pretty right to Klaus' jaw and repeated with a left. Klaus missed a vicious right swing, Dillon showing nice foot work. Dillon punished Klaus, much to the satisfaction of the crowd, and Dillon had the round.

SIXTH ROUND—Both went at it hammer and tongs. Dillon rushed Klaus to the ropes, but failed to get in a punishing blow. As they came into a clinch Dillon got in a good one to Klaus' jaw. They ran into a clinch. Dillon scored a right uppercut to Klaus' jaw. Klaus was losing his grit and failed to come back strong. Klaus hung on and the referee had difficulty separating them. Dillon shot a nasty left to Klaus' body and Klaus returned a right to Dillon's head. It was Dillon's round by a fair margin.

SEVENTH ROUND—They exchanged blows to the head and rushed into a clinch. Dillon landed a light left on Klaus' head. Klaus played for Dillon's body, but the Indianapolis boy covered himself well and was not hurt. They went into a clinch and Dillon had all the better of the infighting, although Klaus landed several punches. They were sparring at the gong. It was Dillon's round by a shade.

EIGHTH ROUND—Dillon surprised Klaus by a sharp left to the Pittsburgh boy's jaw. They sparred for an opening and Klaus stumbled safely into a clinch. He caught Dillon's guard and put three straight lefts to the head. Dillon rushed Klaus repeatedly and, using his right, landed blow after blow, with Klaus hanging on. Dillon landed three more rights to the face at the gong. It was Dillon's round by a large shade.

NINTH ROUND—Dillon exerted every effort to land a knockout. He opened a big cut over Klaus' left eye with a vicious left hook. He went into the clinch with all the better of the infighting, using his left and right repeatedly. Klaus seemed to have no defense for Dillon's right. Klaus was hanging on, but Dillon rushed him all around the ring. Klaus, seeing the fight slipping away from him, strove desperately for a knockout punch, but Dillon was too clever for him. They went into a clinch at the gong. It was Dillon's round.

TENTH ROUND—They sparred for an opening and Dillon, apparently satisfied he had won the fight, ran into the clinches and prevented Klaus landing a knockout punch. Both indulged in infighting, but neither did any harm. Klaus managed to land two rights to the head, but they did not worry Dillon. They went into a clinch at the gong. The round was even.

Fortney and Gavin Draw.

"Kid" Fortney and Bennie Gavin fought ten rounds to a draw in the first preliminary. Both boys were weak after a strenuous duel. The last session was filled with futile efforts on the part of each to score a knockout.

BY REED L. PARKER.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—[Special.]—Twenty-seven automobiles, guided by as many determined pilots, will clash tomorrow in the third international sweepstakes race for prizes aggregating $50,000 and such popular acclaim as may be showered on them.

Eight representatives of foreign countries will challenge the right of America to the honor of international speedway champion. Three Italian cars, two from France, two from Germany, and one of England will fight for premier honors with nineteen machines of American construction.

It is doubtful if ever a field of cars went into so important and so remunerative a competition in such universally poor condition. Never in the history of the sport in America have so many machines been assailed by so many troubles as on the eve of this, generally recognized as the greatest of all automobile races. It is this which adds to the already serious quandary of picking a possible victor or even a favorite.

Four Cars Stand Out.

Four cars may be picked from the crowd whose consistency in trials and whose previous records make it possible to hazard a guess that any one of them might win the prize and glory that go to the winner. These are the Stutz of Gilbert Anderson, the Sunbeam of Albert Guyot, the Mercedes-Knight of Theodore Pilette, and the Peugeot of Jules Goux.

Such a selection eliminates the remaining Stutz, the three Cases, three Mercers, three Isottas, one Peugeot, the Keeton, Masons, and the other entries. It also discounts the well known driving ability of men like Harry Grant, Bob Burman, Teddy Tetzlaff, Don Herr, Charles Merz, Joe Nikrent, Louis Disbrow, Edward Hearne, Bill Endicott, Paul Zuccarelli, Vincent Trucco, Ralph De Palma, and Caleb Bragg.

Three Factors Essential.

But victory in the 500 mile race will come to a machine possessing a combination of durability, consistentcy, and dexterous driving. Of all the cars entered the Stutz has time and again demonstrated it possesses consistency and durability. Anderson is the best driver of the team beyond a question and is educated to the track, a tremendous advantage.

Durability and consistency are the chief assets of both the Sunbeam and the Mercedes-Knight. Guyot, driver of the Sunbeam, is a veteran of international races and of contests on the Brooklands, England, speedway. He is a skillful driver.

The Peugeot is selected because of the superlative in speed it possesses and because of the chance that it will finish. With Goux driving to the end in perfect condition, the most rabid follower of the rival camps concedes he will win. Goux is selected before Zuccarelli because he has shown better adaptability to the track.

Status of Other Entrants.

While these four cars have been selected, there is more than an even chance that some other driver will win. Every Case machine, for instance, has shown remarkable bursts of speed. The cars have been carefully prepared for the clash, but numerous changes have been necessary.

The Mercer team is one of the most formidable that ever entered a race. De Palma is the leader of the outfit, and a better driver never stepped into a car. He has had extraordinary trouble in getting his car in shape, however, and only qualified this morning.

The Isotta team has veteran drivers in its camp, but the cars are not ready. They arrived two days ago and are still "green." The Masons are faster than they were last year, but experts predict they will suffer from broken valves in the steady grind at tremendous speed.

Bob Burman has been the sensation in practice. He will be Goux's only rival, if both finish, but Bob's known tendency to burn up the track is against him. The Henderson is fast and Knipper is a splendid driver, but valve trouble may assail the car, as in the case of the Deusenbergs.

Various opinions have been given as to the probability of breaking the present speed-

David Beecroft, editor in chief of Motor Age, predicts the average will be between seventy-eight and eighty miles an hour. Referee Pardington holds this opinion and so does Charles Sedwick, director of contests.

Charles P. Root, the starter, suggests the race will average better than eighty miles an hour. This opinion predominates among the drivers. The average, however, depends on a combination of circumstances that cannot be foretold. The tires, as usual, will be a consistent destroyer of average, and mechanical trouble of every possible sort also may interfere.

Final Qualification Trials.

Harry Grant waited until the last hour to qualify his Isotta today. He has had much difficulty in getting his mount in readiness and took every precaution before attempting a test. Tetzlaff preceded him and qualified with ease. Knipper had no difficulty in maintaining an average of eighty miles an hour with his Henderson in the morning, while Ralph De Palma satisfied the timers by a spirited dash around the course during a rainstorm. The qualification of Grant removed the last doubt that twenty-seven cars would qualify.

Nearly every driver had his car out for a final grooming before the dress rehearsal in the afternoon. Frequent stops for adjustments were made. No startling time was registered, although all drivers showed the time made in the qualifying tests was not accidental.

The crowd which began inflating the size of Indianapolis two days ago has reached enormous proportions tonight. Every point of the compass seems to have sent its delegation. Railway traffic was heavy. The hotel lobbies are seething with persons, few of whom are lucky or unlucky enough to be guests.

The streets are as crowded as on carnival day. Dust laden cars and passengers are arriving over every pike into the city. Railway men, speedway officials, and hotel clerks say the evidence points to a crowd exceeding 100,000 persons.

Parade to Precede Race.

The start of the race will be at 10 o'clock. The speedway management will furnish early morning entertainment to relieve the tediousness of the wait. Six bands will play and a parade of the nations in honor of the foreign entrants will be a feature. A group of American made cars will be followed by the foreign products, the bands playing the national airs of the countries represented. The parade will start at 8:30 o'clock.

The start of the race will resemble that of last year. Carl G. Fisher, president of the speedway company, will pace the entrants for a lap, the lap not to count in the total of 500 miles. The cars will be in seven ranks of four cars each.

Near the close of the lap Mr. Fisher will draw aside and a starting bomb will warn the drivers the race is on. They may forge ahead at their own sweet will after crossing the tape. It is thought the field will be traveling seventy-five miles an hour when it crosses the tape. What awaits rests with fate, the durability of motors, and the skill of the drivers.

Tourists Arrive for Race.

Reliability tourists of the Chicago Motor club and Illinois Athletic club finished the first leg of their run to Indianapolis tonight. Owing to a question in the scoring no penalties were offered and the contestants will be unable to ascertain their positions until their return on Saturday. Every contestant finished.

BAKER'S CLOUTS DOWN YANKS; ATHLETICS TAKE GAME, 6 TO 5.

Third Baseman Ties Score with Homer in Seventh—Scores Wnnning Run in Ninth Inning.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 29.—Frank Baker hit the ball over the right field wall in the seventh inning of today's game with New York and tied the score at five all. In the ninth with one out, he doubled and scored on McInnis' single, which gave the Athletics a victory, 6 to 5.

Browon pitched for the locals for four innings and was hit so hard it looked as if the Highlanders would walk off with the game, as Keating was keeping Philadelphia's hits well scattered. Bush relieved Brown in the fifth and New York secured only one hit during the remainder of the game. Score:

O'Brien Found for Three Runs in Third Inning—Good Support by Outfield Saves Mullin.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Washington scored enough runs in the third inning off O'Brien to defeat Boston today. The final score was 5 to 2. O'Brien was found in the third for three singles, which, with his error and two by Speaker, gave the Senators three runs. Mullin, making his first appearance in a home game, was hit hard and was unsteady at times, but sensational catches by the outfield prevented scoring. Capt. McBride was banished from the game for protesting Speaker's steal of second in the eighth inning. Score:

HOMER BY HYATT CRUSHES CUBS, 5-4

Score All Runs in One Round at Pittsburgh When Leach Smashes Out Triple.

BY SAM WELLER.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 29.—[Special.]—Ham Hyatt, a clouter of renown, broke all records for long distance batting today, when at the opportune moment in the ninth inning, he whaled a line drive into the valley south of Forbes field. This drive tied the score and before the Cubs could recover from amazement the Pirates had batted in the winning run. The score was 5 to 4.

Hyatt is carried by the Pirates for clouting purposes, and when a regular is injured Ham takes his place. He can play ball equally bad at any spot in the ball park, but he is supposed to make up for fielding blunders by his tremendous clouts. That ninth inning smash will cover a multitude of mistakes in the field.

There have been two or three fellows who have landed home run drives into the right field seats here since the new park was built four years ago. Heine Zim got one and so did Vic Saier, but no one ever hit a ball clear over the bleachers. Hyatt's drive would have cleared the bleachers if it had been fifty feet farther back. It seemed as if the ball went half a mile, and possibly it did, before it reached the foot of the hill.

Wagner Starts Rally in Ninth.

The Cubs were leading 4 to 2 when Ham staged his feature. Bert Humphries had breezed along nicely on the slab for the Chicagoans, so nicely that the game seemed all salted down when the ninth opened. Honus Wagner, first up, lined one over second base for a single. Then Hyatt came up, crouched threateningly over the plate, and on the second pitched ball he made his swing.

The bat almost rang from the blow and the ball shot out in a line toward West Virginia. Mike Mitchell made about three strides back, then stopped and stood amazed as it sailed out over him, still going up. While the crowd stood and cheered madly, Ham ran around the bases, driving the great Wagner home ahead of him and the score was tied.

That blow took the pepper out of the Cubs and they finished the round as if they knew they were whipped. Humphries got the next man, but Byrne bounded a high one toward third base and beat it. Simmons doubled and Byrne stopped at third. John Miller batted for Ferry and was passed purposely, filling the bases. Then Booe brought in the final run with a long fly to Leach.

Pirates Take Early Lead.

It was a tough game for Bert Humphries and the Cubs to lose, for they had put up a game struggle, coming from behind in a corking sixth inning rally, and apparently had the game won easily. The Pirates had scraped in two runs in the first two innings, then were decisively suppressed by Humphries. When the Cubs stampeded in the sixth for four runs, giving them two to the good, they had reason to feel cheerful.

Perhaps Humphries was a bit too confident and got careless in that ninth, or he may have grown a bit weak, for he had been called upon to pitch with all his reserve power on numerous occasions, especially early in the game. At least all his brilliancy faded in that ninth and he was lammed hard and crushed down.

The tall and strong southpaw, Robinson, was sent to the slab to oppose Humphries and got along in good shape with the aid of sharp fielding by his mates until the sixth inning, when he was battered for four runs. Marty O'Toole took the job after that, but gave way to a pinch hitter in the seventh, and a young right hander named Ferry finished. If it hadn't been for that great wallop of Ham Hyatt's the hero in Pittsburgh tonight would have been Tommy Leach, formerly of Fred Clarke's team but now one of us.

Leach Smashes Out Triple.

Tom delivered the blow that apparently won the game for Chicago in the sixth. It was a thrilling three bagger that scored two runs, putting the Cubs one ahead. Before the round was over Tom himself scored and was wildly cheered. After Hyatt made his homer the little three bagger by Leach was overshadowed and forgotten.

Pittsburgh rushed in a run in the first inning. Booe was safe on Phelan's fumble for a starter. Carey popped out, but Viox doubled to the left wall and Booe legged it home. Wagner cut to Bridwell and Viox was tagged at third, then Hyatt ended it with a lift to Mitchell.

In the next round the Pirates tallied another run, Wilson starting with a double. Byrne sacrificed and Simon singled, Wilson trotting home. Robinson fanned and Booe popped out, closing the round, and the Pirates never got another man to third base until the ninth.

The Cubs' sixth inning rally was a beauty and was started by Mitchell, who sloughed one to left for two bases. Heine Zim walked. Then Saier bluffed a bunt on the first pitched ball and took a swing at the next one. Viox was running toward first base and for that reason was in a place to stop the smash, but he followed it with a boner, for he tried to force Heine Zim at second when it was too late. To make it worse, his peg was so bad that it got away from Wagner as he and Heine Zim crashed together. The ball rolled out back of second and Heine and Honus were rolling and scrambling four feet from the bag.

While this was taking place Mitchell got all the way home. Heine clambered back to second base after dragging his feet out of Honus' neck and short ribs. Leach caught one on the nose for a triple to far center. Heine and Saier sprinted to the home plate, Vic keeping right on the heels of Zim all the way. Leach wound up at third, from where he scored on Bridwell's Texas leaguer over second. Archer tried to bunt, but popped out, Humphries lifted to Byrne, and Miller walked, Phelan ending the run with a line drive to Carey. Score:

Michael J. Donlin was born in Erie, Pa., on May 30, 1878. He started his professional baseball career in 1897 as a pitcher with the Santa Cruz (Cal.) team. After two years there he was purchased by the St. Louis Cardinals. Mike failed as a pitcher, but his batting made him a valuable performer, so he was placed in the outfield. He jumped the Cardinals in 1901 and joined the Baltimore team in the American league. The following season he went to Cincinnati, where he played until traded to the Giants in 1904. Mike was a member of the Giants during 1905-'06, and then retired for a season, rejoining the team in 1908. At the close of the season he retired once more and did not don the spangles again until 1911, when he was traded to the Boston Braves. Boston shipped him to Pittsburgh, where he played last season. Last winter he was traded to the Phillies, his seventh big league team

SAM WELLERISMS.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 29.—[Special.]—Memorial day games here tomorrow will start at 10:30 a. m. and 3 p. m.

The athletes went to the hay early tonight, for there was a 7 o'clock call.

Ham Hyatt's drive looked like the drive of a golfer. There was a strong wind from the north to help a bit.

The Cubs reached Pittsburgh at 9 o'clock this morning and had breakfast at the hotel. Most of them sought more sleep during the morning.

Reulbach and Smith are slated to do the pitching in the two games tomorrow against Camnitz and Adams, which makes it look none too bright for Chicago.

Fred Clarke took a hand in the game, the first time since the fall of 1911. He batted for O'Toole in the seventh when two were on and two out, and he retired the side with a pop foul to Heine Zim.

A small crowd of aboout 3,000 attended the game today, but since the Pirates won in uproarious fashion there should be two bully crowds tomorrow, as Pittsburgh is about the best holiday town in the league.

Quite unexpectedly to all the players President Murphy came along on the trip. He passed the morning with Barney Dreyfuss, head of the Pirates, and held a secret conference with Manager Evers before the game.

Manager Evers stayed out of the game today because of a sore finger on his throwing hand. The digit was hurt in Chicago yesterday and may keep him out another day or two. At first it was thought he was suspended, but when he appeared on the coaching lines it was apparent there was another reason for his layoff.

"Tech" Nine Clinches Second Place Honors in the Northern Section by Defeating Austin, 13 to 2.

Lane Tech qualified for the finals of the Cook County High School Baseball league championship by taking second place in the northern section. Austin was the Techs' final victim, losing at St. Thomas' field yesterday, 13 to 2. Lane sewed up the game in a hurry, pounding eight runs across in the third round. Oak Park and Lane qualify in the northern group, and Wendell Phillips and Englewood enter the finals from the southern division. The first championship games will be played next week. Score:

GIANTS WIN IN FOURTEENTH

HALT MARCH OF PHILS, 7-6.

Seaton Meets First Defeat of Year; McGraw Uses Seventeen Men.

New York, May 29.—The Giants broke the Phillies' winning streak today, the locals taking an exciting fourteen inning game, 7 to 6. Fletcher's long hit over Magee's head in the fourteenth drove in Shafer with the winning run. Shafer had singled with one out.

These were the only hits made off Seaton, who pitched the last six innings for Philadelphia. The defeat was Seaton's first this season, the score being a tie when he went in.

Philadelphia threw away many chances in the early innings by reckless base running, apparently calculating it had the game won. However, the Giants cut down a three run lead when Meyers hit a home run in the seventh and McCormick drove in the tying runs with a double in the eighth.

McGraw used seventeen players, including five pitchers, one used as a pinch runner. McGraw and Snodgrass were put off the field in the eleventh for protesting a decision. Score:

Chicago Fight Fans Contribute to Fund for Floral Piece.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

The body of Luther McCarty, the white heavyweight champion of the world, who died as the result of a blow delivered by Arthur Pelkey in the first round of their bout at Calgary, Alberta, last Saturday, will reach Chicago this morning. Billy McCarney, who was the fighter's manager, the widow, Ed Smith of Chicago, who acted as referee of the contest, and Freddie Sears, a lifelong friend of McCarty, are accompanying the body.

The train from St. Paul is due to arrive at the Union station at 9:45 o'clock. Fifteen minutes later another train will bear the party to Piqua, O., where the burial will be tomorrow.

A large delegation will be at the station to pay their last respects to a fighter who learned in Chicago all he knew about the game. A collection amounting to nearly $100 was taken up at the local gymnasiums and fight headquarters yesterday and a large floral piece will be placed on the casket as it leaves the city. The amount was collected in less than an hour.

According to McCarney's telegram, Mrs. McCarty joined the cortège at St. Paul. She had been employed in Moorhead, Minn. McCarty's father will take charge of the body at Piqua.

'FEDS' GRAB GAME BY BUNCHING HITS

BY HANDY ANDY.

Bunched hits in the second inning gave Chicago's Federal leaguers a victory over the Cleveland Green Sox yesterday, 5 to 1. Four timely swats, including one double, together with a passed ball, netted three runs for the Browns in their second attack.

Besides his work on the slab, Paynter fielded in big league style, tossing ten of the visiting batsmen out at first. McGuire replaced Kading at the initial sack. The Browns' first baseman was injured slightly in practice.

"Cy" Young sent another Miller to start the fray. Walter held the Browns to one run on Wednesday and "Cy" thought Henry might be able to duplicate the feat. The local Henry was too good for the Green Sox, whereas Henry from Cleveland yielded a total of eleven swats. Miller was removed in the seventh after Lynch opened the round with a double, and Southpaw Gilroy took up the burden.

Chicago Scores in First.

Cleveland failed to count on two hits, one a double, and a hit batsman in the first inning. The Browns scored once in their first attempt. Stanley walked with one out and went to third on Kavanagh's infield hit. The pair worked the double steal successfully, Stanley scoring and Kavanagh taking third when Cooper heaved the ball to center. McGuire's bounder to Miller closed the round.

Gertenrich, first up in the second, singled to left. Lynch was credited with a hit when Miller and Rooney allowed his attempted sacrifice to roll between them, Gertenrich going to second. A passed ball advanced both runners, and Dennis drove in the two runs with a single to left, the first of his three swats. Paynter's out advanced the catcher, and Dennis brought in the third tally when O'Leary doubled to center. Miller threw out Stanley.

In the eighth with Gilroy hurling, Gertenrich started with a hit to right. Lynch forced Gert, and in turn was forced by Farrell, who stole second. Dennis shot his third hit through short, sending Farrell home.

Visitors Get Marker in Eighth.

Cleveland's lone marker came in the eighth. Gilroy doubled to start the session, and took third while Paynter was throwing out Britton. Kleinow, batting for Hillmund, popped to Farrell, but Gilroy scored when Patton drove a hit through Paynter.

A double header will be staged today at De Paul field, starting at 1:30 o'clock. Score:

BY HANDY ANDY.

Bunched hits in the second inning gave Chicago's Federal leaguers a victory over the Cleveland Green Sox yesterday, 5 to 1. Four timely swats, including one double, together with a passed ball, netted three runs for the Browns in their second attack.

Besides his work on the slab, Paynter fielded in big league style, tossing ten of the visiting batsmen out at first. McGuire replaced Kading at the initial sack. The Browns' first baseman was injured slightly in practice.

"Cy" Young sent another Miller to start the fray. Walter held the Browns to one run on Wednesday and "Cy" thought Henry might be able to duplicate the feat. The local Henry was too good for the Green Sox, whereas Henry from Cleveland yielded a total of eleven swats. Miller was removed in the seventh after Lynch opened the round with a double, and Southpaw Gilroy took up the burden.

Chicago Scores in First.

Cleveland failed to count on two hits, one a double, and a hit batsman in the first inning. The Browns scored once in their first attempt. Stanley walked with one out and went to third on Kavanagh's infield hit. The pair worked the double steal successfully, Stanley scoring and Kavanagh taking third when Cooper heaved the ball to center. McGuire's bounder to Miller closed the round.

Gertenrich, first up in the second, singled to left. Lynch was credited with a hit when Miller and Rooney allowed his attempted sacrifice to roll between them, Gertenrich going to second. A passed ball advanced both runners, and Dennis drove in the two runs with a single to left, the first of his three swats. Paynter's out advanced the catcher, and Dennis brought in the third tally when O'Leary doubled to center. Miller threw out Stanley.

In the eighth with Gilroy hurling, Gertenrich started with a hit to right. Lynch forced Lou and in turn was forced by Farrell, who stole second. Dennis shot his third hit through short, sending Farrell home.

Visitors Get Marker in Eighth.

Cleveland's lone marker came in the eighth. Gilroy doubled to start the session, and took third while Paynter was throwing out Britton. Kleinow, batting for Hillmund, popped to Farrell, but Gilroy scored when Patton drove a hit through Paynter.

A double header will be staged today at De Paul field, starting at 1:30 o'clock. Score:

SPORTING NEWS NOTES.

Forty entries have been named for the opening matinée races of the West Chicago Driving club at the Austin track this afternoon. There are eight races carded, including the match race between the famous pacers Dr. Burns Jr., 2:07¼, and Robert Baron, 2:08¼.

The Campbell Rovers and McDuff soccer teams will meet this afternoon in their annual match in aid of the Scottish Old People's home, playing at Fifty-second street and Cottage Grove avenue at 3 o'clock. The prize is the John Williamson trophy, on which the McDuffs already have two legs.

The Grand Army sweepstakes will be the feature of the racing program at Riverview motordrome tonight. The Chicago and visiting Cleveland riders will take part in this event. The contest will be run in two preliminary heats of two miles each, while the final will be a five mile affair.

Although a number of the local clubs have been holding events during the last few weeks Decoration day generally is considered opening day for the local golf season, and, with the exception of the clubs which play on the public links, every local organization has one or more events carded for today.

Evanston Township High school defeated University High school, 6 to 5, in a golf match at Jackson park yesterday. Stiles won two points from Loeb by holing a five foot putt on the home green and this decided the match in favor of Evanston. Kiser had the best medal score, getting 80. D'Ancona had 81 and M. Loeb 81.

OLD HOMESTEAD CHANGES OWNERS

ANOTHER HOUSE DEAL.

Mrs. Emma S. Theurer Buys Mrs. Caroline J. Bolter's Property at 448 Barry Avenue.

The old George Chapman homestead, at 2433 North Clark street, just north of Fullerton avenue, a historical landmark, has been sold by Florence Chapman to Frank A. O'Donnell.

The house was erected more than fifty years ago, and a peculiar interest attaches to it for the reason that Abraham Lincoln frequently stopped there while in Chicago. It is a large, square, two story brick structure, surmounted by a cupola, and contains about eighteen rooms. The lot fronts 125 feet on Lake View avenue, extending about 500 feet through to Clark street.

The consideration is withheld, but it is said the property was held at $100,000. Madden Bros. were the brokers.

Mr. O'Donnell also has purchased from the Northwestern university the southeast corner of Clark street and Arlington place, 77x125, adjoining the Chapman property, and, while a nominal consideration is given, the property is said to have been held at $300 a front foot. It is said Mr. O'Donnell plans to improve this and the west half of the Chapman property in the near future. Madden Bros. were the brokers.

Barry Avenue Residence Sold.

Another notable north side residence deal just closed is the sale by Mrs. Caroline J. Bolter to Mrs. Emma S. Theurer of her residence at 448 Barry avenue. It is a 12 room brick and stone structure occupying a lot 72x178 feet and it is understood the consideration was $45,000. The late Joseph Theurer, husband of the purchaser contracted for the purchase of the property a few days prior to his death. A. L. Whitely of Murdock, James & Co., was the broker.

The Kathadar apartments at the northwest corner of Sunnyside and Magnolia avenues, on 50x144 feet of ground, containing 12 apartments has been sold by Thomas H. Kendall of Aurora to Milton S. Plotke for $45,000, Mr. Kendall taking in part payment the 100x235 feet of vacant west front, on Evanston avenue 248 feet north of Argyle street at a valuation of $22,500. Dix and Knipp were the brokers and they also have sold for O. L. Baumbach to George P. Cullen the residence property at 4617 Sheridan road, for $14,000.

Buys Tract of Forty Lots.

A noteworthy transaction in vacant in the northwest part of the city is the sale by Paul Steinbrecher & Co. for John L. Brown to Sidney S. Pollack, master in chancery, of a tract of forty lots, comprising a block fronting on Lawrence avenue, North Forty-first avenue, Forty-first court, and Ainslee street. The consideration being withheld. This is in an active district, and there have been a number of recent sales in Lawrence avenue, between Fortieth and Elston avenues. Mr. Pollack expects to improve with substantial brick buildings.

Mark Levy & Bro. have sold for Edward Roesing to Max Schiff and Tobey Nathan the three story and basement building at 426-28 West Sixty-third street, between Stewart and Eggleston avenues. The building contains stores, offices, and lodge halls.

The property at 3219 West Twelfth street, west of Kedzie avenue, 25x110 feet, with three story store and flat building, has been sold by Joseph H. Luna to David Edenburg for $20,500. The purchaser is said to have been offered a profit of $2,500 prior to the closing of the deal. Samuels & Adelson and Sidney C. Edenburg were the brokers.

Another Twelfth Street Deal.

Other Twelfth street deals made a matter of record included the sale by Louis and Ray Pearson to Reuben Zurick of the property sixty-eight feet west of Turner avenue, 25x125 feet, north front, with store and flat improvements, for $16,000. Also the property fifty feet west of Francisco avenue, 20.6x125 feet, south front, with store and building, was sold by Morris Celper to Tillie De Koven for $15,000.

Martha S. Hill has leased to the American Meat Packers Supply company a 2 story, semi-fireproof, mill constructed building, which she will erect on 68x105 feet of ground at 52-58 West North Water street, between Clark and Dearborn streets, on a Northwestern switch track. The lease is for six years at a term rent of $15,000, with option to extend six years. William H. Souchier was the broker.

The Chicago real estate board entertained at a cabaret luncheon yesterday the board of managers and executive committee of the Association of Real Estate Exchanges, who were en route to Cincinnati to attend a meeting to be held there today. After the musical program there were brief talks by A. H. Frederick of St. Louis, first president of the association; N. J. Upham of Duluth, chairman of the board and of the International Realty association, a business organization connected with the National Association of Exchanges; Valentine H. Surghnor of Chicago, S. G. Smith of Minneapolis, Henry Mohr of Duluth, Mr. Harrison of Omaha, and Thomas S. Ingersoll, executive secretary of the association. They were the guests of President Willoughby at the Sox ball game in the afternoon.

DRY GOODS CLEARANCE SALES WILL BRING MANY MERCHANTS.

J. V. Farwell Co. Weekly Review Says Large Number of Retail Buyers Are Expected Next Week.

The John V. Farwell company weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade says:

"Responses from retailers throughout the country indicate that the semi-annual clearance sale of the wholesale dry goods houses of Chicago next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday will bring to this city the largest number of buyers ever assembled here at this season of the year.

"A trip through the leading retail distributers' stocks has confirmed our opinion that the call for high priced cotton and silk goods, both in plain and fancies, will continue during the summer and early fall. Everything in crêpes, both plain and fancies, also good qualities of eponge—especially the fillet weave—are in sharp demand.

White and colored ratines continue to be popular and scarce. Representatives of many foreign mills predict that they will be in great demand for next spring."

ELGIN BANK DECISION MONDAY.

Government Rests Its Case in Trial of Former Cashier and Assistant of Institution.

The government rested its case yesterday in the trial of Louis N. Seaman and Melvin C. Jocelyn, former cashier and assistant cashier, respectively, of the Elgin National bank. They are charged with misapplying $45,000 of the bank's funds by means of alleged worthless drafts. Attorney George T. Buckingham, representing the defense, immediately made a motion to take the case from the jury. He said the government had failed to prove the charges in the indictment. The jury was dismissed and the remainder of the day was taken up with arguments on the motion. Circuit Judge Seaman said he will announce his decision Monday.

FRISCO CHANGES CAUSE NO UNREST

PRICES FAVOR HOLDING.

Low Level of Values Curbs Selling; Other Roads Not Facing Trouble.

Market observers were impressed yesterday by the degree of influence which the Frisco receivership had upon sentiment. It is not a small matter for about 15,000 miles of railroad to pass into the courts, and, while it is true that the former control of the company did not inspire much confidence, as the low prices of the securities indicate, still if the stock market were not well liquidated a receivership of a system as large as Frisco might have precipitated a market panic. That such latter has not happened seems to indicate that prices of securities have reached a level that leads the holders of stocks and bonds to refrain from disposing of their investments.

While it is possible other railroads may fall into trouble, there is no immediate evidence of such eventualities.

London Comment on Receivership.

"No anxiety is shown on the part of the investing public here regarding the appointment of receivers for the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad. The Financial Times and other journals attribute the receivership to the prevailing dearness of money in the United States. The best opinion in investment circles is that the interests of bondholders are being adequately safeguarded by Speyer & Co. and Speyer Bros., and other bankers, who have had relations with the company."

Reynolds' Currency Views Hopeful.

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National bank, returned yesterday from the east where he conferred with representatives of the government who are framing a currency bill.

"I was impressed," said Mr. Reynolds, "with the evident desire on the part of the administration and the banking committee of the house and senate to prepare a bill which will effect changes and still be for the general good. The desire of the administration appears to be to avoid the pyramiding of reserves. The plan, in its purpose, appeals to me though there might be a difference of opinion as to details. However, as no one knows it all, I am willing to submit my views and work with those who may entertain dissimilar opinions. What is wanted is a good currency measure. I am inclined to think such will be worked out by the administration."

Banks and Exchanges Close.

The banks and stock exchanges of the country will be closed today. Tomorrow the stock exchanges of New York and Chicago will be closed, while the banks will be open.

Known Movements of Money.

Known movements of money for the week indicate the New York banks have gained net $6,238,920 cash.

They gained from the interior $11,130,920, but lost to the subtreasury $4,892,000.

Indiana Pipe Line Earnings.

The Indiana Pipe Line company reports net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31, 1912, of $1,976,000. Total assets are given at $7,322,000.

It is announced the Buckeye Pipe Line company will show net profits of about $6,000,000, with total assets of $21,833,000.

Minneapolis and St. Louis.

Officials of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad says all of the road's requirements for this calendar year have been provided for. In the last sixteen months the short time obligations have been reduced by $3,250,000, and all of the improvement work upon the property has been paid for from surplus earnings. Improvements and betterments now under way will be met in the same way.

May Unite Louisville Companies.

The Kentucky Court of Appeals has handed down a decision permitting H. M. Byllesby & Co. to merge all of the electric and gas utilities of Louisville, Ky., into a single company. Suit to restrain the merger was started by several taxpayers, who raised the point that it violated the anti-trust statute of the state. The court finds that the consolidation, which was previously sanctioned by the ordinances enacted by the city council of Louisville, is legal.

The decision removes the last obstacle to the unification of the two gas and four electric companies which operated separately.

Railroad Earnings.

The April reports of a number of railroads issued yesterday made rather favorable exhibit. The St. Paul system had an increase in gross of $697,306. The net from operation indicated a gain of about half the gross increase. Southern Pacific made a good exhibit in gross, but expenses and taxes increased to such an extent that the net gain from operation was but $31,129.

Illinois Central did better than many of its friends expected. The flood losses failed to wipe out the net revenue, although operating charges and taxes increased $260,309, against a gain in gross of $311,241. The figures follow:

LATEST WALL STREET GOSSIP.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The possibility that the stock market would be called upon to withstand the unfavorable influence of the sale of $126,000,000 Southern Pacific has been ever present in the mind of Wall street recently, and undoubtedly that factor was foremost in people's thoughts today.

The manner in which the Harriman stock greeted the Union Pacific announcement might have been the best illustration of what went on in the mind of the average speculator as he read the announcement of the news on the tickers. If this was the case the alternate break and recovery are easily accounted for. The tip would have represented hasty conclusions that after all the Southern Pacific stock would have to come to market in a lump. That inference would be natural to any one reading the first plan and scarcely waiting to give proper attention to the second.

The recovery in price which followed would have represented more serious consideration of the merits of the second plan and of the advantages presented in respect to a gradual distribution of the Southern Pacific stock in the Union Pacific treasury.

A review of the fluctuations in prices of the leading stocks during the last two months shows that the stock market during that time has presented almost ideal trading conditions. Prices for the small group of active stocks have moved with a narrow range, it is true, but they have moved backward and forward within these limits with a considerable degree of regularity. If a speculator had been clever enough to see that the market for the time being was pretty sure to stay in a rut he might hav bought and sold stocks alternately when prices declined or advanced with a fair degree of certainty of a few points' profit.

But unfortunately the stock market on too many occasions has exhibited what seemed to be unmistakable indications of breaking into new ground and the science of speculation has discovered no panacea for a nervous imagination.

The two days' holiday would have been a boon to the clerical forces of the financial district if it had happened in the busy times of the past when the machinery of Wall street often was run far into the night on the final days of the month. But if the times had been busy it is unlikely that the governors of the stock exchange would have granted the extra holiday with such alacrity, so that the present reference is rather futile after all. As it is the bookkeepers of the Wall street commission houses will hardly find the business of getting out customers' monthly statements arduous enough to interfere with their vacation.

The records put the transactions in stocks on the exchange during the month at 5,409,014 shares, which is the smallest for that month since 1904, when 5,301,023 shares were done. The largest day's business in the month was 522,880 shares, and the smallest 146,225 shares. Bond transactions totaled $42,045,000, a May low record since the year 1907.

A comparison of current prices of stocks with the level prevailing two months ago may contain some rather interesting surprises for people who have been forming their market opinions without too careful a reference to the exact figures. March 24 last Amalgamated Copper sold at 68, Smelters at 65⅝, American Telephone and Telegraph at 131⅜, Brooklyn Rapid Transit at 87⅝, Canadian Pacific at 223, Chesapeake and Ohio at 71, St. Paul at 108⅜, Consolidated Gas at 129½, Great Northern preferred at 126¾, Lehigh Valley at 152½, Louisville and Nashville at 133½, Missouri Pacific at 36⅜, Pennsylvania at 118⅜, Northern Pacific at 115, Reading at 155⅞, Southern Pacific at 98⅜, Union Pacific at 147⅞, and Steel at 59½.

Thus it is seen that of the four leading speculative mediums, Amalgamated, Steel, Reading, and Union, two of them, Amalgamated and Reading, have scored net gains of five points apiece during the period and Sttel and Union have a little more than held their own. In the less active list fairly large declines are pretty well distributed, especially among the minor railroad shares and the specialties, but it is interesting to note that stocks of the class of Great Northern, Northern Pacific, and Louisville and Nashville are hardly changed at all and that Consolidated Gas and Lehigh Valley have advanced materially.

Money and Exchange.

Money in Chicago steady, 5@6 per cent on commercial paper, 5@6 per cent on collateral, and 6 per cent over the counter. Foreign exchange firmer at the following quotations:

London cables	486⅛

Financial News Notes.

James Fahnestock of the Pennsylvania railroad said that a large number of subscribers to the $45,387,750 stock issue are paying in full. He was unable to estimate the total amount subscribed, but said that the mails containing payments continue to be extraordinarily heavy.

The subtreasury gained $740,000 from the banks on Wednesday and since Friday has gained $5,092,000.

Stockholders of the Greene Cananea Copper company will meet at Duluth on June 16 to act on a proposition to change the par value of the stock from $20 per share to $100 per share. The authorized capital is now 3,000,000 shares.

The increase in par value will necessarily be reduced to 600,000 shares.

There was reported moderate selling of M., K. & T. stock by western interests. Texas Pacific appeared also to have been sold by western holders.

Chicago Securities.

On the local stock exchange business was dull. Sears-Roebuck common had an irregular course, advancing to 170, but closing about one point below that quotation. Swift & Co. shares were steady at around 105. American Shipbuilding common sold at 52. Commonwealth Edison shares were steady at 132. American Can stocks were dull at steady quotations. Chicago Railways issues were steady.

In the bond department Chicago City Railway 5s held at par. Chicago Railways 5s dropped to 97½. This is believed to be below the price at which some of the bonds were recently floated.

ASK INQUIRY INTO FRISCO FAILURE

Holders of $300,000,000 Bonds Say They Were Not Told of Plan for Receivership.

BANKERS ALSO WRATHY.

New York Financiers Who Backed Road Will Demand an Independent Receiver.

St. Louis, Mo., May 29.—[Special.]—An inquiry to determine why the Frisco railroad should be thrown suddenly into the hands of receivers by its managing officials, without consultation with the bankers who financed it, will be made by representatives of the holders of the $300,000,000 outstanding bonds.

Charles Nagel, representing the Bankers' Trust company of New York, trustee for the bondholders, and F. W. Lehmann, representing Speyer & Co. of New York, who floated large issues of 5 per cent Frisco bonds, are waiting upon their clients for further instructions.

Lehmann has been called to New York to confer with Speyer & Co., his clients, and Nagel will make a demand at the proper time for a third receiver, to be a banker in no way connected with the management of the railroad.

An important phase of the receivership proceeding will be the investigation of the purchase by the Frisco of numerous branch lines, many of which were promoted by B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the board of directors of the Frisco.

C. & E. I. TO QUIT FRISCO?

Independent operation of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad and separation from the Frisco system will be demanded by the chief stockholders of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, according to reports in Chicago railroad circles yesterday.

W. J. Jackson and E. W. Winter, joint receivers for the Frisco, left in the morning on a tour of inspection of the Eastern Illinois. They were accompanied by W. H. Lyford, attorney for the receivers.

Control of the Eastern Illinois will revert to the H. H. Porter estate of Chicago if it is decided to dissolve the merger with the Frisco lines, made several years ago. The receivers are expected to return here early next week, when a conference with the Porter heirs may be held.

The Frisco will suffer more than the Chicago road, it is asserted, if it is determined to operate the two roads separately. Such a move would deprive the Frisco of a terminal east of St. Louis and would confine its operations to west and southwest.

While no one in authority could speak for the Porter heirs during the absence of H. H. Porter Jr., it was reported that the representatives of the estate had expected for eighteen months that the merger with the Frisco would be dissolved and have made plans to finance the C. and E. I. as an independent line.

"It is a logical supposition that the Porter estate will resume control of the C. and E. I.," said an official. "The estate is the largest holder of the road's stock."

The late H. H. Porter Sr. was for years chairman of the board of directors of the C. and E. I. and dominated its operation.

PARIS, May 29.—An attempt to overthrow the French cabinet was made in the chamber of deputies this afternoon under the leadership of ex-Premier Caillaux by means of an interpellation on the government's financial policy. Great nervousness was apparent when, after defending speeches had been made by Premier Barthou and Minister of Finance Dumont, a vote was taken. The result showed 312 to 240, or a majority of 72 in favor of the government.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, May 29.—The supplies of money are shrinking and discount rates were firmer today. The stock market developed a slightly better tone on the belief that the Balkan peace treaty will be signed by the end of the month. Paris support and local repurchases hardened speculative issues, while consoles recovered a fraction; but the improvement mostly disappeared under further liquidation and the closing was irregular. Brazilian rails and Marconi shares were weak.

American securities were quiet and featureless during the early trading with prices ranging from unchanged to ½ higher. Later Wall street was a seller and the list sagged and closed easy. Canadian Pacific finished weak.

N. Y. STOCKS HOLD LOW LEVEL

Frisco's Failure and New U. P.-S. P. Plan Unsettle Market.

U. P. RALLIES NEAR CLOSE.

S. P. Off a Point; Foreign Trading Lowers Canadian Pacific.

New York, May 29.—The important development today in the stock market, which continued to show a degree of depression resulting from the St. Louis and San Francisco receivership, was the publication by the Union Pacific directors of alternative plans for the disposal of the company's $126,650,000 Southern Pacific stock.

One of these plans is novel in the sense that it suggests public bids after the manner of a city bond offering.

Judging from the course of the Harriman issues, which were irregular in the early session, but became feverish on publication of these plans, traders and the speculative public generally seemed unable to grasp the import or significance of this latest move.

Union Pacific Rises at Close.

Elsewhere in the active list Canadian Pacific was again prominent for its activity at receding prices. As usual, the selling was attributed to Berlin, but some of the liquidation was traceable to Canadian sources. Various stocks in the so-called Gould and Hawley groups were very weak, recording the lowest prices in some years. The industrial list was notably firm by comparison.

Railway returns for April ranged from good to unfavorable, Lackawanna and Reading coming under the former category, with New Haven in the latter.

Frisco Bonds Make Recovery.

Substantial recovery in St. Louis and San Francisco 4s and 5s was the feature of the bond market. In government issues Panama 3s declined ⅛ per cent for the week on call. Total sales par value $1,740,000.

AUTHORIZES FORECLOSURE SUIT AGAINST PERE MARQUETTE.

Judge Landis Grants Permission to Trust Company and Scott Brown to File Bill Against Road.

Federal Judge Landis yesterday granted permission to the Bankers' Trust company of New York and Scott Brown of South Bend, Ind., to file a bill for foreclosure of a mortgage for $17,295,000 on bonds of the Père Marquette railroad. Later he granted the consolidation of the new suit with that of the American Brake Shoe and Foundry company, filed April 8, 1912, and which resulted in the appointment of Frank W. Blair, receiver in this district.

The trust company and Brown negotiated the sale of the bonds of the road to the amount of $17,995,000, and in the suit they are acting as trustees for all the bondholders.

The bill states that the Père Marquette defaulted on the interest Sept. 1, 1912.

The mortgage provides that in default of payment the trustees for the bondholders shall become entitled to the right to collect and receive all the earnings, income rents, issues, and profits of the mortgaged railroad.

HOLDS U. S. STEEL A GOOD EXAMPLE

Financier Praises Morgan for His Part; Sees Panics Dissipated.

New York, May 29.—"I believe the United States Steel corporation has set a good example in the business world. If this seems like boasting I ask your pardon."

These words epitomized the testimony today of Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the corporation, in the hearings of the government's dissolution suit against it as an illegal combination.

Mr. Gary spent a second entire day on the stand. Most of his testimony pointed out the good which he said had been accomplished by the corporation in the steel industry as the result of its organization.

"The policy of the corporation has been," he said, "so to manage and conduct its affairs as to make it certain that it did no wrong to any person or interest. It seems to me that this is the important thing in a quasi-public corporation. I believe we have been of assistance in promoting the interests of all connected with or affected by the corporation.

Recalls Labor Troubles.

"Although there were difficulties and obstacles among us as to how labor and our competitors should be treated, for the last eight or nine years our administration has been successful and everything is satisfactory except for the fact that the government does not seem to think we have done as much or as little as we ought, whichever it is."

"Possibly both," interrupted Henry E. Colton, a government attorney.

"Possibly both," the witness said, smiling. "Of course we have made mistakes from time to time and our subordinates have done things which we would rather they would not have done and wouldn't have authorized; but I think that for a good many years their management has been fair and good.

"It has never been our practice or policy to disregard or defy public sentiment and I have always been willing to give interviews about our affairs, although after the Stanley committee began its investigation, it was not very appropriate or becoming to continue that practice."

Praises Morgan's Part.

Mr. Gary praised the part the late J. Pierpont Morgan took in organizing the corporation, and said it could never have been launched without the financier's aid and backing. He testified the corporation's policy of seeking stability in prices had benefited the industry and that as a result there had been no failures of steel firms in the panic of 1907.

"I do not wish to be misunderstood," he said. "I have always been in favor of the maintenance and stability of steel prices, and I am glad to have the government investigate this whole subject."

The competitors of the corporation were "never so strong and successful as they are at present," Mr. Gary declared. He said he never heard any of them complain that they were treated unfairly by the corporation.

HOLDS U. S. STEEL A GOOD EXAMPLE

New York, May 29.—"I believe the United States Steel corporation has set a good example in the business world. If this seems like boasting I ask your pardon."

These words epitomized the testimony today of Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the corporation, in the hearings of the government's dissolution suit against it as an illegal combination.

Mr. Gary spent a second entire day on the stand. Most of his testimony pointed out the good which he said had been accomplished by the corporation in the steel industry as the result of its organization.

"The policy of the corporation has been," he said, "so to manage and conduct its affairs as to make it certain that it did no wrong to any person or interest. It seems to me that this is the important thing in a quasi-public corporation. I believe we have been of assistance in promoting the interests of all connected with or affected by the corporation.

Recalls Labor Troubles.

"Although there were difficulties and obstacles among us as to how labor and our competitors should be treated, for the last eight or nine years our administration has been successful and everything is satisfactory except for the fact that the government does not seem to think we have done as much or as little as we ought, whichever it is."

"Possibly both," the witness said, smiling. "Of course we have made mistakes from time to time and our subordinates have done things which we would rather they would not have done and wouldn't have authorized; but I think that for a good many years their management has been fair and good.

"It has never been our practice or policy to disregard or defy public sentiment and I have always been willing to give interviews about our affairs, although after the Stanley committee began its investigation, it was not very appropriate or becoming to continue that practice."

Praises Morgan's Part.

Mr. Gary praised the part the late J. Pierpont Morgan took in organizing the corporation, and said it could never have been launched without the financier's aid and backing. He testified the corporation's policy of seeking stability in prices had benefited the industry and that as a result there had been no failures of steel firms in the panic of 1907.

"I do not wish to be misunderstood," he said. "I have always been in favor of the maintenance and stability of steel prices, and I am glad to have the government investigate this whole subject."

The competitors of the corporation were "never so strong and successful as they are at present," Mr. Gary declared. He said he never heard any of them complain that they were treated unfairly by the corporation.

TRADERS IGNORE BULLISH REPORTS

Crop News Is Unfavorable, but Local Buying Demand for Wheat Is Slack.

COARSE GRAINS STEADY.

May Oats Work Higher, Short Covering Being a Factor; Products Are Firm.

While there was no improvement in the reports coming from the southwest in regard to winter wheat, the buying demand for futures was limited, and on the rallies commission houses had plenty of wheat to sell. May shorts were not at all anxious apparently, the current month closing at ⅛c discount under the July. Final quotations were unchanged to ⅛c higher, the July leading.

The dry and hot weather shown by the map in the southwest started a buying movement early, which quickly rallied prices. The advancing tendency, however, was promptly squelched by heavy selling by longs on the advance. Local bulls who bought early sold out later, and commission houses again picked up the wheat. Local longs took profits, fearing rain before Saturday, which would alter the situation materially.

Hot Weather Reported.

High temperatures were reported all through the southwest and experts in the field conceded that wheat is deteriorating rapidly. Some of the best wheat counties in Kansas have already suffered materially and are said to be going back every day without rain. In northern Oklahoma the crop has also been seriously injured. In the southern part of Oklahoma the crop is practically made.

Showers were indicated for the northwest, but no general precipitation was indicated, and this is needed. Temperatures were high all through the spring wheat country except in Canada. Insect pests appear to be getting in their work in other sections aside from the southwest. Illinois and Indiana reports from many stations were less favorable than they have been any time so far.

Exports Continue Heavy.

Clearances for the week were 6,093,000 bu, the compilation being for five days. Last year clearances were 4,914,000 bu. For the day exports were 600,000 bu. Receipts were 25 cars, with 15 cars the estimate for tomorrow. Primary arrivals were 469,000 bu and northwest points had 186 cars. Minneapolis stocks decreased 650,000 bu for five days. Argentine shipments were estimated at 1,200,000 bu.

Liverpool was weak early, but rallied a little, closing ¼d up to ⅝d off. Antwerp and Budapest were unchanged, Berlin ⅝c off, and Paris was unchanged to ½c up.

Corn Prices Hold Well.

Corn was without much feature. Offerings were not heavy and there was no urgent demand. May shorts appeared to be in a peaceful frame of mind, as there was no big demand for this month. Final prices were unchanged to ⅛c off. Country offerings were fair and there was not much eastern demand, sample prices being steady to ¼c off. Kansas City quoted cash corn 1@2c off.

Shipping sales reported were 80,000 bu. Clearances for the week were only 45,000 bu. Argentine shipped 5,250,000 bu. Receipts here were 362 cars with 315 cars estimated for Saturday. Cables were ¼d off. Primary arrivals were 580,000 bu. Weather conditions generally continue favorable for corn.

Oats Have Strong Tone.

Oats were firm, the strength in the May, together with the continued unfavorable crop advices, checking the selling. The May closed ⅜c higher at 42½c, a gain of ⅜c for the day, and other months were unchanged to ⅛@¼c up. Commission houses were free buyers of the September. Sample prices were about steady. Receipts here were 388 cars, with 240 cars inspected yesterday. Sales to go to store were 50,000 bu. Primary arrivals were 591,000 bu. Shipping sales were 125,000 bu.

Provisions Are Irregular.

Hog products were irregular, but generally closed a little higher. Shorts in May ribs covered freely, while longs were credited with selling. Receipts of hogs were less than expected at 21,000 and the slightly firmer tone at the yards was a bull factor. The estimate for today was 17,000. Western points had a total of 92,200, or about 8,000 more than a year ago. Cash trade continues good. Hams at Liverpool were 6d higher and lard about 3d lower. Receipts of products here were 28 cars; shipments were 80 cars.

Rye Weak at Close.

Rye sold at steady prices early, but closed weaker. No. 2 made 64c and was offered at 63c at the finish. No. 4 sold at 57c. Receipts were 5 cars.

Timothy seed was firm at $3.25@4.00 for cash lots.

Duluth flax closed unchanged to ⅝c higher, with cash on track $1.30¼; May, $1.29⅞, and July, $1.30¼. Receipts, 19 cars. Minneapolis was ½c higher at $1.29½ for cash on track. Receipts, 16 cars. Winnipeg closed 1c higher, with May $1.15¼ and July $1.17¼. Receipts, 123 cars.

AMERICAN GRAIN MARKETS.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 29.—WHEAT—Entirely a weather market. Trade was inclined to even up operations over the holiday. Bullish reports from southwest caused moderate strength. NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

The bad reports from the southwest did not give outsiders much buying enthusiasm and there was not the demand from shorts that was expected prior to the holiday. Apparently local traders had evened up their trades pretty well the last day or so. Predictions were for rains northwest and in the middle west, but for Kansas and the southwest the predictions were for continued fair weather. Late messages said it was cloudy in Kansas and looked like rain at some points. Extremely high temperatures prevailed in the southern and western part of Kansas. At some points the temperature was up to 100. Generally maximum temperatures were above 90 in the northwest also. That wheat has gone back rapidly in Kansas is indicated by recent reports. Oscar F. Lindman recently came through Kansas from California and reported conditions splendid; yesterday J. J. Lindman had a message from him after going west on his way home saying: "Could not believe wheat could deteriorate as it has in Kansas. Take the bull side." Other reports from conservative people were of the same general character.

Shorts in May wheat do not appear to be much perturbed over the prospects of being driven to cover. Yesterday the May was weak with no anxiety displayed, althouhg there is only one more delivery day. In oats the May future was tight and offerings were quickly taken, shorts buying the oats as they were offered instead of bidding the price up. May oats are now selling at considerable premium over the track prices for No. 2 whites and standards, and June oats were offered about 2c lower than the May. It is understood there is still a big short interest, but it is doubted if there will be any attempt to squeeze the remaining shorts. In corn there was no excitement, May closing ⅛c lower than the previous day, while May oats were ⅜c higher at 42½c.

◆

The passage of the so-called "put and call" bill by the house was hailed with quite general satisfaction by the majority of board members. There has always been a certain element opposed to trading in puts and calls, but there is supposed to be a big majority in favor of it. President Andrew said yesterday the passage of the bill was gratifying, as it would place Chicago on a fair basis with exchanges in other states. The present indemnity rule will probably be changed as soon as the governor signs the bill, it being necessary for members to adopt a new rule restoring the old trading conditions. Many restrictions will be placed around the put and call trading as it existed formerly, especially as to the hours in which they can be traded in. It is expected the price of memberships will advance if the trade broadens as looked for.

◆

Cash corn prices were steady to ¼c off. Country offerings were fair but not especially heavy. Some efforts have been made to get corn here in time for delivery and it is a question if arrivals will continue as large after the first of the month as they have this week. The shipping demand was slow. Oats were firm and steady to ½c higher. Shipping demand for oats was fair. Offerings from the country were moderate. Kansas City reported cash corn 1@2c off. Local shipping sales were 80,000 bu corn and 125,000 bu oats.

◆

Bradstreet's reported exports of wheat and flour from both coasts this week at 6,093,000 bu, a decrease of 378,000 bu. Corn shipments were placed at 45,000 bu, decreasing 122,000 bu. Comparative totals follow:

	Wheat and flour.	Corn.
This week	6,093,000	45,000
Last week	6,471,000	167,000
Last year	4,914,000	42,000
Since July 1	220,457,000	38,723,000
Year ago	154,914,000	32,992,000

Some of the local traders in wheat were inclined to be more friendly to the long side because of the bad reports coming from Illinois and Indiana. Ashland reported eight stations in Illinois saying wheat badly damaged. In all sections there appear to be more insect pests than in a number of years. Chinch bugs, Hessian fly, and grasshoppers were reported doing damage in many different sections.

◆

Bids on the call for wheat to arrive were ⅛@⅜c higher; corn, ¼c lower to ½c higher; oats, ½c higher to ½c lower; rye, unchanged to ½c higher.

◆

Deliveries on May contracts were 170,000 bu wheat 25,000 bu corn, 265,000 bu oats, 2,000 brls of pork, and 500 tcs of lard.

◆

◆

◆

U. P. BOARD OFFERS TO SELL S. P. STOCK TO BEST BIDDERS.

Proposal to Auction $126,650,000 Block of Shares Made to Supreme Court—Alternative Plan Suggested.

New York, May 29.—Two alternate plans for the disposition of the $126,650,000 Southern Pacific stock owned by Union Pacific were approved by the Union Pacific board today. The first contemplates selling the stock to highest bidders, after the manner of municipal bonds, a minimum bid to be hereafter designated; the second contemplates placing the stock with a trustee without voting power to be distributed later upon affidavit that the owners possess no Union Pacific stock.

Both plans will be submitted to the court for approval with the request that the company be permitted to elect which it will adopt. Failing court approval, the Union Pacific company will ask that the stock be placed in the hands of a receiver to be named by the court.

After the publication of this alternative plan Union Pacific stock broke from 150¼ to 147⅞, but speedily rallied to 149½. Southern Pacific declined two points, to 95, and rallied a point.

VEAL PRICES RISE; HIGHEST OF YEAR

Calves Sell Up to $11; Receipts So Far Fall 19,000 Head Below Last Month.

Veal calves at Chicago yesterday sold up to $11.00 a hundred pounds, the highest price of the season and $2.50@3.00 higher than at the low time a month ago. There has been a shortage of 19,000 head in calf receipts so far this month, as compared with arrivals the same time a year ago, and packers and shippers were avid buyers at the enhanced values. Beef cattle trade was a shade firmer than on Wednesday, with fresh receipts of only 3,500 head.

Hog market exhibited buoyancy and closed at a gain of fully 5c over Wednesday's average. Receipts of 19,000 head disappointed the trade and the market developed strength as the session progressed, closing at the top. Packers bought 20,800 hogs at an average cost of $8.60, while shippers took 1,500 head, reducing the stale supply on hand to 3,000. Several loads of prime hogs sold at the top price of $8.70.

Sheep and lambs met with a sluggish demand at weak to 10c lower prices, leaving the market 25@75c lower than at the close last week. Lambs topped at $7.55 and wethers at $5.75.

COURTS CLOSE FOR TWO DAYS DESPITE CLOGGED CALENDARS

All Business Suspended Today and Tomorrow—Judges Place Blame on Lawyers, Saying They Won't Attend.

The cause of many congested court calendars was learned yesterday when it was announced that the various courts and the civic and county institutions will be closed all day Saturday as well as Friday, Memorial day.

Several judges in the Superior and Circuit courts yesterday blamed lawyers for this condition, declaring attorneys were averse to practicing law for two hours on Saturday when they might be in the country fishing.

Yesterday an attorney came to the office of THE TRIBUNE and complained that it seemed inconsistent to blame lawyers, inasmuch as the judges had all decided to remain away from court on Saturday.

"Saturday," said Judge Brentano to a reporter, "is a day set apart for the hearing of motions for new trials. Only lawyers are ever in court on that day. The courts close, according to statute, at 12 o'clock, so that there are only two hours allotted for the hearing of motions."

"If there's any blame," said Judge Petit, "it's up to the lawyers. Most of them hate to sandwich in twenty minutes for a motion between two holidays. Besides, many of the judges heard their motions in advance, while others postponed them to Monday or to next week."

POTATO TRADE GROWS WEAK

EGGS DECLINE SLIGHTLY.

Potato market at Chicago yesterday was in an unsettled condition, and prices were unchanged to 5c lower for the day. Receipts were heavy, 96 cars, and buyers secured fair to good stock early at a reduction of 5c a bushel. Holders of fancy dusty rurals refused to accept these bids, however, and while most of them had to carry their stock over, or ship to outside points, several cars were cleared late in the day at 50@55c a bushel, which was as good as could have been secured any time on Wednesday.

New potatoes showed further loss, selling at 80c@$1.05 a bu in carload lots on track. Receipts were 15 cars and the market was weak and slow at the decline.

Egg market developed a weaker undertone and prices were unchanged to a shade lower, graded lots showing the decline. Receipts were 23,450 cases. Butter values held steady, with receipts of 14,314 tubs.

Live fowls sold at a decline of ½c a pound. Receipts were only 3 cars and 1,005 coops, but there were good supplies from earlier in the week and the demand was moderate.
